IN MEMORIAM

GENOE—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. James Genoe, who passed away June 26th, 1928.

Not dead to those who loved her,
Not lost but gone before;
She lives with us in memory
And will forever more.

Harry and Elwood.

THE ARNOTT CENTENARY

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Inkster and family of Flesherton attended a very interesting Arnott family reunion at Mr. Hunter Arnott's home near Brampton on Saturday last, where the late Henry Arnott had established his home just 100 years ago. The crown deed for the farm was framed and on exhibition for the visitors. The farm is now in the hands of the third generation of Arnott's, and has never had a mortgage.

The 100th birthday cake was made by Mrs. W. J. Arnott of Hamilton, the last remaining member of the second generation.

Another interesting feature of the gathering was a story of the second house on the farm, built 81 years ago. It was a brick house, the bricks being primitively made by hand, right at home from the clay of the farm, and was entirely built by members of the Arnott family.

Dipping Time

About a month after shearing, when the sheep have grown sufficient wool to hold the dipping solution, is the proper time for dipping, and all authorities agree that if the operation is to be successful, it is essential that every animal in the flock from the young lambs to the oldest ram must have his annual bath. If any individuals are overlooked the eternal parasites on these will soon infest the whole flock again.

The job of dipping sheep is quite a simple one in most parts of the country today. In many cases government officials have co-operated with local groups of farmers and put in modern concrete tanks through which hundreds of sheep may be passed in a few hours. Then, too, it is possible to buy a dip in powder form which only requires the careful following of directions to make a solution which will not only kill all the developed ticks but is strong enough to last and kill any which might hatch from eggs within three weeke. Dipping should be done slowly, and carefully and every part of the animal must be immersed. It is well to let the sheep dry in the shade as slow drying prolongs the action of the dip.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SOUTH-EAST GREY:

Is your name on the voters' list? Committees should go over the registrars lists this week. Names to be added to or taken from the list can be given to the registrar in writing any time he can be located, but for the convenience of electors the registrar will be in his home in the afternoon of June 30, July 2nd and either July 1st or 3rd.

In the article on Canadian Trade in "The New Trail" there was an error in figures. The article stated: In 1928 Great Britain absorbed 411 million dollars worth of our products, 39 of which were products of the farm. It should have read—477 million dollars worth of our products 390 of which were products of the farm.

Sincerely,
AGNES C. MACPHAIL.

Community Love

Laziness, indolence and stupor are unnatural conditions to exist in a community and are looked upon as repellent by all right-minded residents. Action is the staff of existence. The respected individual is the one who is full of pep, the man who rises early and retires late. Nothing is more contrary to right living than the sense of community inaction.

Community love is the only right law of community activity. Hatred,, jealousy, or lack of confidence in your neighbor destroys the good results of community endeavor and instead of making for the advance of the town retires that progress.

You cannot achieve where your community pride is lost. You must have faith in your town, confidence in your merchant and love your neighbor. United endeavor is necessary to success. Faith is the foundation upon which the whole structure of your community is built, without it your achievements are of no avail.

The man who buys goods outside Flesherton has no community love, if he does this buying knowing the damage he is doing. He exemplifies a distrust in the community and its merchants. He lacks neighborly love. Show your faith by patronizing your home merchants and your merchant will show his faith in you by giving you the best service that he can.
