Markdale Won Debate

A debate was held in the United Church here Wednesday evening of last week between Markdale and Inistioge Young People's Societies, in the elimination series of this group of Grey Presbytery. Markdale was declared the winner on the subject, "Resolved, that indifference is a greater hindrance to moral reform than active opposition." The affirmative was taken by Mr. Russel Patterson and Mr. Gordon Acheson of Inistioge, while Miss Jean Stewart and Mr. Crosby Bowes of Markdale upheld the negative side of the argument. It was an exceptionally good debate and was very much enjoyed by the audience, which overflowed the large schoolroom of St. John's United Church. The judges gave their decision in favor of the negative. Mr. H. H. Graham of Vandeleur presided, and the judges were Miss Stewart, Mrs. (Dr.) Murray and Mr. Lawrence.

The next round will be at Vandeleur on Friday, March 4th, when Markdale meets Kimberley in the final for the group. The subject will be, "Resolved that modern youth is deteriorating," and Kimberley will have the affirmative.

Five Children Burned Father Dies in Hospital

VALIANT ATTEMPT AT RESCUE FAILS WHEN STAIRWAY COLLAPSES

A terrible tragedy occurred a few mlies west of the American Sault last week which touches Flesherton, from the fact that the father of the family, which was all but annihilated when their house burned, was a nephew of Postmaster W. W. Trimble of Flesherton. Following is the despatch announcing the disaster:

Five children were burned to death while their father received burns from which he may not recover, in a fire which totally destroyed the homes of Harry Trimble and L. G. Coleman at Rudyard, Mich., at 3.30 o'clock Thursday morning of last week. Only one of the six children in the Trimble family, Bernice, aged 18 months, was saved. The others, all under 10 years of age, perished—three of them going to their deaths when the burning stairs collapsed as the father, aged 32 years, tried to bring them to safety.

The dead children are: Margaret Trimble, aged 10 years; Marjory, aged 8 years; Harry, aged 5 years; Marion, aged 3 years and Dorothy, aged 6 months.

Trimble, who is assistant stationmaster at Rudyard, is given little chance of recovery by the doctors at the Michigan Soo Hospital, where he now lies. His wife lies badly burned at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. R. G. Trimble, of Rudyard.

The whole family was sleeping on the second floor of the house when the fire started, supposedly from an overheated stove in the parlor below them. Awakening to find the house aflame, Trimble roused his wife and the little girl, Bernice, and safely ushered them out of the house. He then re-entered the home and, groping his way through the smoke and flames, gained the second floor, where he took Marion and Dorothy under his arms and bade Harry crawl on hands and knees beside him.

Thus loaded, he sought to return downstairs, but halfway down, the burning staircase, and the three children crashed into a veritable furnace below. Trimble grasped the woodwork and managed to get outside, but he was badly burned. Crying deliriously that he had not even seen Margaret or Marjory when he had been in the house, he attempted to go in a second time, but friends, who realized that he was crazed by his injuries and the nerve strain, prevented him from returning to certain death.

Later, Trimble was rushed to the Soo hospital in a special train where he passed away the same evening.

LITERARY SOCIETY MEETING

The high school literary society held a very interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon of last week. A "mock business" was part of the program and was conducted with a great deal of dignity and severity. Many resolutions for the betterment of the society were passed, one of these being "That we have meetings on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month." The different forms each took part in the program. Form 1 was represented by a reading by Jim Haw and a duet by Mabel Watters and Donalda Sloane. Form 2 contributed a chorus by the entire class and a selection from "Ivanhoe" by Herbert Akins. Murray Inkster, from Form 3, sang a solo and Edna McCallum read a poem. Form 4 contributed a reading by Florence McFadden and a male quartette was much enjoyed. The high school paper "The Astonisher," was read and enjoyed by all.

Collingwood elevator will be enlarged.
