

Mrs. Layne Paton, Craft Specialist (standing) far right, and Miss Nancy Simpson (standing) of the Home Economics Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, with girls of the Craft class at the Girls' Conference.

The Girls Said — cont'd. from page 10

The 4-H Conference at Guelph University started off with a busy schedule and kept it up throughout the whole conference.

The get-acquainted party held in the basement of War Memorial Hall on the first night was an excellent opportunity to meet all the girls representing the different districts of Ontario.

All the talks and groups were interesting and listening to the Miniature Carillon for the first time was a pleasure. Perhaps the worst part of the whole conference was the hot, humid weather we had for the majority of the time.

All the girls were friendly, had a ready smile and were willing to talk with you at any time. This quality was what made the conference the success it was. Without it it is hard to say how it would have turned out.

Marilyn Lahti
Sudbury District

This conference was just great, a bit rushed at times though, and really hot.

Dr. Chapman is a very interesting speaker and I'd like to have the opportunity of hearing her again.

From this conference I have gained an immense liking for the Guelph campus and many new friends.

I hope to see these conferences continue and by-the-way, the pizzas in Guelph are great!

Kathy Freeman
Manitoulin Island

Personally, this conference was a rewarding experience. I know that my English is not very good but I tried hard. Since I'm French and that all my 4-H Units have been taught only in this language but by exchanging ideals and customs of our own area and gaining others. As interest group, effective speaking provided a field of activity — voice, tone, etc.

I think the conference inspired my mind to a new thinking. Our role as women gradually changes and that I'll try to bridge.

As a woman in the world we need to be individuals to others and "bridge" the discrimination existing between the female role and the male's role. We observed by means of a panel discussion that our lives depend upon