The rink has been receiving excellet patronage since opening two weeks ago and another big crowd was on the ice on Saturday night.

The Misses Margaret, Helen and Alice Robertson of Toronto, spent the Christmas holidays at the home of their parents.

Have your skates sharpened at McTavish's garage. A new skate sharpener has been installed which makes a first class job.

In this issue we have a very interesting account of the singing of carols on Christmas Eve in Flesherton from the very fluent pen of Dr. E. K. Richardson of Toronto, a former Flesherton boy. We would like to have printed it in last week's issue but space would not allow.

The Baptist Sunday school held their annual entertainment on Tuesday evening of last week when the church was well filled. The program was excellent and was enjoyed by the audience. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Wolstencroft, acted as chairman for the evening. A silver collection was taken up at the close of the entertainment.

Mr. G. A. Forrester, M. L. A., Mrs Forrester and daughter, Jean of Nateby, Alta., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Preston. Mr. Forrester is a member of the U. F. O. government in Alberta and represents Hand'hills Constituency. Mrs. Forrester and Jean are remaining to spend the winter here.

Commence Curling

Curling is to be tried at the local skating rink this year, as enough of the enthusiasts have purchased enough stones to make one rink an absolute fact. If the experiment is a success no doubt there will be others who will also take up the game. It has been some years since curling has been undertaken in Flesherton, as the late W. Boyd rented stones for practising shortly after he built the present rink. Curling is a reat game and we hope that the experiment this year will be a foundation for many more years of actiity in this winter sport.

IN MEMORIAM

Celebrated Diamond Wedding in West

LUMSDEN, Sask.,—Christmas day had a double significance in the home of Charles Sled, Lumsden, for besides being the day of celebrating the yuletide, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sled celebrated the diamond jubilee of their wedded life. Christmas day 60 years ago the couple were married in Ontario, and to-day are still enjoying the best of health.

The groom of sixty years ago was born at Onsbruck Centre, near Cornwall, Ont., in February, 1845, and the bride, whose maiden name was Katherine Graham, was born at Scarborough, near Toronto, November, 1849. They were married at Collingwood, Ont., Christmas day, 1869 by the Rev. Francis Berry.

They resided near Collingwood until 1906, when they decided to come West. After disposing of their farming interests, they came to Lajord, Sask.,where they farmed until 1909, when they purchased the farm three miles south of Lumsden, where their son, James, still resides. In 1919 they retired from the farm and moved into Lumsden, where they now live.

The family of five sons and three daughters, all of whom are living, are: J. Thomas, at Flesherton, Ont.; Wm. H., Plenty; George E., Nottawa, Ont.; James and Charles, Lumsden; Mrs. G. E. Hewson, Delia, Alta.; Mrs. D. A. Vancise, Stayner. Ont., and Mrs. Jas. H. Newsome, Lumsden There are 28 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Sled received the congratulations of their friends at the home of their son, Charles, on Christmas Day.

Old Resident Passes

Two Barns Burned; Owned by J. Cargoe

A disastrous fire occurred near Vandeleur on Friday evening of last week when two large barns were burned to the ground. Mr. James Cargoe being the owner of the property. The season's crop was nearly all destroyed together with one pig, 60 hens, several ducks and a seed drill. The loss to Mr. Cargoe will be very heavy, as only $2700 insurance was carried on both structures and $1000 on part of the contents.

Mr. Cargoe was busy at the evening work at the barn and had just finished putting down straw and had hung the lantern on a hook in the stable when one of the horses switched its tail, striking the lantern, causing it to fall onto the straw. The lantern glass fell out and in a second the straw was a mass of flame and it travelled up the main wall into the straw mow. It was too late to do anything and in a very short time the barn was in a blaze. Mr. Cargoe released all the stock, one pig bolting back into the furnace and was lost. The other barn was right alongside at right angles and considerabe grain was saved by helpers before their activities had to cease.

One barn was 36x60 and set on posts, while the other was 40x60 on a good stone foundation. For the past three years Mr. Cargoe has owned the property which was formerly owned by the late Robert Buchanan.

The total loss will not be more than half covered by insurance and Mr. Cargoe's loss is therefore very heavy and the countryside sympathizes with him in his misfortune.

WHY SHOULD THE BUSINESS MAN BE THE GOAT?

(Erin Advocate)

We note by the Orangeville Sun, that D. A. Hogg and Son, coal and wood dealers, of Orangeville, have announced that they will do business on a cash basis only in the future.

The wonder to us is, that this system has not become a general thing with all business men, long ago. All merchants and business men are allowed from 5 to 30 days to meet drafts on all purchases. Farmers, generally speaking, demand and get cash for their goods, on delivery and in many cases on their farm. Mechanics and laborers are usually paid by the week. Therefore, why in all fairness, man to man, should merchants and business men be expected to allow credit, without interest; and be obliged to resort to force, in many cases, to get their own, and in doing so, shoot the profits on that and many more sales.

The big department and chain stores get cash, without question; that is their method of doing business. Frequently one hears of the competition of the big store or big firm in opposition to any of the small concerns and at the same time the little fellows are carrying thousands of dollars on their books; with an over-draught, or paying seven per cent interest to carry on. Why be the goat? Until the small business men get together and set a hard and fast rule of cash and carry, they will be in trouble, and the situation will continue to be even more serious.

TUBERCULOSIS DIAGNOSTIC CLINICS

A consideration of the problems growing out of tuberculosis is definitely encouraging and should be sufficient stimulus for greater effort. Encouragement comes from the fact that while this disease continues to take a heavy toll of human lives—over 7,899 in Canada during 1928 -it has been conquered to a considerable extent, and year by year its ravages are being lessened. A resolve to persevere, and determination to make a greater effort have come as the result of seeing that past and present efforts have been and are effective, and that the only limit to their effectiveness has been the extent to which the work done has been limited. While it is true that many factors have indirectly contributed to the reduction which has occurred in tuberculosis, it is equally true that the greatest reductions have taken place, one might almost say, in direct proportion to the extent of the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

More and more attention is being focussed on the need for early diagnosis. In order to insure a fair chance for recovery, treatment must be started in the early stages of the disease. In order to control and prevent the spreading of tuberculosis, it is necessary that cases be recognized early and that patients be educated and trained so that they will not pass on the infection to others. To attain these two desirable aims, it is necessary that early diagnosis be made. This fact has been recognized, and scattered across Canada, are centres where examinations are made and the disease detected in its early stages. This is desirable not only for hte case, but for the public; because it means control of the spread of the disease and public protection. These diagnostic clinics are maintained by some Provincial Governments and by the tuberculosis sanatoria. Like everything else of that type, the clinics cost money to equip and maintain. A seasonable opportunity to assist the sanitoria in this work is provided through the Christmas Seal sale, which is commended to our readers.
