THE LATE J. K. MOFFAT

Many of our readers will regret to learn of the death of Mr. J. K. Moffat, the well known stove manufacturer of Weston. Mr. Moffat was one of four brothers, who with their father, some fifty years ago started a stove making factory in Markdale. Later, they moved to Weston, where they have carried on a stove manufactory, having its ramifications throughout the world. He has been President of his company, but he has not confined his energies to it. The United church found in him a warm supporter, and he was an elder of Westminister church, while local bodies having the welfare of the general public, ever had in him a warm friend. Mr. Moffat, who was in his 72nd year leaves a widow (nee Annie Reid) one son (a medical doctor in Michigan) and a daughter, Helen.

Car Struck Cow

A cow, owned by Mr. Carl Atkinson of Victoria Corners, was struck and knocked down in front of his gate on Monday evening by a car driven by Mr. Geo. Armstrong of town. Mr. Armstrong was driving south on the highway and as he was about to vass Mr. Atkinson's gate, a cow, coming therefrom, stepped in front of the car. She received a broken leg and a rupture on the side and later had to be disposed of. The car will need a new radiator and front fenders were dinged. According to highway traffic officer Boswell of Shelburne, who was summoned, Mr. Atkinson was carrying a lantern and driving the cow to his other farm, a few rods north, and had just stepped out of the gate, but had not started on the highway when the accident occurred. He stated that the cow should not have been on the road without a light being near it. An agreement has not been reached as yet between the two parties.

Williamsford has lost by death its grand old man, Christopher Heft, aged 99 years. He was for many years a farmer in Sullivan.
