At a recent fête given by the Pope, the saloons of the Vatican were crowded with ladies, whose presence is said to have been an incident without precedent, and to have greatly scandalized the prelates.

The old French legitimist families now living in Paris, about fifty are in affluent circumstances. As many more have enough to live comfortably. The rest are mostly as poor as church mice.

A partial alleviation of the distress which has prevailed among the working-classes of Woolwich for some time will be effected this week by the employment in the Royal Arsenal of nearly 1,000 boys and girls, owing to the receipt of an order for the manufacture of several millions of cartridges for the use of the Volunteer corps. Local efforts have not been wanting to relieve the existing misery in the neighbourhood.

As regards postal communications the progress in India is surprising. In the last four years the number of letters and newspapers sent through the Indian Post Office increased from 18,000,000 to 60,000,000 annually; yet the postage rate is so low that a light letter of a period 3,000 miles for three farthings.

The French Government schooner Levrette has actually passed throughout the entire length of the Suez Canal, and M. de Lesseps states that in six months from this date, ships of as large as 3,000 tons burthen will be able to traverse the isthmus, either sailing, or by steam.

The golden yellow hair so much admired and sought after this season, is produced by a solution of acetic with a moriant of the hydrochlorate of ammonia. In dyeing the lighter shades, however, it becomes necessary to submit the hair to a process of bleaching, which is usually effected by a solution of one or other of the alkalies, by chlorine, by chloride of soda, or by the arsenical dye is used, or in some cases when any of the above is applied, seclusion for a few days becomes a necessity.

SPEECH OF THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF QUEBEC.

Quebec, Jan. 20.

At three o'clock His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor proceeded in state to the Legislative Council Chamber in the Parliament building. He was escorted by the Queen's Volunteer Hussars, under command of Lieut. Macdonald.

A guard of honour was formed of the 53rd Regiment.

The members of the Legislative Council being assembled the Lieutenant-Governor was pleased to command the attendance of the Legislative Assembly, and that House being present, the Lieutenant-Governor at once opened the second session of the first Parliament of the Province of Quebec with the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Legislative Council; Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I am happy to see you again assembled to consider the interests of this province, and to render me your advice, and assist me in the conduct of its affairs. Since the first session of our Legislature the Right Hon. Sir John Young has been placed by Her Majesty at the head of the Government of Canada, in succession to the Right Hon. Viscount Monck, who, after having long presided over the government of the late Province of Canada, had inaugurated our new constitution. Bound as we are to the Central Government we must earnestly pray that the work so well begun, under Lord Monck, may receive its happy development under the rule of his successor. Among the important measures which marked the late session of the Federal Parliament, you have doubtless noted with interest that providing for the construction of a railway from Halifax to Riviere du Loup, which will complete the communication, at all seasons of the year, between the great Lakes and the Atlantic, across so large a portion of the Dominions of Her Majesty. You will have observed with pleasure that the line chosen for this railway will traverse a wide range of the territory of this Province. My Government, desirous to profit by this opening for the settlement of our wild lands at once undertook vigorously the works of survey requisite to that end. Explorations thus for, made with that view, indicate that a large area of cultivatable land in this direction will soon be brought into value to the material increase of our population and resources. The outlays authorized last session for colonization roads have been promptly effected, and, as I trust, with commensurate advantage to the country. Regulations as to the cutting of timber on lands of the Crown have received the earnest attention of my Government, and I have deemed it my duty to sanction certain changes of system calculated to secure more prudent management of our forest resources and an increase of revenue, without injury to the real interests of this important branch of trade. I am happy to see the great progress made by the agricultural and manufacturing industries of the province, and when I visited the Provincial Exhibition at Montreal, I could not fail to observe the lively interest taken by all classes of society in the development of these two great sources of our prosperity. The Constitution having assigned matters of immigration to the concurrent action of the Federal and Local Governments, my Government, in concert with those of Ontario and New Brunswick, has conferred, concerning it, with the Federal Government. I have reason to hope that the result of our joint efforts will tend to increase the prosperity of all the provinces.

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

The public accounts for 18 months, covered by your votes of last session, will be promptly laid before you. You will find that the expenditure has been kept considerably within the limits so set, and I trust that it has been regulated with due regard as well to economy as to efficiency of the public service. I regret that, from circumstances beyond our control, the arbitration required under the Constitutional Act for the division and adjustment of the debt and assets between this Province and that of Ontario has not yet taken place. The uncertainty hence resulting as to our permanent resources unhappily involves delay in the definite settlement of some important matters dependent necessarily on the ascertained state of our finances. The position in which the Province thus finds itself requires at our hands the utmost prudence and wise economy, but you will not hesitate, I trust, while providing for the reasonable wants of the various branches of the public service, to adopt a vigorous policy for the settlement of the country, and the development of its material resources. Votes will be asked from you with this view.

Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council: Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

At your last session you devoted a large share of your attention to our municipal institutions, and to subjects of agriculture and colonization. These will be submitted for your consideration. The project of the municipal code, which, while correcting what may be thought defective in our legislation on this subject, will aim at placing it in a shape more convenient for the numerous and important classes of the community interested in it. Measures will be proposed to you respecting the management and sale of Crown Lands, and for the development of agriculture and colonization. Public opinion is, with reason, much directed to these important subjects. You will, no doubt, feel that they are entitled to your most careful consideration. Several new railway projects, such, as it is hoped, may be carried out at small cost, are under discussion, and the subject is so intimately connected with that of the settlement of our wild lands as to call for your most favourable attention. The general revision of the railway Act, in reference not only to this class of Railways, but also to all others to be constructed under provincial charter may advantageously receive consideration at your hands. Revision of our Jury Law and some portions of our School Laws, as also other matters connected with the administration of justice and better organization of the machinery of our provincial system, will, no doubt, receive their share of your attention. In the discussion of all these matters, and of whatever other subjects may seem to you to be worthy of attention, I do not doubt that you will be animated by that spirit of loyalty and devotion to your gracious Sovereign, which has heretofore distinguished you, and that you will show yourselves sincerely attached to our new institutions, and anxious to maintain harmony and good will as between all various classes of our community. I pray earnestly, that Divine Providence may bless your efforts, and that your labours may be crowned with all success.

Before leaving Stockholm, says a despatch from that capital, the Prince of Wales was made a Knight of the Freemasons of Charles XII., after having successively received the six inferior orders.

Mr Fell, an English engineer, has offered to the Swiss Federal Council to undertake the construction of three railroads over the Alps for a guarantee of interest of 600,000 francs annually. He estimates the cost of that over the Simplon at from eleven to thirteen millions; of the St. Gothard, at from thirteen to fourteen; and at fifteen to eighteen for the Luckmanier.

DEATH OF A JUDGE FROM OUTRAGE IN CHICAGO.

The bar and the public generally of Chicago have been thrown into much excitement in consequence of the death of Judge Arron Tyler, who was recently dragged from the Police Court of that city by order of Justice Milliken, before whom he was pleading, and beaten by the officers of the Court so severely that he died in consequence.

Judge Tyler was an old and much-honoured member of the Chicago bar, and the assault upon him was caused by his alleged refusal to sit down when he was ordered to do so by the Court. It turns out, however, that there was no chair in which he could sit down, and because he did not perform therefore this impossibility, he was peremptorily fined. Naturally enough, he was exasperated at this; but he contented himself by saying aloud, "I can pay my fine, and I will pay it." This is the testimony of a lawyer who was present. Whether the Justice misunderstood the words or not, he immediately ordered him to be put out of Court, which the Chicago bar declares to be in itself an illegal act. The officers pounced with haste and violence upon the venerable Judge, seized him by the arms and collar, and dragged him along the dirty floor of the room, and beat and pounded him before the very eyes of the Justice. Indeed, it is proved "that the largest of the policemen held him by the left hand about the neck and with his right reached over and struck him in the face!" The same witness says that "Judge Tyler seemed to be trying to keep them off, but was not fighting." The witness thought when they got him on the stairs that their object was "to throw him down head foremost, and that he would certainly have fallen if he had not caught hold of the rail." They finally dragged him into a felon's cell, and left him there exhausted and covered with blood.

The Police Justice had to release him at last, and was terrified no doubt, as well as he might be, at the consequence of his action. We are glad to be able to add that the policemen were arrested at the instance of the bar, and will be tried for manslaughter. We hope that Justice Milliken will also be included in the indictment, for nothing short of this ought to satisfy the public, whose moral sense has been outraged by this unheard-of proceeding.

WINTER SPORTS IN CANADA.

A correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel, writing from Montreal, says:—This may be said to be the home of out-door sports on the continent. In summer they have cricket, lacrosse, foot ball, base ball, archery, boating, horse racing, and hunting. The tallyho of its hard riders and the cry of the hounds are familiar sounds to its sporting population, the latter introduced, I dare say, by the English officers, but now sustained by the local swells. But of the winter sports I would speak here.

There are four skating rinks, two gymnasiums, a riding school, snow shoeing and toboggarning. The snow shoe is well known. The clubs are organizations of young men numbering about forty or fifty each. Ladies often take part in the exercise. This consists of a brisk walk two or three times a week over the mountain to the villages on the other side, a distance of about six miles; and indeed it is a most invigorating sport, this same snow-shoeing in the picturesque attire of the country, blanket coat with hood and sash, and mocassins, ranging over hills, fences and fields, inspiring with every breath the intoxication of health borrowed of vigorous exercise in a rich pure atmosphere. The season's sport closes with races, where prizes are given for walking, running, and heel racing, for clumsy and all as they appear, an expert can easily clear a four-foot fence.

But the sport par excellence of the winter is tobogganning. The toboggan is nothing more than two thin boards (not thicker than birch bark), and in the shape of a crescent. Along the sides run slats, and these are crossed by others all securely bound, smooth as glass. The manufacture of toboggans, of snow shoes, and moccasins gives profitable occupation to the Indians of the village of old Lorette below Quebec, a sorry nation of the once powerful nation of the Hurons. The sport is simply sliding, or, as it is known in New England, "coasting." The toboggan is brought to the nearest hill, and the occupants are usually one or two ladies who sit in front, with a gentleman behind to steer, which is done by the foot in the usual way, or with the hands protected by heavy leather mittens. When starting, the motion is at first slow, but gaining impetus as it descends, it attains at last a fearful speed, fully equal to a railway train. The din and roar of the descent, the keen wind and fine snow, with the guardianship of your angel companions, are productive of the most glorious excitement. The slopes of the mountain afford fine opportunities for the practice of this sport, and it is not unusual to see scores of these little machines with their joyous occupants thundering down hill at once.

It is said that one of the first results of the reform at the Admiralty will be the discharge of thirty clerks and writers whose services are found to be superfluous.

A despatch from Washington says:—District Attorney Courtney having written to Attorney-General Evarts for instructions respecting Lieutenant Braine, the ex-Confederate naval officer, who captured the steamer Chesapeake, who has been in prison nearly two years. Mr Evarts decided to-day to recommend his release, as entitled to pardon under the amnesty proclamation.

This is the golden age of advertising. London papers say that the Christmas pantomimes and burlesques are full of puffs. At Drury Lane a well known firm of haberdashers have a scene to themselves for the exhibition of their Christmas goods while Covent Garden introduces a similar display on behalf of a rival establishment. At the Polytechnic, a so-called scientific lecture is devoted to the glorification of an enterprising watchmaker. Among other novelties of advertising, the attractions of the South Kensington Museum are proclaimed by advertisement in the theatrical column of the Times along with "Puss in Boots" and "Turko the Terrible."

Dr Vaughan, the respected vicar of Doncaster, has come forward as a voluntary witness to the benefits, in a pecuniary point of view, which in that town at least have followed the abolition of compulsory Church-rates. One of the arguments always advanced by the supporters of the obnoxious rates was, that, if the legal power of enforcing them were removed, no Dissenter would be willing to contribute anything like the amount which the law exacted. At Doncaster, however, the voluntary has exceeded in amount the compulsory rate, and Dr Vaughan, in congratulating his parishioners on this fact, added that his experience was, that not Dissenters, but Churchmen, were those who the most often refused to contribute. If, he said, the Church tried to live in peace and harmony with Dissenters she had nothing to fear, but would find from them generous, firm, and Christian support.

We learn from the journals of Harve that in a Conference recently held in that city, "Madame Olympe Audouard declared herself to be anything but an admirer of the American, such as she had seen him during her recent visit to this country. The Americans smoke, she said, they chew, they spit, they put their feet on mantelpieces and tables; and if they call themdemocrats, the word has on their lips precisely the sense as aristocrat has elsewhere."

The Wellington Evening Post of the 15th gives the following: "Information of a credible nature has reached the government that the cannibal, Titokowaru, exceeding in villany anything yet heard in New Zealand since the very first days of its colonization, has forwarded to the inland tribes of this island some potted meat, made of the flesh of our poor fellow-countrymen who fell in the late disaster at the front. The purport of this horrible practice, it is scarcely necessary to remark, is to inflame the ferocity of the natives of the interior, from whom the scoundrel expects assistance. Some small kegs of this horrible food have found their way, it is stated, to the Waikato district, and had been seen among the tribes located near Lake Taupo.

The movement for the highest education of women is active in Scotland. Last winter Professor Masson delivered a course of lectures in Edinburgh, on English Literature, to ladies, whose ages ranged from about 22 to 35. Out of a class of 265, there were 94 who obtained certificates for written essays and answers at an examination. A similar course was delivered at Glasgow; and this year three courses, of forty lectures each, are going on in Edinburgh—one by Professor Masson on English Literature; another by Professor Fraser, on Logic and Mental Philosophy; and the third on Experimental Physics, by Professor Tait. From such cultivation a harvest of happy results may be reasonably anticipated.
