Toronto Exhibition Is Growing Fast

The Toronto exhibition attracted many visitors from this district during the past week. Each year the exhibition is growing in size and the nattedance records are being broken again. One feature of the show this year is the space provided for the display of aeroplanes, from the smallest to the larger planes used to carry many passengers. The era of air traffic is fast coming into its own. It is only a few years since that scoffers ridiculed the idea of automobiles ever pushing the horse off the roads as a means of transportation, but that time is now at hand. And also it will be an incredibly short time until the airoplane will be as common as the automobile is at the present time.
