FORT LAFAYETTE NEW YORK.—The distinguished Fort Lafayette seems to have given an extraordinary degree of satisfaction to the democrats of the Republic and not where more so than at the South. The New York correspondent of the Charleston Courier, who understands pretty well what the readers of that paper like, and gives it to them in abundance, began his last letter as follows:—

"A thrill of joy passed over liberty-loving New York yesterday when it became known that Fort Lafayette was no more. The American Bastile is destroyed! Persia with all the horrible recollections of those black days of despotism, when, in the name of liberty, and in the madness of the hour, crimes were committed that history, it is hoped, will forgiveingly overlook when the true story of our civil war is to be written. There it stands to-day at the entrance of the model Republic's greatest harbor a black mass of ruin and desolation, utterly useless and ugly to look at. There may its ruins remain, never to be rebuilt for purposes such as have degraded the great national fortress during the past eight years. The cinders from the smouldering ruins are hailed with delight, not only by those of our citizens who, in a time of terror, were unjustly incarcerated in that fort, but also by the thousands to whom the very existence of the fort became an eyesore ever since it had been turned into a despotic bastile by men charged with protecting the liberties of a free people."

A QUEER SERMON.—A Mexican priest had the bad luck last summer to fall into the hands of a gang of highwaymen. As he had no money about him, these knights of St. Nicholas clamored for a sermon. He preached without notes, but his language was—in substance as follows:

Gentlemen, I cannot honor you better than by comparing your life with that of our Saviour, while on earth. He suffered much; so do you, being always fugitives. Christ went with his disciples; and so are you always in gangs. He visited Pharisees and Scribes; you also go to see the people who are not better than they. He often suffered from rain and wind, cold, heat, and insult; so do you suffer from the same inconveniences. Christ went barefoot and with but one dress; and it seems to me that you do not possess more than what you carry on your bodies. He carried no silver and gold about him; I do not think your pockets are always filled. He fasted forty days in the desert; and I believe that you do often the same. He was tempted by the devil; you are always in that condition. He was carried to the pinnacle of the temple and the submit of the highest mountain; the devil takes you to the most isolated places, where you waylay the traveller. Christ suffered from hunger and thirst; the same infirmities attack you. He was scorned by all; so are you despised by mankind. The Jews wanted to hang him; so are the authorities after you for the same purpose. He was sold by Judas; and no doubt somebody will play that part among you.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE.—As our readers are aware, the affairs of Upper Canada College are to be brought before the Educational Committee of our Legislative Assembly, and the whole constitution and working of the establishment thoroughly investigated. We are very glad that this should be done. All parties are in favour of a searching investigation, and no doubt good will be the result if the enquiry is prosecuted with a simple determination to ascertain what best for the advancement of higher education in the Province.

A BIT OF ROMANCE.—The London Free Press has a story 'this wise': 'Some 20 or 25 years ago there lived in Hamilton a family named De Clair, consisting of the parents and several children. They subsequently removed to an interior town, and one of the daughters married a British officer, who died after several years' time. A brother, named Sylvester, left home and went to London, where he learned the art of painting. He grew to manhood, wandered about the country, and finally brought up in Michigan, in the vicinity of Saginaw, but it does not appear that his roving disposition forsook him. His sister married again and went to Michigan, and have since been keeping a hotel and boarding house in Detroit. On Saturday evening last Sylvester De Clair, the brother referred to, turned up at a house of prostitution, and was garroted and robbed. He was detained in the central station as a witness, and on Monday a woman, having heard of his misfortune, called to see him. He had no strawberry mark on his left arm—but he had half a foot (the other half having been removed in his youth by a threshing machine,) and the woman at once recognized her long lost brother. He recognized her by the family likeness in her countenance, and a brother and sister who had supposed each other dead met for the first time in 20 years.

Narrow Gauge Railways in England.

Several Narrow Gauge Railway enterprises are in successful operation, and being inaugurated in England. Mr. W. W. Hulse, President of the Institution of Civil Engineers in Manchester, recently delivered an address to the members of that institution in favor of the proposed Manchester and Didsbery 3 foot 6-inch Railway, stating the speed guaranteed to be 25 miles an hour, and that the cost would only be two-thirds that of a line on the 4.8½ inch gauge. We think it unnecessary to quote anything to confirm the faith of the public in this kind of Railway. There is no arguing against a scientific fact, demonstrated with Steam Engines by years of experience, in various countries; yet the following extract from Public Opinion will be interesting to the friends of the various Narrow Gauge enterprises, projected from Quebec to Lake Huron. The prospectus of the "Islington Railway Company" is announced:

"The object is the construction of a line from Islington Green, near the Agricultural Hall, to a point adjoining the city station of the Metropolitan Railway at Finsbury, with an intermediate station by the Eagle Tavern, City-road. The railway is to form a continuous bridge or viaduct, and to have a gauge of only three feet. It is stated that a line with a less gauge than the one contemplated can be worked with perfect safety and economy; and the Festiniog Railway, which has only a gauge of two feet, is instanced as a favorable illustration. The capital of the company is to be £800,000, in shares of £20 each. A deposit of $2 per share is to be paid, and no call will be made till after the passing of the Act, nor is any call to be greater than 15 per cent. There are to be no debentures or preference stock, and the capital account is to be closed immediately upon the completion of the railway. The construction of the whole works is not to occupy more than one year, and the capital is estimated to be sufficient for the purchase of the plant, rolling stock, property, and payment of expenses and compensations. On this subject the Money Market Review writes:—The line is intended to be built upon a continuous viaduct. The most remarkable feature of it is, perhaps, that the ordinary gauge of 4 ft. 8½ in. is to be departed from. For such a special and independent line there is no need to adopt it, as there will be no junctions at either end or at any intermediate point. The gauge will be only three feet, with a view to insure cheap construction and an inexpensive rolling stock. There is the highest scientific and practical authority as to the safety of such a gauge, and the facility with which it may be worked. Perhaps the most singular railway in the United Kingdom, and the best paying also, is the Festiniog line, which runs from the slate mountains of Carnarvonshire and Merionethshire towards the sea at Port Madoc. The gauge of that line is only 2 feet, yet last year it carried 125,000 tons of freight and 120,000 passengers, and not a single accident has occurred upon it since its opening, four years ago. There are various other lines here and there of a narrower gauge than the ordinary one, to which the same advantages attain. Experience, in short, has demonstrated its safety. The estimate put forward assume a gross traffic on this proposed Islington line of £150,000 a year at minimum fares; and, deducting 40 per cent for working expenses—a very high scale for so light a line—the return upon the capital is put at fully ten per cent.

per annum. Moreover, it is proposed that the arches upon which the line is to be built shall be available for letting; and it is pointed out that from this source a considerable revenue may be gained over and above that comprised in the estimate of the ten per cent. dividend. Finally the promoters set forth that the proposed line will be a complete undertaking in itself, and have no extension projects attaching to it.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 29, 1868.

THE UNKNOWN MAN.—In consequence of the relatives of the missing Mr. Ferguson have failed to identify the body of the unknown man lying at the city "morgue," the Chief of Police has requested the County Constable, who deposited it there, to take it away for interment. Yesterday it was reported that the body was that of a man from Storrington, known as Jimmy McCarey, who left for the city about three weeks ago, and was last seen here in a state of intoxication. He worked for a farmer named Stenson, and before the body is interred, an opportunity will be afforded for identity to some persons who have known him. The deceased, as well as his clothes, answers very well the description of McCarey.

THE CLOSE OF NAVIGATION.—The steamer Watertown made her last trip from Cape Vincent on Thursday evening. She endeavored unsuccessfully to continue her trips the following day, but the ice was to strong for her. The Pierrepont made an effort to reach Wolfe Island on Saturday, but gave up the attempt when she had accomplished only half the distance. Since Saturday the ice has borne foot passengers at various parts, and on Sunday some persons skated over to Wolfe Island. Yesterday a number of lads ventured out into the harbor for the purpose of skating, but as yet, since there is no frost to strengthen the ice, the pleasure is attended with a very great risk. The American channel is filled with floating ice, and ice boats are called into requisition in both channels to convey passengers and mails to and from this city and Cape Vincent. If the present mild weather continues one of the ferry steamers will make another attempt at a passage, so that steamboat navigation may not now be closed after all. Rarely does the ice bridge form firmly till the second week in January.

POLICE COURT, Monday.—Catharine Bailey preferred a charge against Mary Nesbitt, of assaulting and calling her improper names. After hearing the evidence, the Magistrate reserved his decision until a future day. Robert Burke, a hardened old vagrant, was discharged, on promise to leave the city. These were the only cases.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

This remedy has long been cherished by the community for its remarkable efficacy in relaxing, healing and curing the most obstinate, painful and long-standing cases of Cough, Cold, Influenza, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma, Inflamation of the Lungs; while even Consumption itself has yielded to its magic influence when all other means have failed. Its whole history proves that the past has produced no remedy of equal value, as a cure for the numerous and dangerous pulmonary affections which prevail all over the land.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

From Andrew Archer, Esq., of Fairfield Me:—"About eight years since my son, Henry A Archer, now Postmaster at Fairfield, Somerset County, Me., was attacked with spitting of blood, cough, weakness of Lungs and general debility, so much so that our family physician declared him to have a "Seated Consumption." He was under medical treatment for a number of months, but received no benefit from it. At length, from the solicitation of himself and others, I was induced to purchase one bottle of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which benefited him so much I obtained another bottle, which in a short time restored him to his usual state of health. I think I can safely recommend this remedy to others in like condition, for it is, I think, all its purports to be—the Great Lung Remedy for the Times! The above statement, gentlemen, is my voluntary offering to you in favor of your Balsam, and is at your disposal.

Prepared by SETH W. FOWLE & SON, 18 Tremont St. Boston, and for sale by Druggists generally.

I therefore feel happy to certify my confidence in its virtues. Yours with respect.
