ITALIAN BRIGANDS.

There are few people whose company would generally be considered more un-desirable than that of the brigands of the South of Italy; but at the present time it is possible to visit many of them and to feel that the visit, so far from being alarm-ing, is full of interest. Fortunately, the savage beings are caged, and one can now see and talk to them with as much security as a child has amongst the wild animals in the Zoological Gardens. In the prison of St. Antonio—once a monastery—situated on an eminence above the town of Salerno, and commanding beautiful views of the gulf and the surrounding hills there are at this moment upwards of 800 malefactors, a great number of them being brigands, or what are called "manutengoli;" that is, aiders and abettors of brigands or murder-ers. Many of them have been condemned, but have appealed for a mitigation of their sentence to the Superior Court at Naples; and many are remaining there for a few days till it is convenient to transport them to other prisons, where they may undergo the punishment of hard labour for life, or for such period of years as they have been sentenced to. The impression made upon a visitor by the prison itself is entirely dif-ferent to that produced by a visit to an English or German or French prison. No sign or sense of disgrace appeared—no re-straint or constraint, nothing alarming or repulsive, no hostility between the keepers and the kept, no badge of degradation in the shape of closely cut hair or shaven faces, no rigid rule of silence, no solitary confinement. Everything seemed to go on in a friendly way. In one bed lay a sturdy brigand named Giuseppe Gronesse, who had only been captured a fortnight before. He had joined the band of Ferrigno Pica, of Montella, and had scarcely belonged to it three weeks before he was taken. He is a stoutly built man, forty-four years of age, with high and broad forehead, large under jaw, and flabby fleshy cheeks, with a strong look of brutal ferocity about him. When he was running away from his pursuers in the mountains he approached the edge of a cliff with such impetus that he could not stop himself, and so fell a distance of some fifty feet. His leg was broken by the fall and his face was also considerably cut and bruised. Next to him was a sickly-looking youth, not yet twenty, who had been con-demned to three years' imprisonment for theft, but was as yet too ill to bear removal. It seemed a pity that one so young, and condemned for a comparatively trifling of-fence, should be in such close contact with so confirmed a villain as that wounded brigand. But throughout the whole prison all kinds of offenders are mixed together—brigands, thieves, murderers, forgers, and "manutengoli." Of these latter, both in the infirmary and the other parts of the prison, there were a great number. They are at least as bad as the brigands them-selves, for without them the brigands could not carry on their trade. They are, for the most part, country people who in-habit the districts infested by the brigands; and these they supply with food and drink and clothing, and not unfrequently with lodging also. From all accounts they are hard dealers with the brigands themselves. Is no brigand dare show himself in a town or market place, and as all of them are in constant fear of capture, they depend en-tirely upon these "manutengoli" for the means of subsistence; and thus very hard bargains are generally driven. The "manutengoli" act also as spies; they give information to the brigands as to where booty may be found; and when the plunder is obtained they get the greater part of it in exchange for a few loaves, and at times some fresh meat. Now that both the manutengoli" and brigands are caught, it is evident that they never loved each other much. The brigands speak openly of the extortions they had to endure, and lay the blame of their crimes upon the shoulders of those who encouraged and supported them. The "manutengoli," on the other hand, protest their innocence every way, and think the Government desperately cruel in consigning them to a prison. As the first key was put into the lock on the occasion of my visit, a general move-ment took place among the insiders. Each man glided quickly to the end of his own particular bed. Some, who had been ly-ing down, hurriedly donned their jackets; while not a few took out combs and ar-ranged their hair, with an evident desire to show themselves off to the best advan-tage. When the second door was opened, and two or three visitors, with the gover-nor of the prison, entered, all was so order-ly and quiet, that it was extremely difficult to realize the fact that one was amidst a crowd of desperadoes. In the room were more than 120 prisoners, nearly every man a murderer. In England one murderer is a sight at a gaol; and to behold even one man who has dipped his hands in human blood creates a feeling of instinctive horror. Here were hundreds such; and we were allowed to go amongst them and converse with them freely; and, strange as it may seem, no feeling of horror or repugnance was produced. A phrenologist would doubtless find much worth his study in such a group, and there were some queer-shaped heads and some hideous countenan-ces; but, generally speaking, no particular savagery of expression was apparent, and most of the criminals had they been seen in the street, would have passed for ordina-ry well conducted citizens. As I walked by them, each touched his head with his hand, and gave a slight bow; and if I stopped to talk, they were ready to con-verse with the greatest freedom. "Why are you here?" I inquired, after some in-troductory conversation, of a fine-look-ing young man, with sparkling intelligent eyes and good features. "I accidentally killed my brother and am condemned for ten years to hard labour." "But how acci-dentally?" I further inquired. "We had been out together in the country with some other friends, enjoying ourselves; on our way home we had a quarrel and I stabbed him here," he answered, pointing to a part of his breast just below the shoul-der. He spoke with considerable feeling, and with a peculiar tenderness of accent. Out of the host of murderers there were very few who had murdered for theft or gain, except, of course, the brigands. Wine seems to provoke many a fatal blow. On the numerous feast days which an in-dulgent Church affords them, groups of Coughs and Colds.

Sudden changes of climate are sources of Pul-monary, Bronchial, and Asthmatic affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges. Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough, or "common cold," in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected soon attacks the Lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, allay irritation which induces coughing, having a direct influence on the af-fected parts. As there are imitations, be sure to obtain the genuine. Sold by all dealers in Medi-cines at 25 cents a box.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on the face of the earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the eldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price 25 cents. Sold everywhere.

Be sure and call for

"Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup,"

Philosophy of Marriage.

A new Course of Lectures, as delivered at the New York Museum of Anatomy embracing the subjects:—How to live and what to live for; Youth, Maturity, and old Age; Manhood gener-ally reviewed; The cause of indigestion; Flatu-lence and Nervous Diseases accounted for; Mar-riage philosophically considered, &c., &c. Pocket volumes containing these Lectures, will be for-warded post-paid, on receipt of 25 cents, by ad-dressing "SECRETARY, New York Museum of Anatomy and Science, 618 Broadway, New York."

Batchelor's Hair Dye.

This splendid Hair Dye is the best in the world; the only true and perfect Dye; harmless, reliable, instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints; remedies the ill effects of bad dyes; invigorates and leaves the Hair soft and beautiful black or brown. ART OF ADVERTISING.—Horace Greeley, of New York, says:—The most successful business men in this city are those who have advertised liberally and constantly. A small advertisement con-stantly appearing is better than a display column occasionally.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors look-ing into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.

THE CIRCULATION of the DAILY NEWS is fully one-half larger than that of any other daily journal published in Kingston. The circulation of the old established weekly CHRONICLE AND NEWS is also greater than any other weekly pub-lished in the county. Advertisers will perceive that these journals are the best media for attracting public attention in this locality.

WOMAN.

FEMALES, owing to the peculiar and impor-tant relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization, and the offices they per-form, are subject to many sufferings. Freedom from these contributes in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. Not only so, but no one of these various female complaints can long be suffered to run on without involving the gene-ral health of the individual, and ere long pro-ducing permanent sickness and premature de-cline. Nor is it pleasant to consult a physician for the relief of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands simple specifics which will be found efficacious in relieving and curing almost every one of those troublesome com-plaints peculiar to the sex.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU.

Hundreds suffer on in silence, and hundreds of others apply vainly to druggists and doctors, who either merely tantalize them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be pro-duced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by laborious employment, unwholesome air and food, profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent childbirth, it is far oftener caused by direct irritation, applied to the mucous membrane of the vagina itself.

When reviewing the causes of these distress-ing complaints, it is most painful to contem-plate the attendant evils consequent upon them. It is but simple justice to the subject to enume-rate a few of the many additional causes which so largely affect the life, health, and happiness of woman in all classes of society, and which, consequently, affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The mania that exists for precocious education and mar-riage, causes the years that nature designed for corporeal development to be wasted and per-verted in the restraints of dress, the early con-finement of school, and especially in the unhealthy excitement of the ball-room. Thus, with the body half-clothed, and the mind unduly excited by pleasure, perverting in midnight revels the hours designed by nature for sleep and rest, the work of destruction is half accom-plished.

In consequence of this early strain upon her system, unnecessary effort is required by the delicate votary to retain her situation in school at a later day, thus aggravating the evil. When one excitement is over, another in prospective keeps the mind morbidly sensitive to impression, while the now constant restraint of fashionable dress, absolutely forbidding the exercise indis-pensable to the attainment and retention of or-ganic health and strength; the exposure to night air; the sudden change of temperature; the complete prostration produced by excessive dancing, must, of necessity, produce their legi-timate effect. At last, an early marriage caps the climax of misery, and the unfortunate one, hitherto so utterly regardless of the plain dic-tates and remonstrances of her delicate nature, becomes an unwilling subject of medical treat-ment. This is but a truthful picture of the ex-perience of thousands of our young women.

Long before the ability to exercise the func-tions of the generative organs, they require an education of their peculiar nervous system, com-posed of what is called the tissue, which is, in common with the female breast and lips, evi-dently under the control of mental emotions and associations at an early period of life; and, as we shall subsequently see, these emotions, when excessive, lead, long before puberty, to habits which sap the very life of their victims ere nature has self-completed their develop-ment.

For Female Weakness and Debility, Whites or Leucorrhœa, Too Profuse Menstruation, Ex-haustion, Too Long Continued Periods, for Prolapsus and Bearing Down, or Prolapsus Uteri, we offer the most perfect specific known:

HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF BUCHU.

Directions for use, diet, and advice, accompany.

Females in every period of life, from infancy to extreme old age, will find it a remedy to aid nature in the discharge of its functions. Strength is the glory of manhood and woman-hood.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

is more strengthening than any of the prepara-tions of Bark or Iron, infinitely safer, and more pleasant.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

having received the indorsement of the most pro-minent physicians in the United States, is now offered to afflicted humanity as a certain cure for the following diseases and symptoms, from whatever cause originating: General Debility, Mental and Physical Depression, Imbecility, De-termination of Blood to the Head, Confused Ideas, Hysteria, General Irritability, Restless-ness and Sleeplessness at Night, Absence of Muscular Efficiency, Loss of Appetite, Dyspep-sia, Emaciation, Low Spirits, Disorganization or Paralysis of the Organs of Generation, Pal-pitation of the Heart, and, in fact, all the con-comitants of a Nervous and Debilitated state of the system. To insure the genuine, cut this out. Ask for HELMBOLD'S. Take no other. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Price $1,25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6,50. Delivered to any address. Describe the symp-toms in all communications. Address H. T. HELMBOLD, Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, N.Y.
