Bob Goes to the Pen

Sentence of Ten Years and Thirty Lashes Stands—Appeal is Abandoned

Bob Cook, who was sentenced to a term of 10 years in the Kingston penitentiary and thirty lashes by Mr. Justice Logie at the Duffenin fall assizes last October, was taken to Kingston to begin serving his term, After being sentenced Cook entered an appeal, but this action has evidently been abandoned.

A Stormy Career

Twenty years ago Bob Cook blossomed out as a "bad man" and for some years he was in all kinds of trouble and served a couple of terms in the pen. He was seriously wounded in the great war and after he returned he located on a swamp farm in East Garafraxa. During the O. T. A. years he ran a private distillery and was credited with manufacturing a high grade liquor. He was caught several times and paid heavy fines and finally retired. The last offence for which he was sent down was the seduction of a young girl named McCollough, whose parents lived nearby. After the passing of the sentence Bob was placed in the Orangeville jail, but in a few days he scaled the walls and gained his liberty. Provincial Constable Nelson arrested him at the point of a gun shortly afterwards and Bob was taken to the Toronto jail for safekeeping. Two months ago he was stricken with pneumonia and for several days was at the point of death but his wonderful constitution pulled him through and now he goes to prison for a long, long term.—Orangeville Sun.

BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING

The Gananoque town council evidently believe in the power of the printer's ink. The sum of $750.00 has been appropriated for publicity purposes, and turned over to the board of trade, who will launch an aggressive publicity campaign forthwith. It is safe to say that good results will follow.

A young man in Schomberg is credited with eating fifty eggs on Easter Sunday. He got away with 30 during the day, and, on a wager, ate twenty more in the evening. What kind of a hog would you call him?
