WHY CANCER CASES INCREASE

More hopeful information about cancer has been supplied to The American Journal of Cancer by an expert lady investigator, Dr. Madge Thurlow Macklin of the University of Western Ontario. This expert acknowledges that in recent years there has been a real increase in the cases reported, but points out that it is all due to the larger numbers of persons living beyond 60 whose lives have been saved from other diseases that used to kill at a younger age. "We may visualize mankind," says this investigator. "as walking over a bridge which spans the river of death. Along its length and width are many trap-doors, through which the unwary traveller may drop As the trap-door of infant mortality opens far less frequently than it did before; as the trap-door of yellow fever is practically shut; as the trap-door for malaria, smallpox and typhoid open but once where formerly they opened a score of times, we find that the troup of people is not nearly so thinned out by the time the middle of the bridge is reached as in years gone by."

Dr. Macklin's study answers a world wide discussion whether the large recent increase in cancer deaths is real or only apparent. "There is strong ground for believing," she writes, "that a similar analysis of the statistics of any other country would lead to the same conclusions. It is true there may be racial differences in immunity to cancer, but the conclusion here reached will probably prove universal, namely that excellent public health measures and high cancer rates are inseparable, at least for the present. Medical men, however, have strong hopes that the real cause of the malady will be ascertained, and a palliative or cure be made possible. Even now, when cancer is discovered in its very early stage, it is being successfully combatted.

This week we welcome to Flesherton the teachers of South Grey for their annual convention being held in the town hall. There is an excellent program provided and the discussions on the various subjects are bound to be interesting, not only to teachers, but to others who may find time to visit the convention.

Down in the pretty town of Truro, N.S., a stray cow was found browsing on a beautiful lawn, and was promptly arrested, taken to the police station, entered as a vagrant and sentenced to detention until claimed by its owner, who, on behalf of the animal, promised good behaviour in future, and got her home in time to replenish the milk supply. Hereabouts cows are generally well behaved, though occasional ones do hurt unprotected lawns. But it surely is the duty of every owner to co-operate with their neighbors and keep a sharp eye on "bossy," who is only too ready to go gadding. We heard of one householder who did not have the cow run in as a vagrant, but pormptly relieved her of her latest milk supply and shooed her home. If this treatment of astray cows became general there might soon be no transgressors.

The Mayor of Toronto takes strong ground against the action of the Ontario Hydro Commission in calling upon the consumers to pay the premiums collected on bonds payable in the United States. "Now, if at any time, the benefits of public ownership should be felt," declared the Mayor. "I am a strong supporter of public ownership. But there should be no levy upon the power consumers of Ontario, in these hard times such as the present, which is not of paramount importance for the advancement of the public's enterprise. Hydro appears to be failing in one of the principal causes of its creation: 'Power at cost.'" And failure to maintain this ideal of Hon. Adam Beck there will be unless there is united action to prevent the levy proposed.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

HAVE A HEALH EXAMINATION

There are various types of service; there are services which we have as members of the community, and private services for which we arrange when we have need of them.

Medical services are available to bring to the benefit of mankind the knowledge and skill acquired through years of study and experience. However, although the service is there, it is used only in part. The sick come to be made whole; few people come to be kept in health.

We today are free from the menace of certain diseases which were well and sadly known but a short time ago. Imported sanitary measures have given us much in return for the money expended on the safeguarding of water, milk and food supplies. We have arrived at the time when we cannot expect much further help from sanitary measures,and we will have to rely upon individual efforts to deal with those diseases which sanitary conditions do not influence.

The degenerative diseases of the heart, kidneys and blood vessels, cancer and diabetes do not develop suddenly, as do acute diseases such as pneumonia or typhoid fever. They are insidious in their development, although the first evidence of their existence may come as an overwhelming catastrophe.

These degenerative diseases develop within us. They have no relationship to the health of anyone else in the family or around about us. They represent the wearing out or partial destruction of essential working parts of the body machine.

We should seek to prevent the degenerative diseases by living a normal, hygienic life. We should also seek to know of their existence in our body by having a regular health examination once a year. If we wait until we feel the changes which these diseases cause, then very likely we have waited until irreparable inroads have been made.

The health examination provides for a check-up of all the organs of the body. The earliest signs of disease are detected and treatment secured at the time when it can do the most good. Instead of waiting until you are quite sure that you are ill to call in your doctor to take care of you, how much better it is to have him do his best to keep you well.

The periodic health examination offers a practical means to secure a longer, healthier life.

Osprey Fair Friday

Everything is all set for the Osprey fall fair at Feversham on Friday afternoon of this week, when it is hoped that fair weather will prevail and allow a record crowd to attend for this main township event of the year. The many special prizes presented for competition is sure to bring out a large number of horse exhibits and other live stock. Plan to attend the Feversham fair on Friday and enjoy an afternoon with your friends. At night a concert will be held in the agricultural hall, when a play "Welcome Home Jimmy," will be presented by the Feversham Dramatic Clsb, and should attract a full house.

Two Orillia youths were sent to jail at Orangeville for stealing gas from an automobile. County Crown Attorney asked that the young men be whipped but the unfortunates thought imprisonment enough.

Seized with a heart attack while travelling in Europe last week, Robt. Curran, Mayor of Orillia and a well known newspaper man, died in London, Eng. He was 65 years old and had been in ill health.
