A Valued Life

The days of her childhood
Were peacefully spent,
Where all things united
To make her content;
While life's early morning
Was fresh as the dew,
The Lord as her Saviour
And Keeper, she knew.

Devoted and trustful,
Courageous and brave,
The richest of treasures
To others she gave;
Obedient in all things,
To Christ as her King
She loved, with His people,
His praises to sing.

She drank from those founatains
Which never shall cease,
Her light in the Household
Brought gladness and peace;
Her gifts and her moments
Found constant employ
For Him, in whose service
Is comfort and joy.

With trustful devotion
And confident prayer,
The ones whom she cherished
She left in His care;
Believing His promise
Her heart was at rest,
She knew He would send them
Whatever is best.

Through much tribulation
Which darkened the past,
She entered the haven
In triumph at last;
With love ever growing
At length she became
A pilgrim victorious,
Through faith in His name.

To Him, whose protection
She owned in each breath,
She wished to bring glory
By life or by death;
To Him, so often,
Had answered her plea,
She said with rejoicing
All glory shall be.

Rev. Thos. Watson.

The first man to have a telephone installed in Hamilton is still living, and still has telephone No. 1. His name is Baker and one of the central stations in the city has been named after him. What has become so commonplace has not been with us for the lifetime of many of us older folks, a rather startling fact. When we think of it the modernness of the automobile, the radio, the flying machine and many other things is even more startling.

We note that our old friend Mike Murray of Neustadt has been appointed returning officer for South-East Grey for the Dominion elections to be held some time in the next year or so, the date not yet having been set. It takes Michael to do things up right. His last official position was provincial returning officer for the Drury U. F. O. government in 1926. Which only proves once again that "While the light remains to burn the vilest sinner may return" or something to that effect. Congratulations, Mike! By gorry, we'll have ye over wid the Tories yet, so we will. —Durham Chronicle.

OFFICIALLY KICKED OUT OF TOWN.

Two vagrants—otherwise tramps—appeared in police court at London. They were hungry and wanted something to eat. That seemed to be the extent of their offence. The magistrate asked them how long it would take them to get out of London, and where they would go. The answer was that they would head for Brantford and Hamilton, and the beak offered to give them a ride to the city limits to speed them on their way.

That's a great old way that has been followed for years. Get rid of them; pass them on to the next place. We wouldn't be surprised to find them in police court at Woodstock or Brantford, and it is possible they may receive the official kick out of town again.

No town cares much about the next one down the line. A tramp is a non-productive asset at best, and all he needs to do is keep on promising to get out of town.

About Deer Hunting

Editor of The Advance—

Dear Sir,— Knowing you as we do to be a good citizen and a real sport, I take this opportunity of asking some questions. Is there a game warden in the County of Grey? If so we have not known his name. We understand there is a game warden in Owen Sound, on a good salary paid by the government. As to the extent of his limits we are not informed, but would suppose it would be for the protection of game in the town.

Can anyone, who carries a trapper's license, go on the crust when it carries the hounds, but not the deer, to where the deer have taken shelter for the winter, and let his hounds loose, driving the deer into the clearances and on the public highway, pursued by his hounds, with the pretence he is fox hunting? On what condition does any one take the office of game warden? If we are rightly informed he takes the office and works without salary. With authority, if he finds any person or persons violating the game law, he can bring that person to justice, have him fined, to which he is entitled to one half. Now, say his neighbor has violated the law. You know that anyone who would break the law would resent the law. Now what is he to do if he enforces the law? Bring upon himself the wrath and indignation of his neighbor and all who are in sympathy with him? The only way for him to save trouble is to keep quiet and divide the spoil with his neighbor. In such a case he becomes the deer's greatest enemy. There are others who would accept the office of game warden for reasons best known to themselves at a time when they are expected to be looking after the interest of the game, takes his license and goes north during the hunting season, leaving the game here to the mercy of those who are neither citizens or sports.

There is no satisfaction for those who respect the law and allow the deer to graze on their farms while their wives go out to admire their beauty. The deer become so tame they are easily trailed by those who have no regard for the law, nor respect for themselves.

Mr. Editor, will there be any danger of the country being overrun with with these harmless deer, so long as the one dealing in fur can boast of buying three hundred deer hides in one season? Does anyone know another firm employed by the government working on such a salary, self sustaining.

What is considered by those in the know as a more certain sign of an early spring than the Globe robin was the trapping of a groundhog by Mr. Charlie Polfuss on his farm near Otter Creek last Friday. This is said to be the earliest on record that a groundhog has been known to be out of its winter quarters. Discovering the tracks in the snow leading from its burrow, Charlie hustled back to the barn for a trap and secured the little quadruped on its return home. The catch is valued more in the light of a weather prognosticator than for its intrinsic worth on the fur market. —Walkerton Herald-Times.

The Robert Simpson Co. stores at St. Catharines, Welland, Port Colborne, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Galt and Kitcheneh closed on Dec. 31. By this action the complete chain of mail order houses were abolished. In explaining the action, Charles Jaggs, manager of the St. Catharines office, stated that the offices had been opened as an experiment, and although the stores closed for good, it may be almost two months before the work of returning merchandise to Toronto and other details in connection with the close down will be accomplished new machinery to the value of $6,000.
