EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Ontario Government has announced that it will manufacture a real brand of cider from an English formula at a big winery plant at Oakville. They state that it will be recognized as a temperance drink with only 4 or 5 per cent. alcoholic content, but it is proposed to sell it at the government liquor stores. Why should the public be obliged to pay for a license to buy it at the liquor stores? If it is to be a temperance drink why not give the sale of it to hotels, restaurants, and groceries? There are thousands of people in this country who would consider it a disgrace to be seen entering a government liquor store. If it is not to be a temperance drink then the government will put itself in the position of a liquor manufacturer as well as dispenser.

It is expected that the new Liberal leader, Mitchell F. Hepburn, will go far in the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario and bring it new light and vision to restore it to the prominence it occupied twenty years ago. Although the new leader is only 34 years of age he is of a dynamic personality and is highly regarded for his ability, and his progress will be watched with interest. At present he is a member of the House of Commons for West Elgin and will remain as such until the eve of the next Provincial election. W. E. N. Sinclair, who has led the party in two campaigns, will remain as House leader in the Legislature.

Much has been written from time to time on the subject of corporal punishment in the schools, many writers suggesting that it be abolished altogether and the strap relegated to some museum, where it could be regarded as a relic of torture, used in a time when people were deficient in common sense. But our humble opinion is that the strap should still be used, of course with limitations, because it is one of the most effective persuasive measures that could be adopted. Most teachers at the present time use the strap as a last resort, but with telling effect, and most of those who felt its application are the ones who need it most.

Taking Pay In Wheat

Pioneer days are recalled by conditions now existing on the Prairies. Field Staff of the Federal Department of Agriculture report that having no money with which to purchase flour, farmers are hauling as far as 75 miles to the country mill. Mills are finding it difficult to cope with demands. About ninety per cent. of the flour milled is put through on a gristing basis of around twenty-five cents per bushel, which is usually paid with wheat. The farmer is paying his store bills with the flour and taking the bran and shorts home to feed. In many cases small farmers are helping their more prosperous neighbors and taking their pay in wheat.

CARD OF THANKS

To our friends and neighbors, we wish to express our sincere thanks for all the kindness shown during our recent trouble in the death at our home of the late Alfred Hawks, and especially to the young people of Feversham, for their floral offerings.

Rare Political Tribute

It is rarely that a party paper will pay such tribute to the leader of the opposite party, as given in the following editorial from the Toronto Star of Dec. 23. Such tribute as this will give added strength to the Star's criticisms when it finds something in its opinion really worthy of censure:

The Star Says:

For a good many years Hon. Geo. S. Henry has been superintendent of the Sunday school at Oriole, near his farm just outside Toronto. Most people do not know where Oriole is and, even if they have motored through it, they may not have noticed it, for it is a modest place not insisting on or even asking to be seen. But the little Oriole church would be likely to catch the eye of the passer-by.

Mr. Henry was there as usual on Sunday with his Bible and some necessary papers under his arm. And there as usual were the Sunday school classes, the regular attendance, no more and no less. They all knew Mr. Henry would be there. His son Pat teaches a class of boys and his daughter Helen plays a little foot organ.

Mr. Henry is now Hon. George S. Henry, Prime Minister of Ontario in succession to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, promoted to the post of High Commissioner for Canada in London. But no new duties or honors associated with the premiership of the province interfered with the duty and honor of superintending the little Oriole Sunday school at the usual time and place.

The glimpse one gets of the new Premier going along the country road with members of his family, to his regular Sunday assignment as leader of his little Sunday school, immediately after his elevation to the premiership, making no fuss and having no fuss made for him, or around and about him, must have drawn all people who read about it to him. Premier Henry bears the appearance of being a sensible and level-headed kind of man, modest, reasonable and agreeable. The indications are that success will not turn his head nor events carry him off his feet. He goes his way as usual and it is a kindly way of service to others.

The Cost of Tile Drains

The cost of tile drains varies considerably, depending largely on the nature of the sub soil, local labor conditions, and the method of installation. On the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, an extensive system of tile drains has recently been installed by the Field Husbandry Division. At prevailing labor rates, the cost of installation, exclusive of the cost of tile, has ranged from 14 cents per rod, under favorable conditions, to $2.97 per rod where large boulders were prevalent in the subsoil. The average labor cost of drains installed entirely by hand was $1.91 per rod as compared with 69 cents per rod where ditching machinery was used. For all drains considered, the average cost was 89 cents per rod for labor, and 64 cents per rod for tile, a total average cost of $1.53 per rod. This cost is rather high, due to the prevalence of large boulders in the subsoil. Under favorable conditions, where full use is made of ditching machinery, the cost need not exceed 28 cents per rod for installatioin and 64 cents for tile or a total of 92 cents per rod.

The cost per acre of tile drains depends on the spacing between laterals. At 90 cents per rod the cost per acre will range from about $16, where laterals are 150 feet apart, to about $48 where laterals are 50 feet apart.

Digging was the largest single item in the labor cost at Ottawa, amounting to 77 per cent. of the total labor cost of drains installed by hand, and to 40 per cent. where the traction ditcher was used. In drains dug by hand the cost of digging was found to increase with the depth. Thus the cost of digging a drain four feet deep was 95 cents per rod, as compared with 26 cents per rod for a drain two feet deep, an increase of over 260 per cent. In land free from stones the cost per rod of machine digging did not vary materially with the depths down to four feet, but where boulders were prevalent the cost of digging was more than directly proportional to the depth.

Backfilling with a road grader was found to be the most economical of the methods tried, costing not more than 6 cents per rod, as ccompared with 25 cents per rod for filling by hand. On wet clay land, where the grader could not be used, flouring in the excavated soil with a walking plow proved satisfactory. The use of a slush scraper for backfilling was not more economical than hand filling.
