The New Ford Car

overcooling at low engine speeds or in cold weather is thus avoided. The motor itself is essentially a low speed motor, developing its maximum power at 2200 r. p. m. This is consistent established Ford practise which always has aimed at securing a minimum amount of piston travel per mile of road travel, with a resultant minimum of strain and wear on the moving parts.

The motor is set in the frame at an angle of 3 and one-third degrees which afford practically a straight line-drive to the rear exle. The clutch comprises four driving and five driven discs which operate without lubrication. A feature of the clutch is the use of ball and roller bearings instead of bushings. These bearings make ror more satisfactory operation, smoother performance and longer life. The steering gear is also unique in the light car field, being of the irreversible worm and sector type with the worm carried on roller bearings which are placed at the top of the spindle bolts, resulting in unusual steering ease.

Transverse semi-elliptic springs are used, and for it Ford engineers claim the following advantages: that the springs contract with the frame at only one point and at the centre line of the chassis with the result that the chassis is subjected to no twising strains even on the worst roads; that it permits full tortue tube drive; that it reduces unsprung weight to a minimum and improves riding qualities: that the spring have only their naural functions of absorbing road shocks to perform; and that danger of uneven application of front wheel brakes is avoided because the front axle is held rigidly at right angles to the centre line of the chassis and there is no possibility of uneven tension upon the brake rods.

The brakes are of special Ford design and operate on the inner surface of subsequential steel drums. All brake parts are cadmium plated as a precaution against rust and each brake is instantaneously adjusted through manipulation of a small adjusting stud on the exterior of each brake drum. Brake pedal or hand lever will apply all four brakes simultaneously. Sixty per cent. of the braking effect is applied to the rear wheels and forty per cent. to the front wheels.

The New Ford car is completely equipped with five steel spoke wheels, Alemite-Zerk chassis lubrication, four hydraulic shock absorbers, speedometer, windshield wiper, rear-view mirror, remote door latch control, etc. There are six body models; Tudor, Fordor, Phaeton, Coupe, Sport Coupe, Sport Roadster, each available in a number of color options. Mr. Down expects to have Tudor and Phaeton models on display here soon.

PORTLAW

After a lengthy illness extending over a year and a half Mr. William J. Reid, one of the most respected residents of this part passed over the borderland to the spirit world on Wednesday, November, 23rd. Deceased had spent nearly all his life in this community, and was liked by neighbors and all who had dealings with him. Among those who are left to mourn are his devoted wife and two daughters and two sons, namely: Mrs. Walter Croft, Mrs. Gilbert Little Mr. Edgar Reid of the West and Mr. Albert Reid of home. The funeral took place the following Friday to Mount Zion cemetery and was largely attended. The service in the church was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Many beautiful floral tributes conveyed sentiments of esteem from the church and friends.

MARKDALE PEOPLE IN CAR SMASH

Orangeville Sun

An auto accident occurred near Mono College yesterday afternoon that fortunately did not result as seriously as it might have been.

A new Star sedan, owned and driven by H. J. Westran of Orillia, with whom were T. L. Mercer, and two young women of Markdale was coming down the Prince of Wales road at a fair clip and when at No. 5 sideroad, south of the stone schoolhouse, a collision occured with a car driven by Jimmy O'Brien, who came up the sideroad in a comparitively new Overland six. The cars came together with a bang. The sedan turned over and was so badly smashed that it was only fit for junk. How the four occupants escaped injury is hard to understand. O'Brien's car was also badly damaged.

A summons has been issued forO'-Brien to appear in the police court on Saturday of next week to answer a charge of criminal negligence. O'-Brien claims that he had already started down the highway when the sedan came along at a more rapid rate, he says, and tried to pass him on the wrong side, which caused the wreck. It should be stated here that Provincial Constable Jos. Nelson said none of the parties concerned were under the influence of liquor.
