[illegible]

The th[illegible] in reach[illegible] gloomy [illegible] were to visit [illegible] He [illegible] Arthur meet [illegible] seat, [illegible] to the house of [illegible] with elevator resolved [illegible] to get feeder help[illegible] to hear if his wife had anything [illegible] or simple to say upon the subject. Accordingly, on reaching Berkeley square, he went straight to Mrs. Beaufort, and having relieved [illegible] to Arthur's study, related the [illegible] which had been something [illegible] more [illegible] blood [illegible] greater [illegible] or the ex[illegible] of the dark [illegible] countenance, the [illegible] of the bereaved son, [illegible] gave her very [illegible] apprehensions for Arthur. [illegible] men meet; and [illegible] with her husband in the property [illegible] all means of parental persuasion, the command to guard against such an encounter. But, in the meantime Arthur returned not, and neither [illegible] nor his parents. He had gone [illegible] in a remote suburb of the metropolis, a little hour, himself under [illegible] excitement. He might have [illegible] to the house, or have lost his way amidst some [illegible] haunts of vicious shame; they knew not where to send, or what to suggest. Day already began to dawn, and still he came not. At length, towards five o'clock, a loud rap was heard at the door, and Mr. Beaufort, hearing some bustle in the hall, descended. He saw his son borne into the hall from a hackney coach, by two strangers, pale, bleeding, and apparently insensible. His first thought was, that he had been murdered by [illegible] He uttered a feeble cry, and sank down beside his son.

"Don't be [illegible], sir," said one of the strangers, who seemed an artisan; "I don't think he be much hurt. You sees he was crossing the street, and the coach ran against him; but it did not go over his head; it be only the stones that makes him bleed so; and that's a mercy."

"A providence, sir," said the other man; "but Providence watches over us all, night and day, sleep or wake. Hem! We were passing at the time from the meeting—the odd fellows, sir—and so we took him, and got him a coach; for we found his card in his pocket. He could not speak just then; but the rattling of the coach did him a deal of good, for he groaned—my eyes! how he groaned! did not he, Burrows?"

"It did one's heart good to hear him."

"Run for Astley Cooper—you—go to Brodie. Good Heavens! he is dying. Be quick—quick!" cried Mr. Beaufort to his servants, while Mrs. Beaufort, who had now gained the spot, with greater presence of mind had Arthur conveyed into a room.

"It is a judgment upon me," groaned Beaufort, rolled to the stone of his hall, and left alone with the strangers.

"No, sir, it is not a judgment, it is a providence," said the more sanctimonious and better dressed of the two men: "for, put the question, if it had been a judgment, the wheel would have gone over him; but it didn't; and, whether he dies or not, I shall always say that if it's not a providence, I don't know what is. We have come a long way, sir; and Burrows is a poor man, though I'm well to do."

This hint for money restored Beaufort to his recollection; he put his purse into the nearest hand outstretched to clutch it, and muttered forth something like thanks.

"Sir, may the Lord bless you! and I hope the young gentleman may do well. I am sure you have cause to be thankful that he was within an inch of the wheel; was not he, Burrows? Well it's enough to convert a heathen. But the ways of Providence are mysterious, and that's the truth of it. Good night, sir."

Certainly it did seem as if the curse of Philip was already at its work. An accident almost similar to that which, in the adventure of the blind man, had led Arthur to the clue of Catherine, within twenty-four hours stretched Arthur himself upon his bed. The sorrow Mr. Beaufort had not relieved, was now at his own hearth. But there, were parents and nurses and great physicians and skilful surgeons, and all the army that combine against death,—and there, were ease, and luxury, and kind eyes, and pitying looks, and all that can take the sting from pain, and thus, the very night on which Catherine had died, broken down, and worn out, upon a strange beast, with a feeless doctor, and by the ray of a single candle, the heir to the fortunes once destined to be her son, wrestled also with the grim Tyrant, who seemed, however, scared from his prey by the arts and luxuries which the world of rich men rises up in defiance of the grave.

MESSRS. HOWE & ERRATT, auctioneers, have secured that large and commodious store recently occupied by Mr. W. F. READ THIS TWICE.—Five to thirty drops of Thomas' Eclectric Oil, will cure common Sore Throat. It never fails in Croup. It will cure a Cold or Cough in twenty-four to forty-eight hours. One bottle has cured Bronchitis of eight years' standing; recent cases are cured in three to six days. It has restored the voice where the person has not spoken above a whisper in five years. As an outward application in all cases of pain or laments, nothing like it has ever been known. One bottle will cure any case of Lame Back or Crick in the Back. For diseases of the Spine and Contraction of the Muscles it is unequaled. In Rheumatic or any other pain the first application does you good. It stops Ear Ache and the pain of a Burn in three minutes, and is altogether the best and cheapest medicine ever offered to the people—the cheapest, because it takes so little to do you good. It is composed of six of the best oils known, and nothing but oils. is worth its weight in gold. Why not buy it to-day?—A. B. Des Rochers, assistant postmaster, Arthabaskaville, P.Q., writes:—"Thirteen years ago I was seized by a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I have nearly constantly suffered. After having used "Thomas' Eclectric Oil" for nine days, bathing the forehead, I have been completely cured, and have only used half a bottle. This I can certify under oath, if you wish.—"Rev. J. Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week." Dealers all over the country say, "We have never sold a medicine that has given such complete satisfaction as this."

Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents.

Their Excellencies the Earl and Countess of Dufferin.

These Paperhangings are imported direct from the best Manufacturing Establishments in England, France and United States. Great care has been taken in their selection with regard to colour. The ground tones are soft and pleasing to the eye, especially those toned with silver mica; but above all, they are free from the mineral poisons that many of the tawdry-coloured Paperhangings of the day are surcharged with. The Subscriber's long experience as a colourist, and being thoroughly acquainted with the chemical compound of the pigments used in Painting, enables him to reject, in his selection of Paperhangings, those coloured with poisonous pigments, so deleterious to health. The Public are respectfully invited to examine his STOCK of WALL PAPER before purchasing elsewhere.
