NEWSPAPER VS. BILLBOARD

Here's a good advertisement which is taken from an exchange. An editor and a merchant were discussing the virtue of billboard advertising. The merchant contended that more peope read the billboard than the newspaper. After a lengthy conversation in which neither man would give in, the men parted. The next week the merchant came tearin down to the newspaper office wanting to know why the obituary of his wife's mother was not in the paper, especially after he had seen the copy was taken to the newspaper office. "Well", said the editor, "I knew you wanted the obituary read by the people so I just took it out aind nailed it on the billboard." Just think it over.

DOES IT CONCERN YOU

The publishers do not like drawing attention of their readers to their labels any more than you like reading them. But we feel more drastic measures have to be employed for a number of our subscribers who have allowed their subscriptions to lapse for a few years and then some, and who fail to show the slightest response to our notices. A word to the wise is sufficient. May we hear from you SOON? This applies to classified advertisements paymdnts

IN MEMORIAM

GENOE—In loving memory of my dear mother, who was called home on June 26, 1928.

One by one our dear ones leave us,
And the bitter pain of loss
Teaches us our heart's best shelter
Is the shadow of the cross.

God knew that she was suffering,
And the hill was hard to climb
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.

No length of time, no lapse of years
Can dim my mother's past,
For treasured memory keeps her dear
And will while memory lasts.

—Sadly missed by Ella.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown us in our recent sad bereavement.

—D. A. MacDonald. and family.
