Ted Dixon Won in Public Speaking

A large number from this district attended the championship school fair held at Meaford on Saturday. Honors in prizes were well distributed throughout the county and this part received their share. Master Teddy Dixon of Flesherton won the gold watch for boys' public speaking, which was donated by the town of Meaford. Miss Pearl Gibson took fourth prize in the public speaking contest for girls. Both the public speaking contests were well filled and the achievements of these two young pepole were well earned. In the school parade Springhill school, under Mr. G. B. Littlejohns, took 3rd place. Anna McVicar of Priceville took second in the folk dancing and Nathalie Patton of S. S. No. 17, Artemesia, was the winner in the mouth organ contest. Prizes were well distributed throughout the hall show, but we are not able to publish a full list of the winners in all the sections.

THE WIZARDY OF RADIO

There appears to be no limitation to the amazing possibilities of radio broad casting. Proof of this was furnished by an incident that occurred in New York last week—an incident that will test the credulity of those who are not familiar with recent tremendous achievements in making the air a medium of communication. The New York Times, with which the Globe is associated in regard to news service, is constantly extending its radio operations to all parts of the world and using it as an important auxiliary to the usual agencies relied upon for keeping in touch with foreign events.

The Globe's radio editor attended the meeting in New York of radio editors from many cities, and took advantage of the opportunity to spend some time in the "air" department of the Times. There he learned that something positively weird in its nature had just been accomplished. The Times radio editor lives some twenty miles from the office, and while at his home he was listening to Commander Byrd, who was talking by code from the Atlantic to the Times. Not wishing to be disturbed, he removed the receiver from his telephone. But an emergency arose in the Times office that called for his presence. The telephone exchange operator reported that the editor's receiver seemed to be off and that he could not be reached. But he had to be reached —and at once. Newspaper staffs frequently are obliged to act quickly, and the Times radio department rose to the occasion in a manner that has set up a new record for resourcefulness and ingenuity. Byrd, down around the south pole, received this message : "Please tell Dunlop, in Brooklyn, to put up his phone receiver; the office wants to call him" And immediately Commander Byrd replied from among the icebergs of the Atlantic: "Dunlop put up your phone receiver; the Times wants to call you up" Then the radio editor called the office; and the whole incident occupied only a few minutes. —The Globe.

ROD AND GUN

Filled with seasonable stories and articles, the October issue of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News, Canada's national outdoor magazine, just to hand, will prove of great interest to those devotees of hunting who are packing away their fishing tackle and getting out their guns at this time.

The many articles by well known outdoor authorities cover a wide field —moose hunting in Quebec, fishing in the maritimes and Ontario, goose hunting in the western prairie lands, big horn hunting in the Rockies and trapping in Northern Ontario. In addition are many practical articles dealing with the handling or arms and phases of life in the wilds. The Canadian Silver Fox New department contains interesting information of latest developments and practises in the silver fox industry.

Some 300 claims for pensions from residents of Bruce County, were presented to the board, consisting of Reeve J. C. Tolmie of Southampton, (chairman) and Reeves Byes of Wiarton, McKay of Huron and Grant of Walkerton, which met in Walkerton this week. The large number of applications received by the secretary Reeve Grant, were filed by the board without going into the merits of a single one, until a later session, which is to be held shortly. Chairman ReeveTolmie, outlined the duties of the board and their responsibilities. In addition to these 300 applications there are some 35 inmates of the Bruce County House of Refuge whose applications are being prepared by the keeper, which will be laid before the board. The county it is claimed would gain some $5,000 from the Government by those being granted, as the money for their keep could go into the refuge and the county has only 20 per cent of the claims to pay, part of which comes from the municiplity.
