ONTARIO WILL OBSERVE 150TH ANNIVERSARY IN '34

Ut incepit sic permanet fidelis, "As it began, so it remains faithful," is the Latin motto borne by the coat-of-arms of the province of Ontario which celebrates its 150th anniversary in 1934. Plans are being made by a committee at Toronto for a gigantic celebration provincial in scope to be held on August 6th of that year Mr. J. E. Middleton, who wrote the "Romance of Ontario," will be commissioned to write a souvenir booklet and the Federal government will in all probability be asked for a special coin and stamp issue. A leading feature in the celebration should be a recognition of the progress made in our educational system. The population of this province was less than 100,000 at the invasion of 1812 and has since grown to 3,374,000. Governor Simcoe made provision for a university. Bishop Strachan opened the first grammar school at Cornwall and interested himself in secondary schools. Then came Egerton Ryerson with his burning passion for free schools for the common people.
