The Profit Lies in the Finish

It pays to market cattle with the proper degree of finish. A quality product always commands a premium and is readily saleable at a profitable price. If you have stock which needs a little more time for finishing, and the feed is scarce, see the local manager of the Standard Bank. It is a simple matter to arrange a loan to carry the stock until a favorable market warrants a profitable sale.

This Cat Had Only One Life

It is said that a cat has nine lives, and anyone who has tried to send pussy to her happy mousing grounds will know just why this particularity of the feline race has been handed down from the time of ancient Egyptians, who held the cat as sacred.

We have recently heard of one cat, however, who possessed only one life and that was snuffed out quicker than you could say "scat." This cat belonged to the household of Mr. Alex. McMullen, who lives a couple of miles from town. Mrs. McMullen was scalding out her churn with boiling water, as butter-makers do, to kill the dangerous microbes, and fastened the lid down without thinking of what the dire consequences might be. Pussy in her wandering came close to the churn, when the heavy steam pressure inside blew the plug out of the churn. This struck poor pussy on the neck near her ear, when she crumpled up and passed away without a quiver of a muscle. It was a purr-fectly painless death, and a most remarkable one from every point of view—for a cat.

Did Not Grade Eggs

In the case of John Runstadler of Flesherton, the charge was laid by A. L. Borison of London. Runstadler, it was alleged, had purchased eggs from various retailers and had given them a grading slip for so many dozen of eggs, with a deposit it being understood that these eggs were to be graded later at his warehouse in Flesherton or some other place, and the final grading sent the customer later. Under this arrangement, the customer might find after grading was completed that he owed Mr. Runstadler a balance, or it was just as likely Mr. Runstadler would owe his sustomer. The idea was that deposit was intended to represent as nearly as could be ascertained at the time, the actual value that the eggs would come to, but was not to be regarded as "final" payment. As we understood the inspectors, this method is quite all right, but it was alleged that the slips passed out by Mr. Runstadler were never again referred to by either he or his customer, the inspectors producing several which had balances which never had been collected and so far as they could find out, never would. They charged that this was but a method of getting around the egg-grading regulations and that the defendant was guilty of an offence under the Act.

Magistrate Laidlaw evidently thought so, too, as he assessed the defendant $25 and costs. Mr. Runstadler was not in court, owing to illness, and the magistrate expressed the opinion that if he thought Mr. Runstadler's appearance would clear up anything, he would issue a postponement order, but as the case was pretty well proven, he felt that it would do no good to go any further in the matter.

J. H. McQuarrie of Middlebro and McQuarrie, here, represented the crown in the case against Clements, and P. McCollough ,K. C., of Markdale, against Runstadler.—Durham Chronicle.

Flesherton having dropped out and Corbetton L. O. L. attempted to lift the cup from Orange Valley. Next year it is hoped that other lodges in the county will join in the competition, now that they have seen how others are doing the work.
