Ontario Grew This Man

A visitor to Lucknow last week, who attracted much attention was Roderick McKenzie the Ashfield giant, who had come up from Kansas Mo., to see his father, Mr Neil McKenzie, who is seriously ill at Goderich. Little wonder that Mr McKenzie should attract much attention when he appears on the street of town or city. He is one of the biggest men in the world—7 ft., 4 ins in height, and weighing 428 pounds Unlike many men of unusual size, he is straight and well proportioned. He is 54 years of age and enjoys good health, is an intelligent and interesting conversationalist, and he has much of interese to talk about as he has traveled all over the civilized world.

CARE OF THE TRACTOR

Practical Advice About Running This Farm Machine.

House the Tractor—It Must Be Kept Clean—Be Careful In Lubricating With Oils and Grease — Air Cleaning.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In the year 1893 the Hart-Parr Co. built their first tractor. During 1910 there were about 1,300 tractors sold in the United States, and in 1920 this number was increased to 175,000. This year the sales are greater than the total for the past ten years, many dealers being sold out in the first four months of the year. These figures are a pretty fair indication that the tractor is taking its place as a farm implement. Farm implements generally have a very short life, and tractor depreciation is usually reckoned at from 20 to 25 per cent.

Housing.

A good tractor deserves the best of protection and when not in use or stored for the winter should be in a shed that is weather tight. If it is to be left in the field over night it should be covered with a waterproof canvas to properly protect the wiring, magneto, etc.

Cleaning.

Exposure is not by any means the only ill-treatment to which a tractor is subjected. Have you not often seen them so covered with dirt and grease that you wonder how they can carry the extra load? If the work of carrying it was all it would not be so bad, but the great trouble with these dirt accumulations is that sooner or later the grit is going to work into the bearings and get into the carburetor, with the result that you have ground-out bushings and scored cylinders. To clean off these accumulations each day will take but a few moments and pay you well. To allow them to stand for a week or so means that the heat of the engine will burn them and make their removal a very difficult matter.

Lubricating.

Oil in a gas engine or tractor serves three purposes: 1, general lubrication; 2, compression seal in the cylinder; 3, cooling

For each part of an engine that requires oil there must be an adequate supply or that part is going to fail sooner or later. It has been said that not one man in a hundred knows every oil hole on his tractor. This is nearer the truth than may be imagined, and part of the fault lies with the manufacturer who places oil holes or grease cups in places where it would almost require a detective to find them. You must study your oiling chart, and then follow the system of oiling as laid down in your tractor manual. Give the manufacturer credit for knowing the oiling needs of his product. Oils and greases should be bought most carefully. Each manufacturer will tell you what oil to use in his particular machine. The reason different tractors call for different oils is because they differ in construction, speed and operating temperature. To make sure that you are getting the oil recommended, buy it in sealed containers.

Mechanical Oilers.

Some tractors are equipped with mechanical oilers. In these cases fresh oil is constantly supplied to certain parts. These oilers work so well that they are often forgotten. Not long ago a tractor operator heard one of his cylinders blowing gas past the piston. On examination it was found that the piston was dry and badly scored. Further examination revealed the fact that the little pump in the oiler which should have been supplying oil to that cylinder had stopped working. The oiler was drained and washed out well with kerosene. Then it was turned out and fresh oil put into the oiler. It was again turned by hand and again that particular pump did not work. The oiler was now removed and taken apart when, after quite a careful search, a small bit of chaff was found in one of the fine oil passages. The bit of chaff would let the thin kerosene pass but stopped the thick cylinder oil.

Equal care as to cleanliness should be observed as to greases. If grit is on your hands or whatever you are using to fill the grease cups with, you may be sure you are going to have scored bearings. In filling the cups see that there is no air left in them and then turn them down until you see grease squeezed out of the bearing. This makes sure that it is getting where it will do good. It is wasting money to buy a low grade grease because they consist mainly of a low grade soap and a large amount of water and will freeze. Cheap greases also contain acid fats and are certain to spoil the highly-finished surfaces of anti-friction bearings.

Air Cleaning.

Do not neglect the air cleaner. If water is used, for example, it should be cleaned out at noon and again in the evening. It is very important to not allow it to get dry. Old style cleaners drew the air through felt pads. This type should be discarded and a more modern one put in its place. In some circumstances it is possible to ruin a tractor in two days by working it without the washer performing its functions.

The above does not pretend to cover all the points in tractor care, but does emphasize those that are most commonly neglected.—E. W. Kendall, Farm Mechanics' Dept., O. A. College, Guelph.

BLYTH'S CORNERS

Cutting wood in the bush this last day of January and the day previous with coat and vest off and sleeves rolled, will give our western friends a glimpse of the balmy weather old Ontario is enjoying.

The limited amount of snow on the roads generally this winter, should convince the slowest pathmaster of the necessity of leaving the ditches along high graded roads with a good smooth bottom wide enough for a sleigh to travel on, as most of the teaming done so far, has been largely in the ditches. Then again along roads which are bad for filling in with snow, the road side should be freed from stones and nicely levelled off These two crude suggestions if acted upon, would in our humble opinion, be a great boon to the travelling public.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed in Knox Ch. on Sunday next, Feb. 5th. Preparatory service on Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. Let there be a grand rally to the Friday service.

Mr Jas. Watson has returned from spending a week at his sister-in-law's, Mrs Thos Cook, Markdale.

(Our correspondent has forwarded us a report of the Shipping Association meeting on Thursday last but as another write up already in type appears on 1st page, we are omitting this one Thanks all the same.—Ed.)
