CAUGHT MUSKRAT

On Wed. morning while fishing at Shannon's Bay, John McKay, got such a good bite he thought he must be capturing a whale. Pulling up his line he saw a muskrat coming up backwards through the small hole in the ice. The hook was caught near the tail, very firmly fixed. When the rat got on the ice, it drove Mr. McKay and his son out of the fish house as it ran around biting fiercely at both of them.

The rat finally came out and ran around on the ice. As the hook could not be loosened the rat was killed. It was a fine plump animal and seemed to be wintering well.

This is the second rat caught in the same place. The first one got away with the fisherman's line and hook.—Orillia Packet and Times.

DO YOUR HENS LAY?

A pretty reliable old formula for finding out whether or not a flock of hens is paying for the feed they eat is supplied by F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman. It is as simple as it is practical: Take the cost of feed per hundredweight divide it by the cost of eggs per dozen and multiply this quotient by three. This gives you the number of eggs per day which a flock of 100 hens must lay to pay for the cost of their feed. For example: Feed is costing $1.20 per cwt., and eggs selling at 30 cents per dozen: Applying the formula the quotient is 4; this multiplied by three gives the result 12—or the number of eggs which a flock of 100 hens will have to average per day to pay for feed at that cost ratio.

REPUDIATION OF U.S.A. DEBTS

Among the United States legislators who insist on the full pound of flesh in the matter of war debts are the representatives from Mississippi. In insisting that Britain pay up in full the principal and interest owing to the United States these Mississippi men are asking action that is in striking contrast to that of their own state regarding money borrowed from England nearly a century ago. These bonds amounted to $7,000,000 which were declared valid by the Supreme Court of Mississippe, have been in default since 1841.

Mississippe is but one of several states that have failed to pay their just debts. Others are: Alabama $13,000,000, Arkansas $8,000,000' Florida $8,000,000, Georgia $13,500,000, Louisiana $6,000,000, North Carolina 113,000,000, South Carolina $8,000,000. By means of repudiative legislation and state court decisions and the protection offered by Eleventh Federal Amendment, which prevents private citizens from suing a state in federal court these eight states continue to evade payment. It was stated in the British House of Commons on April 13, 1928, by Col. Howard Drury, that the interest on the above debts then amounted to 66,000,000 pounds, or a total indebtedness of 78,000,000 pounds.

Unlike the British war debt, these debts were not for payment of American goods at enormous prices, but represented real money put up by bond holders for building railways, establishing banks, etc., before and after the Civil War.

Decent self-respecting citizens of these states must feel a sense of shame at such pressure being used on Great Britain while thee legitimate debt of their own remain unpaid. — Barrie Examiner.

Urged Acceptance Of Soviet Deal

At a mass meeting held in Flesherton town hall on Friday evening the farmers of this district unanimously demanded acceptance by the Bennett government of the Russian barter offer by which $7,000,000 worth of Canadian dairy cattle and hides were to be sent to Russia in exchange for Soviet oil and gasoline. A motion to this effect was passed and forwarded to the Prime Minister by telegraph.

At the same meeting the farmers concurred in the motion passed by the mass meeting of farmers at the recent U.F.O. convention in Toronto demanding inflation of the Canadian currency not merely to bring it to parity with the British pound sterling, but far enough to meet the fixed debt charges of the country.

The mass petition embodying this resolution and circulated by the U.F.O. was later signed by the Flesherton farmers at the meeting.

The telegram urging acceptance of the Russian barter offer, which was sent to the prime minister, read as follows:

"At a representative meeting held at Flesherton on Friday night, Dec. 30, farmers strongly demanded acceptance of the Russian trade offer of hides and beef for gasoline.

"Agricultural conditions are desperate, and relief must come from some source soon. We, therefore, urge acceptance."

Geo. Best Passes

Death came suddenly on Sunday evening to Mr. Geo. Best, a well known farmer on No. 10 Highway, four and a half miles south of Flesherton, following a short illness of pneumonia. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Best and was 49 years of age. He was a highly respected citizen and his passing is a shock to his many friends throughout his own section and in Flesherton. He has resided in Artemesia township in the Victoria Corners vicinity all his life.

Besides his aged parents he leaves to mourn a sister, Mrs. Carl Atkinson, who resides on a neighboring farm.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon and was largely attended by a host of sorrowing friends and relatives. Rev. Laidlaw, a former pastor of the Inistioge church, conducted the service at the house and cemetery and delivered a very comforting message. Interment took place in Flesherton cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. C. Moore, Milton Bannon, W. Gallagher, Geo. Ludlow, Leslie Brooks, and Ren. Acheson.

An Ancient Equine

Mr. Charles Martin of Eugenia has a mare which has surely reached the alloted span for equines. She was born 35 years ago and on the farm of his father, 2½ miles north of Eugenia. Mr. Martin broke her in as a colt and she has been his treasured possession ever since. She has never cost her owner a cent for medicine and is still able to do a little work, having plowed out the potatoes and done a little plowing last fall. Mr. Martin has a sentimental feeling of regard for the old mare and keeps her in comfort during her old age. She has surely earned a juisy diet in her declining years.

SHOT A GROUNDHOG

With the unseasonably mild weather prevailing over the week end, the groundhogs were playing around, evidently thinking that spring had arrived. Mr. Harvey White bagged one of the destructive creatures on Tuesday, certainly a most unusual event for the 27th of December.—Tara Leader.

St. Mary's Social

The annual Christmas social and supper for the Sunday school of St Mary's church, Maxwell, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seeley on December 28th. There was a good attendance and a very enjoyable time was spent. Instead of the proposed sleigh-ride the scholars played French tag and pom pom pullaway, in a neighboring hay field. The ground was dry and hard and these games are exceptional for Dec 28 in this section of the province Games were also played in the house. A splendid supper was served and some of the scholars sang and recited. A very pleasant afternoon was spent and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seeley for their home and hospitality.

It has later transpired that the offer of barter was not a genuine one according to reports from New York

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

Charle Jennings

To applaud or not to applaud—that is the question—As a listener, you have every right, in your own drawing room, to applaud all you like, because listeners elsewhere do not hear, but it is possible we are giving too much time to the studio handclappers?—Frankly, we feel we are in a better position when seated beside our own set, to appraise the efforts of a radio comedian than are the guests in the hall where the broadcast is originating.—We have to apply the radio measuring stick, because we cannot see the comedian's funny face—and sometimes a gag that seems lame to us gets a disconcerting amount of applause back in the studio. One of these times we'll get tired wondering about the and we'll tune out and leave the program flat on its back—but that title of ardent applause arising from the listeners in Metropolitan Opera House or the audience at the New York Philharmonic-Symphony programs, that is something else again. It is all part of a great show—We approve—we may even join in.

Once get listening to Rabbi Eisendrath—speaker of Sunday afternoon Canadian Forum programs—and there isn't much danger of your tuning out There IS a voice—sympathetic and searing by turns, resonant, challenging, and creating the impression of tons of power in reserve—strange what importance a single voice casts over problems of politics and international finance—clear case of the power of the spoken word. We used to listen to Tony Wons and his homely and palatable philosophy—until we saw his picture. He looks very youthful. He should have had his portrait taken in character—with a long white beard.

Did it ever occur to you that this harried old world is fortunate in having radio to soothe and console it? Almost as lucky as the weary monarchs of history who could summon their jesters and minstrels to drive away the royal jitters and willies? Tomorrow is rent day, but tonight is carefree as I sit in my armchair and toy with the dial. My business is in the red tomorrow, but tonight I chuckle at Eddie Cantor Tomorrow a note comes due, but tonight I relax to Whiteman's minstrelsy—come to think of it, a lot of us, rich and poor, might be nervous wrecks if it were not for the therapy of radio waves.

We said Whiteman, but we mean Lombardos—the Canadian wandering minstrels, Guy is the leader, Carmen the composer. These boys and many of the band had their first triumphs in Canadian theatres. We remember away back when the Royal Canadians were doing things to orchestra music in London, Ontario.—Oh, well, why get too specific,—it's one of the good things we have reported, anyway—And by the way, we don't have to get all our classical music from abroad, either. We have heard the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra -- Rumor hath it that Hector Charlesworth waved his magic wand, and British Columbia forthwith began to contribute to the better Canadian chain programs—the more Canadian chain programs the better, in our opinion. We have heard good music from both sides — George Edward Sauve, leader of the Nova Scotia Hotel orchestra in Halifax, whose music charms the Maritimes and Lafe Cassidy's jazz orchestras in the Banff Springs Hotel and Hotel Vancouver. There are plenty of other good ones.

The Dial of Pleasure programs have really good entertainers and a really good idea-variety. All the programs yet to come will be different from these you have heard—Same idea, in a different way, governs the General Motors Pontiac programs with Colonel Stoodnagle and Budd. These old favorites are heard Thursday evenings along with well known soloists, a large vocal ensemble, and a symphonic dance orchestra with 45 musicians—Plenty of opportunity to change the key, so that listeners will not change the station. Jolson is the big star for another G. M. car broadcast. Al is applying the old formula that made him great in the theatre. He is singing request numbers. He says he is going to keep on turning out the old Jolson hits until he has exhausted the list.

Late John Bell

John C. Bell, a prominent resident of Nelson, B. C., and former resident of this district died early in December at the age of 74 years. He was well known in British Columbia as a clever sawmill builder and millwright. He resided on the O.D.R., Artemesia, for a number of years and built a sawmill on the site now occupied by H. A. McCauley's sash and door factory. He framed his first barn at 18 years of age and continued his work when he went west. It is also said that he invented the first binder in this district and for many years was owned by the late Jas. Vause. He married Miss Emma Oliver of Artemesia, who survives with two sons. He is also survived by three brothers and two sisters, Donald of Blind River, Samuel of Sault Ste. Marie, Alex. of Collingwood, Mrs. Yeates and Miss Maggie of Algoma.
