A young lady of our acquaintance when passing through Kitchener one day recently, left a large purse containing $22 in cash, a valuable string of pearl beads, fountain pen and other things, hanging on the door in the civic rest room. When fifteen miles away she discovered her loss and communicated with the Kitchener police. Two days afterwards a telephone message informed her that the purse had been found by a young girl. It is refreshing to know that there exists a young girl who could resist the temptation to hang onto a string of pearls.. Had there been nothing but money in the purse the handing of the find over to the police would not have seemed so remarkable an event.

Cost Will Be Heavy

Repairs to the damage wrought by the heavy floods are going ahead and within a few days will be fairly well completed. A six foot culvert is being placed at the fill on the Eugenia road, where very little water runs, even in the spring. Mr. A. F. Pedlar informs us that culvert has been fallen in for years and no water could escape by seepage. Then a five foot steel culvert has been placed in the washout at the head of the pond, where a creek is always flowing, draining the large section of country to the south. H. A. McCauley has strengthened his dam that should last for many years yet.

The timber of the bridges and culverts washed out in the valley has been located and will be returned to their respective places. Mr. H. Patton, Artemesia township road superintendent, reports that the estimate for repairing the washouts of roads and culverts and the loss of a bridge on Herb Nicholl's sideroad would amount to approximately $3700. He also stated that no bridge, culvert or fill, built in 1928 under the new system was washed out in the recent heavy rains.

Mr. Wm. Moore this week has the Provincial road maintainer at work repairing the road on his beat which has been in bad condition on account of the heavy rains. There has been little through traffic to Toronto the past week or so on account of the impassable condition of the road at Caledon, but should improve from now on.

Golden Wedding

Wednesday of last week, April 10, was a red-letter day for two esteemed citizens of Flesherton, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Crossley, it being the 50th anniversary of their wedding. In the afternoon of that day, Mrs. Oscar Phillips and Mrs. W. A. Hawken called on Mr. and Mrs. Crossley and on behalf of the citizens of Flesherton and various organizations, presented them with a purse, containing fifty dollars in gold. Mrs. J. P. Ottewell and Mrs. D. Williams also called and presented them with ten dollars from the Baptist Church Mission Circle. Most of the family were present to celebrate the day. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Crossley entertained two of the former's old school mates, in the person of Mrs. Emma Waters (nee Emma Merrick) and Ye Editor at a lavish tea, when the old school days were gone over and pranks of youth recounted. During the evening very mny citizens called and tendered their felicitations to the "happy couple," wishing them many returns of the day.

Fifty years ago Mr. Crossley entered into matrimonial partnership with Charlotte Spiker of Duncan and those who knew this estimable family will certainly acknowledge that the partnership has been most happy to the principals concerned but also of the right kind when the interests of humanity at large are considered. They have been good citizens, and The Advance is pleased to add its well wishes for the health and happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Crossley for many years to come. We are also exceedingly pleased to note that Mr. Crossley is successfully overcoming the serious illness with which h has been battling during the past winter.

Constable Is Freed

From all the evidence adduced I believe the circumstances warranted the accused in believing he had a right to do what he did," said County Judge W. D. Swayze last Friday at Lindsay, in discharging Robert Purvis, a Provincial Police officer, who came up for judgment on the charge of shooting at Peter Brennan with intent to maim him near Bolsover on February 16.

The case was heard on March 28, and his Honor then reserved his decision.

Brennan, with Orval Shaw, "Skunk's Misery" fugitive, escaped from Kent County jail, in December last. The former was serving a term for vagrancy and the latter was awaiting removal to the Ontario Reformatory to serve a sentence for violation of parole and escaping from custody. Both men were encountered by five Privincial officers near Bolsover in the early hours of February 16. Several shots were fired in their direction when they attempted to make a getaway. Shaw escaped, but Brennan was fatally shot. Purvis claimed he acted in self defence and aimed at Brennan's legs, with no intention of killing him.

The judge stated: "I come to this conclusion with some hesitation, owing to the fatal results which followed the shooting by the accused, but believe he acted in good faith in the discharge of his duty, and believing that shooting was the last resort to enable him to place the deceased Brennan under arrest after all other efforts had failed. This is a matter of judgment on the part of the one taking the step. His act may have been hasty, but I would not say that, in the circumstances surrounding him at the time of the shooting, together with previous reports and warnings, his judgment was so erroneous as to make him liable under the charge laid—while the absence of any of these circumstances would have done so.

"The accused should be warned how dangerous it is to make use of firearms in endeavoring to make an arrest. You have taken a human life which, without justification, is the most serious of all offenses. I am satisfied that there was no intention on your part that what you did should have the result which followed in the case. I am satisfied that you have already suffered and will suffer more in regret and remorse than any punishment I might be permitted to impose upon you. This should be a warning to all other constables of the danger of using firearms in making an arrest, which is only permitted as a last resort where all other efforts fail, and should not be restored to where the accused is charged with minor offenses."

"You have taken a humble life, which, without justification, is the most serious offence," he said, when addressing Purvis. The Court was satisfied that accused had no intention to kill, but added that Purvis would continue to suffer in regret and remorse more than any penalty that might have been imposed.
