EDITORIAL NOTES.

Will Premier Ferguson's contemplated revision of school grants have a tendency to create larger families in the rural sections?

* * *

The Toronto Globe suggests that the Government should take a hand in the clock-fixing habits of some cities. We heartily agree. It is time that the daylight-saving farce was eliminated altogether. If need be have the stores, factories and various businesses open earlier and close earlier, but leave the clock alone.

The commencement of the school year on Tuesday has started many young lives off to serious thought and to learn that there are other things to do in this world than just play. Their carefree days are over and a new life is opening before them, which will gradually teach them that by perseverance and study they may reach the heights of success in the various spheres of labor they may choose.

Two Frenchman are the first persons to fly an airplane from continental Europe to continental America. There have been other crossinbs made but they always flew from Ireland and landed on some island on the east coast of Canada. This is an era of record breaking events and no doubt the awards awaiting this pair of adventurers, both in the United States and in France, will scale to new high proportions.

Premier Ferguson, who is also Minister of Education,, has given out in a statement to the press that a change is contemplated in the amount of grants to be given to schools. He states that grants have been largely based upon the qualifications of the teacher and the type of equipment which was used. The day of the ill trained teacher is past as there are no teachers in Ontario at present holding a third class certificate and an effort was made to increase salaries and grants were made on that basis. It is now proposed to have the grant based on the size of the problem the school authorities have to deal with, that is, the number of pupils. Premier Ferguson also states that they are proceeding upon the sound democratic principle that those who own the children are those who own the schools and manage them and he proposes that a school that only has 18 pupils should not receive the same grant as one with sixty pupils. The Minister of Education has been endeavoring to have the small schools closed and the pupils taken to some other section, thus the consolidated school. The problem of education in the larger centre is becoming acute, and as an example he gave the case of Scarbora Township, near Toronto, with a tax of 90 mills. His change of grants will largely benefit the urban schools.

Unity and Co-operation

A community is as big as the faith of the residents make it. This faith is evident in the unity which exists between merchant and buyer. If dissension invades the community and the people go to nearby cities to purchase their goods the growth of the town is retarded and it is untimely relegated to the "has-been" class. When the merchant and the resident forget personal differences and unite their purposes for common trade, it is a certain sign that that community is listed among the "booming."

Think in terms of your local merchants, and decide to buy in Flesherton. Petty personal grievences are things of too little significance to let them interfere with the progress of the town which you call home. If you trust your merchant he will prove himself loyal to you. The decision is yours to make. Shall you buy outside Flesherton and see the town fall behind, or shall you buy at home and witness this community advance?

Your patronage spells your confidence in your merchants who are responsible for the leading position your town enjoys. If you give them your support, merchant and resident will unite for the good of this town, and the result will prove that the only true way to success is by united effort. Your dollars which you pay to your local butcher, grocer, clothier, printer or milkman, will stay in Flesherton and will ultimately come back to you.
