FEATHER DRESSING.

OLD BEDS MADE EQUAL TO NEW.

THE Subscribers having procured the necessary apparatus for dressing and purifying feathers; inform the public that their machine is now in operation at the head of Store Street, next door to Mr. Olcott's Tavern.

All persons desirous of witnessing the operation, can have the fullest and most satisfactory evidence of the value and efficacy of the operation, and no persons who regards cleanliness and comfort or values health will neglect this opportunity of having their beds dressed. By this process all filth and impurities are effectually expelled and the oldest feathers rendered light and elastic as new ones, and more cleanly & healthy, as the oily matter so offensive to the smell and injurious to the health even to new feathers, is entirely removed by this purifying process.

BENJAMIN & MARCUS JACOBS.

Kingston, Oct. 20th 1835. 23

CERTIFICATE.—I have lately had the feathers of an old bed taken out and dressed by the above Advertisers, and am much pleased with the success of their purifying process. The feathers, previous to their renovation, were heavy and knotted together; they are now almost as elastic as new ones, and I have no hesitation in recommending the Advertisers to the notice of the Public.

CAREY'S LIBRARY OF Choice Literature.

TO say that this is a reading age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to gratify that desire. On the first point, all are agreed; on the second, there is diversity both of opinion and of practice. We have newspapers, magazines, reviews, in fine pamphlets of all sizes, on nearly all subjects, which have severally their classes of readers and supporters. And yet, copious as are these means of intellectual supply, more are still needed. In addition to the reviews of the day, and passing notices of books, the people, in large numbers, in all parts of our great republic, crave the possession of the books themselves, and details, beyond mere passing allusion, of the progress of discovery in art and science.—But though it be easy to ascertain and express their wants, it is not so easy to gratify them. Expense, distance from the emporium of literature engrossing occupations which prevent personal application or even messages to libraries and booksellers, are so many causes to keep people away from the feast of reason, and the enjoyment of the coveted literary aliment. It is the aim of the publishers of the Library to obviate these difficulties and to enable every individual, at a small cost and without any personal effort, to obtain for his own use and that of his favored friends or family, valuable works, complete, on all the branches of useful and popular literature, and that in a form well adapted to the comfort of the reader.

The charm of variety, as far as it is compatible with morality and good taste, will be held constantly in view in conducting the Library, to fill the pages of which the current literature of Great Britain, in all its various departments of Biography, History, Travels, Novels and Poetry, shall be freely put under contribution. With, perchance, occasional exceptions, it is intended to give entire the work which shall be selected for publication. When circumstances authorize the measure, recourse will be had to the literary stores of Continental Europe, and translations made from French, Italian, or German, as the case may be.

Whilst the body of the work will be a reprint, or at times a translation of entire volumes, the cover will exhibit the miscellaneous character of a Magazine, and consist of sketches of men and things, and notices of novelties in literature and the arts, throughout the civilized world. A full and regular supply of the literary monthly and hebdomadal journals of Great Britain and Ireland, in addition to home periodicals of similar character, cannot fail to provide ample materials for this part of our work.

The resources and extensive correspondence of the publishers, are the best guarantee for the continuance of the enterprise in which they are now about to embark, as well as for the abundance of the materials to give it value in the eyes of the public. As far as judicious selection and arrangement are concerned, readers will, it is hoped, have reason to be fully satisfied, as the editor of the Library is not a stranger to them, but has more than once obtained their favorable suffrages for his past literary efforts.

TERMS.

The work will be published in weekly numbers, in stitched covers, each number containing twenty imperial octavo pages, with double columns, making two volumes annually, of more than 520 octavo pages, each volume; and at the expiration of every six months, subscribers will be furnished with a handsome title page and table of contents. The whole amount of matter furnished in a single year will be equal to more than forty volumes of the common sized English duodecimo books, the cost of which will be at least ten times the price of a year's subscription to the "Library." The paper upon which the Library will be printed, will be of the finest quality used for book-work, and of a size admirably adapted for binding. As the type will be entirely new, and of a neat appearance, each volume, when bound, will furnish a handsome, as well as valuable and not cumbrous addition to the libraries of those who patronize the work.

The price of the Library will be five dollars per annum, payable in advance.

A commission of 20 per cent. will be allowed to agents; and any agent or postmaster furnishing five subscribers and remitting the amount of subscription, shall be entitled to the commission of 20 per cent. or a copy of the work for one year.

A specimen of the work, or any information respecting it may be obtained by addressing the publishers, post paid.

Editors of newspapers, to whom the prospectus is forwarded, will please insert the above as often as convenient, send a copy of their paper containing the advertisement marked, and entitle themselves to a free exchange for one year. Address

IT is now six months since this publication was commenced in Philadelphia—and although the publishers have used no extraneous means to circulate a knowledge of its merits, yet, such is the satisfaction manifested by that portion of the public who have been made acquainted with its character and contents, that its list of patrons continues constantly and rapidly to increase. This paper is now distributed regularly every week over a wide portion of the Union, & the most satisfactory assurances are received that it will eventually become one of the most popular among the numerous excellent periodicals which issue from the American press. No exertions will be spared to establish its permanent reputation more extensively, and if the liberal sanction of those for whom it is especially designed shall warrant, its future improvement—both as regards typographical neatness and embellishment—will be materially advanced.

The different Plays and Farces that will appear in the course of a year, of themselves, will be worth more than FOUR times the amount of subscription. The following is a list of those which have already appeared:—

TO PRINTERS.

FOR some time past we have felt desirous to close the printing business, in which we have been actively engaged since the 1st of June, 1833, and would with the present number have felt happy could we say to our readers, this is the last 'Warder' we shall publish. If a purchaser should offer, we feel disposed to sell; if not, we shall go on in good spirits; at the same time, let not our friends suppose that we offer our establishment for sale on account of embarrassed circumstances—far from it: our prospects at present are brighter than at any other period since we commenced business. We offer for the present only one circumstance whereby any person wishing to purchase may judge of our office patronage the difference of all expenses attending the business from the first to the conclusion of the second volume, and all the earnings of the office for the same period averaged $5,000 a year in favor of the establishment. Terms of purchase, which will be found moderate and accommodating, may be known, if by letter, post paid, directed to the Editor of the Warder, Port Hope, U. C.
