A Big New Town Sedan By Ford

The new DeLuxe Town Sedan by Ford is on display at the showrooms of H. Down & Sons, and an entirely different conception of motor car values is unfolded to the public. The only objection ever raised to the new Ford car was some people wanted more room in the rear. This beautiful DeLuxe Sedan is bigger, longer, and wider, and carries an air of distiction, a richness of appointments, never embodied in any low priced automobile. Like the introduction of the New Ford, it sets an entirely new standard of values. It is DeLuxe in every way. You must make it a point to see this newest Ford at once. One wonders how such a change could be made—wonders how any manufacturer could present such a luxurious automobile at such a price.

The body is 5½ inches longer and 4 inches wider. The lines are low, long and straight and this suggestion is emphasized by the smart French roof quarters and the belted moulding which runs sharply back from the radiator and encircles the entire body. The doors are exceptionally wide and exceptional headroom is obtained by dropping the floor. A nickel strip divides the cowl and nickel cowl lamps to complete this most beautiful of standard Fords. The now car is of the six window type.

The driver's seat is wide and deep ad completely cushioned and is adjustable by means of a small inconspecuous handle. The rear seat is particularly roomy. The upholstering is Lincoln cloth and presents a luxurious appearance as the interior is trimmed throughout in harmonizing materials of rich texture. Scroll bronze door handles and remote controls, grey window frames with garnish moldings in mahogany finish are in perfect keeping with the car ensemble. Silk curtains, a flexible robe rail, overhead indirect lighting and special pockets with side and centre arm rests, raises this car above all ordinary cars in its field.

THINK — You can obtain luxury only available heretofore in the world's most expensive automobile, such as Houdaille Hydraulics, Lincoln steering, Lincoln transmission, full three-quarter differential, plus Ford's standardized service, and now, plus finest luxury at prices only Ford's mass production genius can create.

Everybody welcome—see the new Ford.

"Where Quality is Higher Than Price"

Recalling Celebration

took a less peaceful aspect as antiquated shot guns, old muzzle loaders that might explode on the first discharge, were being prepared for the morning fray, while down at the drill shed the boys of old No. 6 Company were beginning, already, to liven the scene with their scarlet jackets. In due time, and with the snap that was imbued into them by their First Lieutenant, who had been in the Royal Irish Constabulary, responded promptly as the bugler sounded the "Fall In!"

On the opposite side of the village came warriors of different types, some with war paint and feathers, others with buckskin or other leather jackets, that smacked of the outlying settlements where the fringe of civilization and constituted authority and modern progress reached into the wilderness to raise the standard of living and reclaim for greater use of man the vast Canadian hinterland(with her undreamed wealth of natural resources. But this village was not on the fringe, as it had been only a century before—then why this war-like preparation?

Looking closely among the men who were gathering — some with stealthy Indian tread—we recognize two who were outstanding as leaders. One had raven black hair, and swarthy complexion, with clear blue eyes—the editor of the local paper; thet other of more stalwart build, and the genial smiling face that won the attention of his class at Sunday School, after a week of constant and consistent confidence of the public as he dealth out to them their supply of meat with many a free heart.

What do these men mean? Is this rebellion?

Calm your fears! Our story treats of 1886 and this is preparation for a reproduction of the decisive battle of the North-West Rebellion in 1885—Batoche. The leaders, referred to, were to represent Louis Reil and Dumont.

With their forces well instructed and skillfully lead they crossed the river that bears a name made famous in European history in 1690, when a French tyrant, after massacreing a million of this loyal and industrious, albeit, unconquerable subjects, threatened to drive all freedom out of Europe, till his plan was thwarted by the defeat of his chief satellite by a Prince from the Netherlands, who had just ascended the throne of England.

The boys in red—with commendable secrecy and skillful scouting, deployed in skirmishing order, a section to cover a line which the rebels would see was held, and avoid— then as the latter steathily attempted an attack elsewhere, the reserves of loyal militia caught them in a trap, and with Capt "Gat" Howard and his then marvellous gattling gun, represented by a few giant crackers, and the little gun-boat of Batoche, represented by a raft, the rebels were vanquished and Batoche—alias Peaceful Valley, alias . . . . —was saved.

No serious mishap occurred, though some narrow escapes there were as tomahawk met Snider and Enfield.

A good clean up and a banquet in the drill shed, prepared by the ever dependable women of the place, followed by smoking the pipe of peace, and no one was sorry for a few hours to tell the exciting episodes of the day while resting weary limbs, waiting for the evening entertainment. This event was a pronounced success. The village band in its new uniforms, and led by one of five of a family who were in the band,and stepping jauntily to the strain of "Do ye ken John Peel" led the way to the town hall. "The Night Before Waterloo" made a hit and as an encore. "Curfew shall not ring to-night!" established the schoolwoman's place as a star elocutionist. Soprano solos and male quartettes were commendably rendered, while two Campbells unrelated gave in costume a thrilling presentation of the fight between James Fitzjames and Roderick Dhu, at the same time the lines from Sir Walter Scott's Lady of The Lake were well read by the schoolmaster.

The hearty singing of "God Save The Queen" brought to its close a celebration that was home-made, whole souled and hearty. —E. K. R.
