Park Head Man Grows
LARGE POTATOES

varieties of Canso and Keswick potatoes, being grown for 1 year by Rex Cruickshank at Park Head, are bringing a 00 seventy-five pound bags per acre. The Cruickshank cellar, where David is seen holding two giants, is already overflowing, and the Cruickshanks are storing their potato haul in the cellars of good neighbors.—Sun-Times Photo.
