Reduce Buffalo Herd At Elk Island Park

Another Instance of Canada Bringing Back Buffalo to Native Haunts

A gratifying feature of Canada's adventue in bringing back the buffalo is the way in which the different herds continue to multiply and to expand beyond the capacity of their once ample grazing ranges. The case of the main herd at Wainwright, Alta., in which there was an increase from about 700 head to 17,000 head in eighteen years has often been cited This year 1,088 young buffalo were sent to the Wood Buffalo park near Fort Smith, Northwest territories, and of the herd at Elk Island park, two hundred animals have been slaughtered and their carcasses and hides disposed of commercially. That two hundred buffalo could be disposed of without wiping out the entire herd at Elk Island park will surprise most people who have not closely followed this experiment. Nor is this surprise to be wondered at. When the original herd was purchased from Michael Pablo, speedy action had to be taken to receive them. Seventy miles of stout wire fencing, such as encloses the Buffalo park at Wainwright, could not be erected overnight and the first shipment received from Montana was placed in Elk Island park, a fenced wild animal enclosure, fifty-one square miles in area, about 37 miles northeast of Edmonton. As soon as the fencing at Wainwright was completed the shipment was moved to the Buffalo park, but about fifty head, which could not be readily rounded up, were left at Elk Island to roam with the deer, wapiti, and other animals there. These few animals throve like those at Wainwright and this summer a survey showed that the fifty buffalo had increased to about eight hundred. This number, considering the other animals in the park was felt to be beyond the grazing capacity of the area and the disposal of two hundred was deemed advisable.

Unexpectedly keen interest has been shown by citizens in the fact that nutritious buffalo meat in limited quantities and a few choice robes and heads are from time to time available, but attention is chiefly centered in the success achieved in bringing back the buffalo in the prairie regions and in the establishment of a great herd in the far north, where the one-time lord of the plains will play a lage part in the development of Northern Canada. —Natural Resources Bulletin.

License Fee Reduced

The joint fee for standard hotel license and light beer permit for the year beginning November, 1928, has been reduced by the Provincial Government to $10. Mention of this was made in the annual report submitted at the meeting of the Hotel Association of Ontario. This stated it would be recalled that "a great wave of protest was received from all parts of the province over the fee to sell light beer having been increased from $10 to $20 per annum." This increase, it was felt, was unwarranted, especially as under the Liquor Control Act beer warehouses had been established for the sale of strong beer which reduced the demand for light beer to a minimum.

Complaint was made in the report that the hotel keepers in the province are still having to combat the unfair competition of private houses catering to tourist traffic. It has been previously urged that there should be legislation to compel private houses advertising "tourist accommodation" to comply with regulations which would call for rigid registration of guests and in many ways eliminate certain unfavorable conditions. In the report it was declared "we desire to again urge upon the government the absolute necessity of some regulations to govern private houses catering to transient traffic, believing, as we do, that the present conditions are detrimental to the best moral interests of our people."

$200 For 12 Turkeys

Thursday night. November 8th. Mr. T. Lowe, west of Dobbinton, had 12 turkeys stolen from his poultry house. Lowe will hold the record for some time for the price he received for the birds, as on looking around the pen for traces of the thieves, he found a purse containing $200.00 Mr. Lowe has advertised in the Chesley Enterprise, where he states that the owner can have his purse, for the satisfaction he would get in having a look at the "cur." He would also like to publish the thief's name in the paper and also get a picture of him so that he could hang its up in his barn to scare the rats.

An Orillia gardener W. T. V. Lee, took from his garden 3 cauliflowers aveaging over eight pounds each.

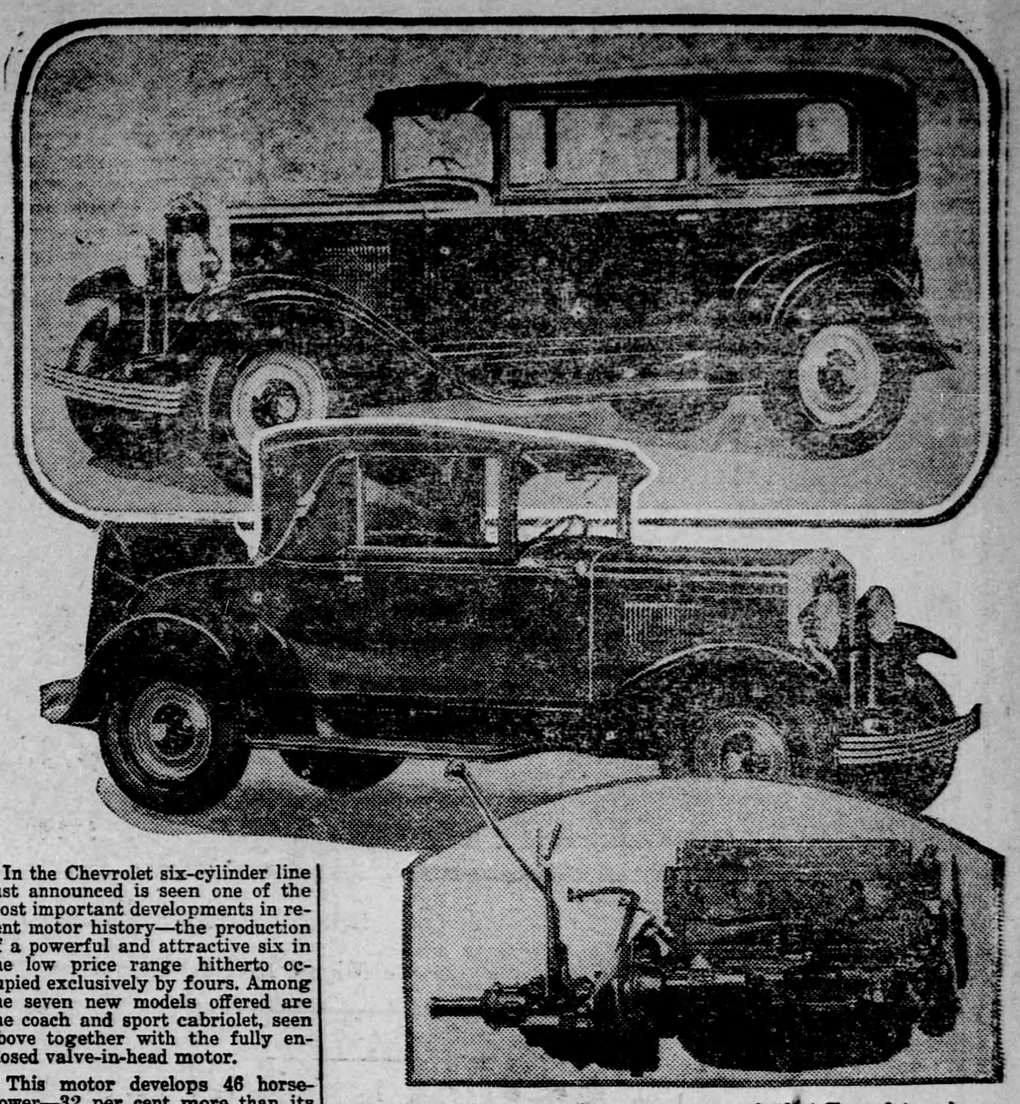
A Peculiar Case

A short time ago the Massey-Harris Company gave instructions to mail a bonus cheque for $45 to their agent at Windsor. The young lady in the Toronto office, whose duty it was to mail the cheque, made a mistake and sent the cheque to W. J. Hunter, living near Conn, in Wellington County. Instead of returning the cheque, Hunter held it for a few days and then went to Shelburne and had a Jew cash it for him. In due time the authorities ran down the cheque and got after Hunter, who was haled before Magistrate Falconer in Shelburne on Tuesday. As Huntter had not been in trouble before he was let off on suspended sentence for two years upon making a full restitution to the company and shouldering the court costs.—Orangeville Banner.

Charged with having and consuming rubbing alcohol in other than a private place, Jerry Flynn of Southampton appeared before Magistrate Walker and was sentenced to serve one month in the county jail at Walkerton. Flynn was caught with the liquid by Prov. Constable Widmeyer.

THE NEW CHEVROLET



In the Chevrolet six-cylinder line just announced is seen one of the most important developments in recent motor history—the production of a powerful and attractive six in the low price range hitherto occupied exclusively by fours. Among the seven new models offered are the coach and sport cabriolet, seen above together with the fully enclosed valve-in-head motor.

This motor develops 46 horsepower—32 per cent more than its four-cylinder predecessor. The factory states that "speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements."

Notable features are gasoline pump instead of vacuum tank feed, adjustable driver's seat, water temperature gauge on dash, and special accelerating pump which operates when the accelerator is depressed.

The announcement of the new car reveals that Chevrolet engineers began four years ago the research work, planning and proving ground testing which culminated in the new car. More than 100 different motors are said to have been built and tested.
