EDITORIAL NOTES

An angel with scarlet lips and a tanned face is now a common figure on the Paris boulevards. Who wants the demure maiden? We pass.

* * *

Newmarket feeds its transients on ten cents a meal. If the diet is made up of vegetables, cereal and milk there is no reason why the cost should be greater. Municipal folks, try it.

* * *

More and more British women are wearing what are known as "porridge pot" knitted caps. This headgear is not exactly pretty, neither is its weave a mere following of a fashion; the girls explain. It is an economical gesture.

* * *

Machinery continues to push hand labor on the farm to the side, consequently, though the crops in the north west this year have been large, there is no need for the railways running special excursions to carry Easteners to the wheat fields.

* * *

The Dominion Railway Commission has issued an edict relieving all railway companies from providing cattle guards at their railway crossings in cities and towns. It is recognized that animals are now very seldom found on the highways unless under control.

* * *

The perennial bonus hunter is abroad in the land looking for municipal money to start an industry so far unable to stand on its own legs. It would be interesting to have the Bureau of Statistics supply accurate statistics of the experiences of towns and villages who have favorably responded to the voice of the siren.

Jack Miner continues to maintain that hawks and owls should be outlawed because of their persistent destruction of chickens and song birds, which are far more valuable to humanity. Jack is a balancer of results and after long and patient observation he strongly recommends the banning of the hawk and the outlawing of the owl.

The oldest resident of Bruce County died last week in Paisley. Mr. Thomas McBeath was aged 103 years and five months when he passed away. His career and long and honored age should be made a note of by those who crave a happy life time. As a farmer, he enjoyed hewing a home for himself and his Scottish bride out of the tree covered fertile acres of Elderslie township, and he attributed his long life to hard work, simple habit and avoidance of worry. We are not so informed, but we could wager a ticket on a motor car that he practiced the habit of early to bed and early to rise, and profited accordingly.

"Jimmy" Walker, the New York Mayor, did not wait to be dismissed by governor Roosevelt, before whom his financial doings were investigated. He resigned with the laconic declaration that he had not received a fair trial and that he left his case in the hands of the people of the city. Whether he will again run is uncertain but there are many indications that Tammany friends desire him to go out of sight—at least till after the Presidential election. Then, he may "come back" and be elected, for the great mass of New York electors dearly love "a high financier," and they have repeatedly condoned municipal wrong doing when its beneficiaries greatly profited.

Returns recently compiled by educational authorities in the Province show that there has been a constantly increasing tendency to raise the cost of high school education in recent years, as nearly all the high schools are crowded, increased expenditures for buildings, equipment and teachers are expected this year. The increased cost to the taxpayer in the last few years has been phenomenal. For example, since 1913 the cost of secondary education has risen 5-14 per cent, while 19 per cent of the total tax imposed for school buildings compared with 33 per cent in 1919. Now trustee boards in many localities have taken an economy fit by cutting down teachers' salaries—a belated retrenchment made easier through the existence of an overplus of the profession. Teachers, naturally think that they should not be called on to bear the burden of hard times and defective administration.

Demand Piling Up

C. E. McTavish, general sales manager, General Motors Products of Canada, Limited, estimates that the demand for replacements of passenger cars in Canada has been dammed up by conditions, and, in a recent statement, gave it as his belief that there would be an inevitable reaction on the market. It is a fact, he said, that more and more cars which were due to be scrapped, have been retained in service. Normally(seven per cent. of the number of licenses issued in any year are withdrawn from use the following year. At this rate, withdrawals in the current year would be 71,000 cars. If registration totals are to remain at their present level, or climb higher as one might expect, then it simply means a wonderful opportunity for automobile salesmen when the upturn takes place.

A beautiful memorial window has been unveiled in Trinity United Church, Hanover, in memory of the late H. H. Miller, a member of the House of Commons for South Grey, 1904-1911, and his son, Fraser Robert Miller, killed in action in France in 1918.

Steer Ran Amok

Butchers have their troubles the same as others, and Ezra Schenk, one of the local meat purveyors, had his yesterday. He had purchased a number of cattle over near Markdale and was bringing them to town to his pasture in the west end. When the herd approached the overhead bridge at the C.P.R. one animal, apparently docile, and leading the herd, gave a snort and refused to pass under the bridge and broke away. Charging a couple of men who attempted to stop it, an effort was finally made to bring the cattle around by McGowan's mill. Everything was going all right until the same animal saw a car parked on the side of the road, which it charged with such force that it is said the impact moved the car some fifteen feet and stunned the animal, which was then roped. Upon recovering it gave no evidence of temper and was easily led away and placed in Mr. McGowan's stable. Next morning the animal was found dead, although the previous evening it had taken water and commenced to feed. It is believed it died of fright and overexertion.—Durham Chronicle.

FEEDER PURCHASE POLICY

Renewal of the Feeder Purchase Policy designed to encourage the winter feeding of cattle and lambs of suitable type and quality is announced by the Hon. Robt. Weir, federal Minister of Agriculture. Under the terms of this policy, broadly put, the federal Department will pay the reasonable travelling expenses of a farmer or his agent to the stockyard point of purchase, the feeder sales. or nearest station to range point at which feeder stock is purchased. To secure the benefits of the policy at least one car of stock (20 cattle or 40 lambs, or a combined car, figured on 2 lambs as the equivalent of one beef animal) must be purchased. Stock purchased is subject to approval as to type and suitable for the official representative of the Dominion Live Stock Branch serving the point of purchase.

The Ontario Reformatory inmates at Guelph are already busy on next year's markers for automobiles. It is estimated that the number required will be about 700,000 sets and it will take four or five months to complete the work. About 6,000 sets a day are turned out. The markers will have a yellow background with blake letters. When completed they are packed in 50 sets in a carton, ready for shipment.
