NEW MARKET FOR LAMBS

One of the most interesting developments or trends of the present time is the extent to which tourist traffic is providing new outlets for farm products. The visitor evidently prefers the best in quality and insists on having it supplied fresh. This demand is making itself felt in connection with almost all farm products, but this year it is particularly noticeable in connection with the heavy marketing of lambs, and that these have had to compete with considerable quantities of imported frozen lamb, the tourist demand has taken care of practically all the fresh product as fast as it has come onto the market.
