CLOTHING

The temperature of the human body remains at practically the same degree as long as the individual is well. This is called the normal temperature. Any change from this normal temperature is a signal that there is something wrong with the human machine.

The temperature is controlled by a centre in the brain. When the body becomes too warm, the arteries of the skin are dilated, more blood is thus brought to the surface, perspiration incrases and there follows a cooling of the body. If the body is too cool, the arteries are entracted, perspiration is decreased and the heat of the body conserved.

The food we eat is partly used up to keep up the heat of the body. In Canada, it is necessary to wear sufficient clothing most of the year to conserve our body heat and to maintain the normal temperature of the body.

The problem of what clothing to wear is made difficult because we go from the heated indoors to the cold outdoors. When indoors, we should not wear thec lothing required to keep us warm outdoors. Under such condition, the individual perspires freely, the skin and clothing become damp and, as a result, he is chilled when he goes out.

Avoid over-clothing when indoors. Children should not go to school wearing two sets of underwear and several sweaters. Warm schools and offices are usually at summer temperatures. The warm extra clothing should be kept for outdoors.

Questios cocerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

Why Motorists Refuse To Pick Up Walkers

Circumstantial evidence is not always reliable. Off hand it must be admitted that to pass a weary pedestrian with a nice car, in cold blood, without asking him or her to hop in and have a lift, is hard-harted. A real fellow always shuts his eyes and turns his back when going by a man or woman walking. It is, however, not so cold blooded as it appears. In the first place, so far as men are concerned, not a few kind-hearted auto drivers and owners have got a thumping on the head or behind the ear from one of these innocent passengers, and when they came to, found their cash absent while the lumps on their anatomy were present.

One day, just east of Prescott a gentleman with red blood in his veins took one of these innocent-looking pedestrians into his car, and as the man was driving himself, he had the passenger sit with him. No thumping took place, but when the owner of the car went to pay his hotel bill at the Chateau he discovered that his money had gone with his new found friend.

There is a reason, too, for not helping out even the best looking lady on the road. The law in Ontario seems to be a joke regarding the liability of automobile owners, for example, if your chauffeur makes a nut of himself the owner of the car is responsible, no matter whether the latter was in the car or not. The law holds that the owner of a car hasn't any business to have a fool chauffeur; and, anyway, little if anything could be collected from some of the chauffeurs and somebody must be liable; so the owner is the goat. But there is a silly section in the Act somewhere, which provides that if John Smith asked his neighbor, Bill Brown, to go for a ride and the latter complies, Smith is responsible if his friend gets hurt in any accident that may take place. Few there be who would be such mean cusses as to take advantage of this provision in the law, but several cases are on record of this being done.

These are the reasons, and they're good ones, why men, who otherwise would gladly give pedestrians a lift, cannot afford to do so, although it hurts their felings every time they pass on the road a person who, under other conditions the would be glad to assist.

The Late Fred Sergeant

Mr. Fred Sargeant, well known and highly respected all over this district passed away at his late residence, on the provincial highway, just a short distance north of Markdale. Deceased had been ailing for about three years and last spring was very seriously ill. During the summer he improved somewhat and was able to be about, but some two weeks ago he again became ill, this time with fatal results. His death was not unexpected. The late Mr. Sargeant was born in Sutton, England, February 19, 1849, and was the eldest of a large family. He came to Canada in 1870 settling at Barrie, and the following year his parents and other members of the family joined him. Sometime later he removed to Flesherton where he was married to Miss Marie Burns in 1881. Soon afterwards he came to Markdale and opened a butcher shop on Main street, where he did a succesful business until about 1912, when he retired to his farm just north of the village, where he resided until his death. He was a man of honor and integrity, an active member of Annesley Church, and of the I. O. O. F., and was generally known as a faithful and devoted husband and father. He is survived by two sons, C. A. Sargeant of Scranton, Pa., and W. B. Sargeant, of Chatham; and two daughters, Retta and Ruby at home. He also leaves six brothers, Walter A. J., and Eben, all of Barrie; Sam of Orillia, James of Toronto, Charles of New Westminster, B. C., also one sister, Mrs. M. Flesher, Mangola, Alta. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. of Markdale.

Teacher "We will have school half a day Friday morning."
Pupils "Hurrah! Hurrah!"

Sought As Candidate

Hon. Dr. Jamieson, chairman of the Mother's Allowance Commission and former Speaker of the Legislature and member for South Grey, is being again urged to contest his old seat in the interests of the Conservative party at the coming general election. Dr. Jamieson lost his seat to Farquhar Oliver at the last election, when the U.F.O. vote was sufficient protest against the Liquor Control policy of the Government. That there is a strong possibility that Dr. Jamieson will run again seems evident from the fact that his appointment to the Allowance Commission is only temporary in nature.

Principal "Why do you close your eyes when I kiss you?"
Teacher "So my pupils won't see me."
