Close Timing Makes an Accident Possible

To show the way in which events occur which make an accident we cite an occurrence which took place on Friday last when Mr. Allan McDonald suffered the loss of the point of his little finger on his left hand, while the finger next was cut deeply. Mr. McDonald was cutting limbs from the right hand side of the the tree which had been felled at Armstrong's camp, Osprey township, and Mr. Malcolm Leitch was walking on the pole and cutting the limbs there. When the chopper lops a limb off he at once embeds the blade of the axe into the bark of the tree to secure it while the throws the brush aside. This is a regular occurrence by all who do that work. On Friday Mr. McDonald was cutting on the right hand side of the tree alongside Mr. Leitch and and in some way he lost his balance and put his hand onto the tree to steady himself, and at the same instant Mr. Leitch brought his axe down to embed it into the bark and clipped off the top of Mr. McDonald's little finger and cut a gash in the one alongside. The wound was not serious but the victim is laid off work this week. It happened that only the point of the blade of the axe hit the hand, as otherwise a couple of fingers would have come off in place of the one point.

CARUSO'S TRUCK WAS BURNED ON ROAD

While returning home to Collingwood on Monday evening of last week Mr. Joseph Caruso, fruit man, had an exciting episode when on the road about two miles west of Singhampton. All at once the front of his large truck burst into flames and before they were extinguished it was practically ruined. The fire appeared to originate from back fire which reached the gas tank. Assisted by Mr. English, Mr. Caruso worked hard to save the truck and the load of fruit. Of the latter the greater part was removed before the fire reached it. The front tires were uninjured, but those on the rear wheels were destroyed. Mr. Caruso makes several trips a week to Flesherton and district and as the truck is needed every day at this time of the year, repairs are being made as quickly as possible. The wreck was taken to Collingwood as soon as the loss and insurance adjustments were made.
