Sausages Too Short Says Scottish M.P.

London—When the House of Commons was discussing the Bill to set up a Consumers' Council to deal with unfair prices for food, the Kitchen Committee was solemnly listening to a complaint of a Scottish Labor member that the sausages sold in the House were too short.

Mr. A. McKinlay (Partick, Glasgow) made the allegation that the apples, toast and sausages sold in the tea bar were too dear. The committee invited him to state his case, and to the end promised to consider what he had said.

When Mr. McKinlay made his charge the indignant committee sent out for a case of sausages and proceeded to demonstrate—one supposes with a tape measure—that they were as long as any that could be obtained outside.

"I must be getting all the short ones," was Mr. McKinlay's retort.

The complaint that the apples sold were too expensive was also contested by the committee, which will communicate its findings to Mr. McKinlay later.

Second Thoughts

The boxing-booth was packed to overflowing.

The gong sounded and the two boxers entered the ring. The fight began!

The first, second, and third rounds were fought evenly, but at the end of the fourth round Bashem Bill showed distinct signs of weariness.

"I can't go on any more," he told his second during the rest. "I've had enough."

"Don't be silly," urged the other. "You've still got a chance."

"That's all very well," panted Bashem; "but that last blow over the eye almost blinded me—I can hurdly see 'im."

"Never mind that," returned the second enthusiastically, "'it 'im from memory."

In Memory

It had been a very convivial reunion dinner, and when the time came for the guests to depart Wilson and Robert found that their last train to the suburbs had gone, and they were faced with a five-mile walk home.

About an hour later, and just as they had passed a church which had chimed out the hour of two, Wilson broke the long silence that had ensued.

"Does your wife miss you when you are late on such occasions as this?" he asked.

"Very seldom," his friend dismally replied. "There are still two large lumps on the back of my head where she hit me the last time."

STURDY CHILDHOOD

The sturdy child—the bright, active little chap is the one everybody loves. It is only the sickly, fretful child who is not attractive. It is the birthright of every child to be sturdy and well—to be able to make everyone admire him. Therefore, mothers, if yours is not attractive it's your fault, not his. He must be ailing and it is up to you to see that he gets relief—that he is given a medicine that will quickly make him well and keep him well.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially designed for infants and young children. There is nothing to equal them for correcting the irregularities of the stomach and bowels—the cause of most of the ills from which little ones suffer. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Slang Puzzles Paris Police

There is consternation among the 1,000 Paris polyglot policemen who spent weary months absorbing a thousand English words, only to learn that tourists do not speak the language of Shakespeare.

The teacher of the policemen-school boys did not think it was necessary to provide them with a sideline of slang, with the result that they cannot understand the average British or American tourist, and the polyglot policemen are so educated in the King's English that most of the tourists cannot understand them.

When they got their sheepskins, the policemen were put through another course of politeness. They were taught to smile so that all their teeth would show in the best American style—as Paris sees it. They spent weary hours learning to bend without taking the eyes off the eyes of the person they seek to impress.

They were put through paces which would give back to the French race the famous tradition that all Frenchmen are of the "Alphonse and Gaston" school, forever praying the other to go first.

That school passed out with the war, and Frenchmen were far from polite when the new High Commissioner of Tourism, Gaston Gerard, took it over.

"China needs a Government like ours," says a writer. It would certainly serve them right.

Irish Immigration Rouses Scotland

Edinburgh, Scotland—The influx of Irish immigrants into Scotland was a question which agitated the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland recently. The matter was brought up by the Rt. Rev. John White, who was first Moderator of the United Church of Scotland in 1929, Dr. White describing the large-scale immigration as a "menace to Scottish civilization and culture."

The problem was not confined, said Dr. White, to the east side of the country—that facing Ireland—but the western part was being flooded by Irish also.

The Assembly finally decided to ask for a Government inquiry into the question.

"Lest We Forget"

The names of 13,479 officers and men who were posted as "missing" during the War are recorded on panels in a memorial which has been erected by the Imperial War Graves Commission at Le Touret military cemetery, near Bethune, and which is to be unveiled by Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador in Paris.

This is one of a series of memorials of this kind, designed to commemorate those who fell in the War but whose graves are not known. The names recorded here are for one sector only, and for the period up to the eve of the battle of Loos.

The memorial is in the form of three solid walls enclosing an open court of rectangular shape. On the fourth—eastern—side is a colonnade, with a wall to the east of it. This wall and the colonnade extend outwards to the north and south to form a long gallery.

Bronze Horses of Venice

The bronze horses surmounting San Marco Cathedral in Venice were made in Corinth nearly 20 centuries ago. They were taken from Corinth to Rome by Nero, to Constantinople by Constantine, thence to Venice, and then to Paris by Napoleon, being restored to Venice after his fall.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.
