WIT AND HUMOUR.

Horne Took, when asked by George III., why he never played at cards, replied, "I cannot tell a king from a knave."

An old gentleman of great experience says he is never satisfied that a lady understands a kiss unless he has it from her own mouth.

The brother of Beethoven signed his name to distinguish himself from his lawless brother. "—— von Beethoven, landowner." The other signed his name "Beethoven, brain-owner," to be equal to him.

A story is told of a young man who was going out West to open a jewellery store. When asked what capital he had, he replied, "A crowbar."

At a New Year's dinner an absent-minded guest arose and apologized for the bad cookery and poor wines, under the supposition that he was at his own table, to the great annoyance of his hostess, and the inexpressible indignation of his own wife.

In the garden of a certain nobleman's country house there happened to be fixed up at different spots painted boards with this request—"Please not to pick the flowers without leave." Some wag got a paint brush and added an "s" to the last word!

In reference to Lockhart's attempt to make out an irreproachable pedigree for Sir Walter Scott, Sydney Smith said, "When Lady Lansdowne asked me about my grandfather, I told her he disappeared about the time of the Assizes, and we asked no questions."

Washington visited a lady in his neighbourhood, and on leaving the house a little girl was directed to open the door. He turned to the child and said, "I am sorry, my little dear, to give you so much trouble." "I wish, sir," she replied, "it was to let you in."

When Foot was at Salt Hill, he dined at the Castle Inn, and when Partridge, the host, produced his bill, which was rather exhorbitant, the comedian asked him his name. "Partridge, sir," said he. "Partridge! It should have been woodcock, by the length of your bill."

CHEAP LIFE.—After a battle fought in Scotland a brother soldier stumbled upon a Highlander, who was busily engaged in stripping the body of an English officer, and wanted to partake of the spoil; "Na, na, said Donald, I canna allow you; you must go and kill a shentleman for yourself."

MAKING SURE.—Captain N——, who lately arrived at Boston, when going up to the wharf, ordered an Irishman to throw over buoy; and going below a few minutes, he called to the Irishman, and asked him if had thrown the buoy. "No," said he, "I could not catch the boy, but I threw over the old cook!"

"Come doctor," said a sinner to a clerical saint, "I can give you a treat—a bottle of claret forty years old." The doctor was in raptures, and eagerly accepted the invitation, when to his dismay, the expected quart proved only to be a pint bottle. "Wae's me," said he, taking it up in his hand, "but its unco wee o' its age!"

A PERT REPLY.—Lord J. Russell endeavoured to persuade Lord Langdale to resign the permanent Mastership of the Rolls for the uncertain position of Lord Chancellor, and paid the learned lord very high complements on his talent and acquirements. "It is useless talking, my lord," said Langdale. "So long as I enjoy the Rolls, I care nothing for your butter."

A clergyman wished to know whether the children of his parishioners understood their Bible. He ask a lad whom he found one day reading the Old Testament, who was the wickedest man. "Moses, to be sure," said the boy. "Moses," exclaimed the parson, "how can that be?" "Why," said the lad, "he broke all the commandments at once."

A CONFUSED MEMORY.—An amusing story is told of a Glasgow merchant. He had gone one Sabbath to hear a candidate in one of the city churches, of which the Town Council holds the presentation. Next day he was speaking with high commendation of the sermon, when some one happened to ask what was the text. The merchant, whose knowledge of Scripture was rather hazy, and who had probably been dozing the greater part of the time, was taken a little aback. "The text?" he said, "the text? What was it again? It began with 'Now—' 'now is the—' ay, that's it! 'Now's the day and now's the hour.'"

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where it has been introduced, and it is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

EXTRACT.—"After a fair and protracted trial of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, we consider it a very valuable nervous tonic, far surpassing many others of considerable repute, and well worthy the confidence of the profession generally.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE attention of those who have been suffering for a long time from old complaints that have resisted all ordinary methods of treatment, is called to Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya. This remarkable preparation, by promoting the complete digestion and assimilation of food, creates pure vitalizing blood to restore diseased tissues and supply nerve force to all the organs of the body. It is a specific for Dyspepsia in all its forms, Liver Complaint and Disease of the Kidneys; and so speedily does it act, that improvement is frequently manifest the first day of taking it. Being a chemical food, its properties are nutritive, and cannot injure child or adult under any condition of the system whatever.
