THE RIGHT WAY

No increase in taxation was ever popular. Certainly the addition to the gasoline tax which will come into effect this year will not be any exception. At the same time improved highways have to be paid for somehow and the man who uses them the most should pay the most for their construction and maintenance. The more a car owner travels over the road the more he benefits thereby. Accordingly the fairest way to assess him is on his mileage as determined by the consumption of gasoline. Looked at in this light the increased gas tax is an equitable way of raising some of the huge revenue needed to keep up the provincial highways department.

On a recent Saturday night thieves entered Frenche's hardware store at Elora and stole two of the best guns in the shop, pocket knives, flashlights and other articles. The same robbers robbed two garages, Hammill's and Thomas' and stole tires and ac-

Flesherton Lost Again

Flesherton Intermediate O. H. A. team lost on the home ice to the Markdale Maroons, a one-sided score again, 7-0. At times some good hockey was played, but generally the game lagged and the interest dropped to a considerable extent. Harris Rife of Walkerton handled the game in a satisfactory manner and handed out six penalties to Markdale and two to Flesherton. It was mainly long shots that beat Allen, the new Flesherton goaler, only two being from close in and he had no chance to save. The locals rained dozens of shots at Wright, the Maroon net guardian, and he withstood their shocks with utmost ease.

Flesherton plays the return game in Markdale this Thursday night and Durham comes back here Thursday night of next week, January 31.

The lineup for Monday night's game was as follows:-

Markdale—Goal, Wright; Defence, Mercer and Merriam; Wings, McFarlane and Woods; Centre, Burnside; Alts., Kelly and Henry.

Flesherton—Goal, Allen, Defence, Thurston and G. McTavish; Wings, Boyd and C. McTavish; Centre, Nuhn; Alts., McDonald and Wellwood.

Referee — H. Rife, Walkerton.

Broke Knee Cap

Harry Wellwood of Dundalk, playing for the local hockey team Monday evening fell and crashed into the boards at the side of the rink and fractured the cap of his left knee. First aid was given at the rink and the sufferer was removed to his home at Dundalk in Leslie Watson's snow car, in which he had come to the game. It is expected that Harry will have to go to the hospital for treatment. It was an unfortunate occurrence and his irfends here express the wish that there will be no permanent injury to the knee. It was Harry's first appearance with the local club.

Supplies for the 150 inhabitants of the lonely little island of Tristiam da Cunha in the southern Atlantic not far from St. Helena are being collected by Montreal chapters of the I.D.O.E. and will be delivered in February by the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of Athol." This great liner, making a cruise of South America and Africa, is one of the few vessels to call at this isolated point. The visit is one of the unique features of the cruise for the passengers and the event of the year for the inhabitants of the island.

years of age. The maximum paid her was $30 a month in the country districts, $35 in towns and $40 in cities. The difference in living conditions made the graded scale necessary. A mother received $5 a month for each additional child. It is stipulated that each child shall receive a proper education, and it is required by the law that no child not attending school could receive any benefits.

There had natuurally been cases where unscrupulous mothers had attempted to send some of her children out to work and also collect the grant, but the introduction of a card system had pretty well put a stop to this practice. Now the mother was required to send in a card monthly showing the number of days each child attended school, and this card had to be signed by the principal of the school.

The public sometimes gathered erroneous ideas of the workings of the Act and oftentimes were not aware of the requirements to receive the grant. Grants were given to widows, to those who had been deserted by their husbands and nothing had been heard of them for a period of five years, foster mothers, but not to widows with only one child. The Mothers' Allowance Act was costing the province from $6000 to $7000 a day, and the amount was increasing faster than the population. This was due to some extent owing to many who were entitled years ago to the grant not having heard of it until recently.

Grey County alone receives $20,000 annually from the fund, fifty per cent. of which is paid by the county. In the whole province there was only one instance on record where any municipality complained of having to pay. In some of the northern sections of the province where the population was sparse and the organization not complete, the government paid all, as it was not felt that any deserving mother with children should suffer because she lived in an outlying district. The Act also makes provision for the payment of grants for the upkeep of step-children.

Dr. Jamieson compared the cost of administration of the Act with that of some similar movements. Some, he said, cost roughly 50 per cent. of the amount received. In 1925-26 the cost of administration for the Mothers' Allowance Act was 3.93 per cent., in 1926-27 it was 3.7, and in 1927-28 it had droped to 3.5 per cent. He had hopes that he would ultimately bring the cost of administration down to 3 per cent. or even lower.

Dr. Jamieson told of many pathetic circumstances that had come under his personal observation,others that had come under observation of other members of the Commission and read letters from different parts of the province telling of the help that the small grant from the Mothers' Allowance fund had been in the rearing of a little family.

It was not the intention of the Commission to grant a mother sufficient money to live without further effort. The intention was to give the mother sufficient help that if she were thrift and industrious she would be able to keep her small family together under the home roof, for, who should have the rearing of her own little flock—not some charitable institution.

The Commission was very strict in inquiring as to the financial standing of prospective grantees. He told of one woman who had been left some $4000 insurance money. She bought a car, an expensive radio machine and other luxuries—and then applied to the Commission for help. She did not get it.

There was little doubt that the audience, following the close of Dr. Jamieson's address, had an altogether different conception of the work, and the help, and the necessity for a Commission such as this. Fortunately the rural districts were not so much in need as the larger centres, or those rural sections back from the unpopulated areas, but with the first-hand knowledge given them by the speaker all doubt as to the ineffeciency of the Commission, if such existed, was removed.

There is no locality that knows Dr. Jamieson like his home town of Durham. Here he is known as a conscientious citizen, and as a man who, when once he undertakes a work, does not rest until he makes a success of it. In his address on Tuesday night he indulged in no oratory. He told his story in his own simple manner, but behind this manner was a sincerity that was unmistakeable. His story of the work of the Commission has done more than he knows in furthering its aims in this community and many who possibly entertained the idea previously that the Mothers' Allowance Commission was a government hobby went away knowing that they had been mistaken and had misjudged one of the best and farthest-reaching of Ontario's charities.
