WILL MARKET ONTARIO CIDER

Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that an effort is now under way to put Ontario cider on the market "in a big way." The province has completed arrangements whereby the Canadian Wineries at Oakville will put 500 barrels of apples through their plant under the best English recipe. The resultant product will be matured until about April and then put under a government label and extensively advertised in the hope that a wide scale production and sale can be effected by the fall of 1931. In this venture the government has a twofold objective: first the establishment of a big market for surplus "cull' apples, and secondly, reduction of Ontario's annual beer consumption. The product, according to the Minister, will be something never before produced in Canada, the best quality of sparkling cider as produced and bottled in England, with low alcoholic content similar to a light beer. This product has become enormously popular in England and its consumption is increasing every year, while beer consumption is falling proportionately.

FALL BUILDING OPERATIONS

Building operations on the farm during the late fall are confined principally to hog houses, poultry houses, implement sheds and other small buildings. Those that have concrete foundations or foors can be erected at any time if the concrete is laid before the frost. These buildings are inexpensive, especially if the owner is handy with the tools. Lumber dealers have plans and can supply bills of materials and estimate of cost, so that the owner will know pretty accurately what his expenditure wil be. Choosing a site for a hog house or a poultry house requires care. A high, well drained spot is best, while the buildings should extend east and west and face south. Convenience in caring for the hogs and poultry also should be considered.

It is interesting to note that the Chevrolet is now selling its six-cylinder motor car for less than the four-cylinder car at the time of the change over in 1928. At that time the four-cylinder was priced from $625 to $880, while the nine different models in the six-cylinder line, occording to Chevrolet's price reduction announcement, to-day range from $575 to $865, at the factory, Oshawa. In fact, this latest price reduction move makes the present Chevrolet the cheapest in the history of the company.
