After enjoying good roads since the snow disappeared, the recent fine warm weather has brought the remaining frost out of the ground, and in many places the roads are in bad shape. Western Ontario experienced this condition two and three weeks ago, and apparently it is our turn now.

Bathing Restricted

Memories of the catastrophy of twenty years ago last January, an event long to be remembered when the dam on the Flesher estate, west of town, gave way and allowed the mass of water to rush forward, taking away two other dams and the bridge on the Owen Sound road, were again brought to mind on Fri. last. As we were walking into town from the west we were astounded to see the pond three parts drained of water and visions of another break immediately came to mind. Upon investigation it was discovered to our relief that the owner of the mill, H. A. McCauley had drained the pond in order to make needed repairs to the dam and flume.

During the past year considerable damage has been done to the flume and dam by young people swimming there and in order to prove this Mr. McCauley is obliged to erect a wire fence around the dam in order to keep tresspassers off. Mr. McCauley is sorry to be obliged to do this, but will allow the young people to bathe in their heart's content at other places around the pond, when the warm weather drives the boys and girls to secure relief in its cooling freshness. It is to be hoped that the bathers and others will learn to leave private property alone and not bring further restriction on bathing at the pond.

Buy an Asbestos Roof and save Money

MANY people think Asbestos roofs are expensive. But such is not the case. A roof of Johns-Manville Flexstone Asbestos Shingles, though a trifle higher at first is the most economical roof you can buy, for these reasons:

They are protected against the ever present menace of roof communicated fire; you never will have to spend money on it for—painting, refinishing or sometimes even a whole new roof. This is all eliminated.

Flexstone Asbestos Shingles

They last. The Asbestos, of course, does it. This remarkable mineral, which for untold ages has withstood all the forces of rot and decay, makes the ideal protection against fire, moisture and the wear and tear of the elements.

And with an ornamental surfacing of crushed red, green or blue-black slate, you have a roof that for moderate price, durability, length of service and lasting good looks, cannot be equaled. Insist on Asbestos Shingles for your new house—buy Flexstone.
