Important to the Users of Steam.
REASONS
WHY TANDY'S PATENT BOILER IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS.
1st.—It is simple in construction, easy to keep clean and less liable to get out of order than any other Boiler.
2nd.—It is constructed on sound scientific principles, the water circulating as near as practicable at right angles with the action of the heat.
3rd.—The water circulates inside the tubes which gives double the strength and one third more effective heating surface with the same number and description of tubes when fixed in an ordinary Boiler.
4th.—It is one third lighter than other Boilers with the same amount of evaporative power and cheaper in a corresponding degree.
5th.—It cannot prime, it gives perfectly dry steam and effects a saving in fuel of at least 30 per cent on any ordinary Boiler.
6th.—It requires no brick work to set it and is applicable to every variety of purpose, both for steam engines and heating buildings by water or steam.
☞ N.B.—I will replace any other boiler now in use with my Patent Boiler and take the saving in fuel in part payment. It can be seen in operation at my Works.

GERTRUDE.

I love thee!—need I say it now?
Not for the eye of heavenly blue,
Not for the fair, transparent brow,
Which azure streams meander through,
The rosate cheek, the raven curls
That round the breathing marble dance—
For these adorn a thousand girls
Who scarce attract my passing glance!
Though thine is beauty's fairest flower,
And all the magic she imparts,
It is not that which gives thee power
To wind into my heart of hearts.

I love thee for thy gentle mind,
Where thought of evil had no place;
Thy grateful heart, thy feelings kind,
Thy modesty a bewitching grace!
Thy pure affections welcome rush,
That laves my fevered soul, in bland
Refreshment, like the fountain's gush
To Arabs 'mid the burning sand!

I love thee by my perfect trust
In hat perfect truth;
My hopes have crumbled off in dust,
And friends have failed me from my youth;
Though time may common hearts estrange,
And common friends their ties may break,
There is a heart can never change—
A friend that never will forsake!

I love thee—not with passion's fire,
But the devotion, pure and high,
A guardian seraph might inspire,
Who came with comfort from the sky.
There is a blight upon my heart,
A hopeless sorrow on my mind—
But Gertrude! dearest! where'll on art
I seem the peace of heaven to find!

O may the peace of heaven be thine,
Sweet Gertrude! be what may my lot!
When life and thee I must resign,
Remember—yet lament me not!
E'en then be happy in the thought
That thou hast loved me to the end:
That thou hast been the boon I sought—
A chosen and a faithful friend.

—The authorities of the Northampton Bank have employed 100 men to search the town for the stolen securities. It is claimed that the robbers are known, and that a settlement can be effected with them by allowing them to retain $12,000.

Hemorrhoids (or Piles) are permanently cured by Mathieu's Pile Ointment, or money refunded. Price $1 per Pot, or 6 Pots for $5. Sold wholesale and retail by the Wingate Chemical Company, Montreal, and retail by all druggists, or will be forwarded to any address on receipt of price by Dr. E. Mathieu, 198 Notre Dame Street, Montreal.

A CARD.—To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood &c. I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Inman, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

Health is Strength.—To prevent or conquer disease is one of the grandest attainments ever aimed at by man; and Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers will as sure cure coughs, colds, tickling in the throat and pulmonary complaints, as war and pestilence will destroy. Severe colds if not attended to sooner or later lead to incurable consumption and the strength of the strongest soon fails if neglected. The readiest and best means known for the cure of these complaints is Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers, which have been thoroughly tried for the last twenty years and have never been known to fail. Singers and public speakers will also derive great benefit from the use of them. Sold by all druggists and country dealers. Price 25c per box.

Not Quite So.—It is among the most savage and debased tribes only that the condition and comfort of the horse have neglected, but we believe they are many in civilized countries who are guilty of the same neglect and without the excuse of the former; here all may avail themselves of the use of an article which has done more than anything else heretofore known to improve the condition and relieve the suffering of the horse. Those who will not use it will be the losers, their horses the sufferers; to avoid both use "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," and you will be satisfied with the result. Remember, the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co.'s on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Chronic Splenitis—Physician's report of a remarkable case.—Gagetown, N.B. July 22, '68. Mr James I Fellows, Chemist—Dear Sir: Allow me to bear my testimony in favour of your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. I have used it myself for Tuberculosis with marked benefit and have given it to a great number of my patients, with the results as I experienced from its use. During the last seven years I have devoted myself almost exclusively to the treatment of Consumption, having cases under my care in all parts of the Province; so that I am enabled to speak from experience of the benefits derived from its use. The most marked cure was a case which was under my care in March last. This was a patient who had been under treatment nine months without benefit. When I first saw him he was so feeble that he could not sit up long enough to have his heart and lungs examined. What disease he had been treated for did not appear but I found him suffering under chronic solenitis. He had a severe cough, dyspnoea, palpitation of the heart, impaired digestion and consequent general emaciation. I put him under treatment, prescribed your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and after using four bottles he was able to attend to his farm and is now perfectly well. In March he was given up by four physicians respectively; in May he assisted in ploughing 18 acres of land, and had run up in flesh from 136 to 148 lbs weight. I send you this for the purpose of making what use you please of it and wish you all success in your labor for the benefit of suffering humanity. Strongly recommending the use of your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites to all who suffer in any way from disease or weakness of the lungs, bronchial tubes or general debility. Believe me your obt servant. J. H Scott, M D

Read This Twice.—Five to thirty drops of Thomas' Eclectric Oil, will cure common Sore Throat. It never fails in Croup. It will cure a Cold or Cough in twenty-four to forty-eight hours. One bottle has cured Bronchitis of eight years standing; recent cases are cured in three to six days. It has restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper in five years. As an outward application in all cases of pain or lameness, nothing like it has ever been known. One bottle will cure any case of Lame Back or Crick in the Back. For diseases of the Spine and contraction of the muscles it is unequaled. In Rheumatic or any other pain the first application does you good. It stops Ear Ache and the pain of a Burn in three minutes, and is altogether the best and cheapest medicine ever offered to the people—the cheapest, because it takes so little to do you good. It is composed of six of the best oils known, and nothing but oils. Is worth its weight in gold. Why not buy it to-day?—A B DesRochers, assistant postmaster, Arthabaskaville, P.Q, writes:—"Thirteen years ago I was seized by a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I have nearly constantly suffered. After having used Thomas Eclectric Oil for nine days, nothing the sore head, I have been completely cured, and have only used half a bottle. This I can certify under oath if you wish."—Rev J Mallory, of Wyoming, N Y, writes "Dr Thomas Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week. Dealers all over the country say, "We have never sold a medicine that has given such complete satisfaction as this."

☞ Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 50 cents.

Prepared by S N Thomas, Phelps, N.Y., and Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., sole Agent for the Dominion. Note.—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized. Sold in Kingston by E. H. Parker J G King, Heath and Gunn, G S Tobatt Jas. McCammon, and all medicine dealers

A TALE OF SORROW.

(Clayton Independent.)

The following touching story of broken hearts, broken hopes, and broken constitutions, was written by the Rev. John Allen, a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada. I know him well, and his tale of horror may be relied on as strictly true. He was a most uncompromising enemy of intemperence, and an able advocate of temperance. He says:

"Some years ago, I was travelling from the State of New York in the Province of Upper Canada, by the way of Cape Vincent and Kingston. Between the two channels of the river St Lawrence we passed Wolfe or Garden Island which is but thinly settled. It was in the depth of winter, late in the evening, when I called at an inn. As is but too common at public houses, several gentleman were seated around the fireside, engaged in conversation. A little interrupted by my coming in, they made a short pause. Soon one of them resumed the conversation, and with a spirit of indignation said, 'Well that man ought to be hung for such conduct towards his wife;' to which the company responded in the affirmative. As I did not know the particulars of which they were conversing, I thought it was the slander and harshness of a bar-room conversation and I asked for no explanation. The company soon dispersed. Early in the morning I called upon a man in the neighborhood, with whom I had some business to transact. Soon a gentleman rode up to the door, wishing to know if I was a minister stating that a women had died the day before, and wishing me to stay and attend the funeral, to which I consented, and learned the following particulars.

"J. B., the inhuman husband of the deceased, was the son of a tavern-keeper on the island, and was early addicted to the habit of intemperance. He had been married to Miss B. four or five years. Notwithstanding his early habits of dissipation, he had been somewhat guarded and prudent till he was married. He then gave himself up to his cups and carousals neglected his business, scattering and destroying, spending much of his time in the town of Kingston, in a place noted for gambling and intemperance. It was not long before the last of his property 'tottered upon a single card.' He sold the clothing out of his own house for rum, and his wife was left to contend with poverty and despair. He soon became the most abandoned of drunkards I ever saw. He not only seemed to have forgotten to provide for his family, but it became his delight to rob his forsaken wife of every little comfort she might earn, or receive from a benevolent friend. He lived on the western side of the island in a log hut. It stood upon a rise, exposed to the northern blast that swept along the entire length of the Ontario. Almost perpetually the howling tempest beat upon the lonely shattered dwelling. The rolling waves of the Ontario were seen at a distance dashing their foam upon huge banks of ice, and the roar of waters and storm added to the dismal gloom that reigned within a drunkard's home.

"Here lived the unfortunate female whose unhappy fate I am about to describe She had been married and confined to the prison-house of a drunkard for near five years. Ah, hapless woman! little did she think when she gave herself to that man she tenderly loved, and who promised to her the source of a thousand woes. With the pencil of fancy she had drawn the scenes of a future life, and they were tinged with sunshine. But soon she learned that the husband of her youth was a drunkard, and what could she expect! Despair settled upon her brow, and anguish wrung her bleeding heart. Not one ray of hope shed its glimmering upon her solitary path. As if destined to woes, with her sorrows her cares increased. Two infant children demanded her attention and her tears, the youngest of which was but a few weeks old when its mother fell a victim to neglect and despair.

"And here let simple narrative tell her tale of woe. When her infant was about ten days old, she was under the necessity of going out through drifts, and snow, and piercing winds to gather fuel to keep from freezing—her husband was gone on a drunken frolic. She took a severe cold, and was confined to a bed of straw (for such it literally was). No longer able to walk, or even sit up, early one morning, as her brutal husband was setting off for the tavern to spend the day, she expostulated with him, and endeavored to impress upon his mind her distress and critical condition. She seemed to succeed. But, oh! delusive hope. She told him she must have assistance soon, or her stay in the land of the living was short. He seemed to feel. She prevailed on him to go for medical aid. He crossed the river St. Lawrence on the ice to Kingston (a distance of four miles) and obtained a vial of medicine at the apothecary's store, and left in haste for his sick family. He was turning the corner of the street, when one of his associates in profligacy, looking through the window of a contemptible grog-shop, saw his comrade passing and called him to take something to drink.

"Although the inebriate knew that the relief, if not the life of his family, depended on his speedy return—his helpless family being entirely alone, and none of his neighbors had knowledge of his absence—yet this miserable wretch, on hearing the sound of rum, and an invitation to partake of the crimson poison, soon forgot a suffering wife and helpless infant, left by him in the jaws of death. He entered the sink of woe and crime, where demons in human forms are wont to meet and hold midnight revelry. Here he remained in a drunken frolic for several days, during which it was extremely cold, and there was a heavy fall of snow. No one called at his house during the storm, supposing that he was at home with his family. The fire was out—no friend to render assistance; not even the call of a stranger to give relief. On her bed of straw with an infant on each arm, and a few shreds of covering, lay the sufferer, pierced with hunger and cold; the bed, fireplace, and floor were all covered to some depth by the drifting snow. On the third or fourth day he returned with the little medicine and a bottle of rum. The snow had so drifted that it was with difficulty he entered the house. All within was silent as the house of death. It is said that the fingers of the eldest babe were stiffened to marble, and the tear-drops had frozen upon the infant's cheek. His wife neither smiled nor wept—life still flickered within them all. In this situation he found his neglected and perishing family. He was intoxicated when he returned—see his medicine and bottle of rum on the shelf, and immediately left for his father's family (nearly half a mile distant), told his mother the fire had gone out, and his wife was at home sick, and he wished she would go over and see her, at the same time stepped into his father's bar and took a glass of brandy. As he came out he staggered and fell and there he spent the afternoon.

"His mother was unfortunately given to habits of intemperance, and was then under the influence of ardent spirit. However, with fire and fuel she set out for the abode of distress. She found the woman and children speechless, badly frozen, and apparently in the agonies of death. With some difficulty she made a fire, and threw a brick and stone into the flames, and while they were heating she discovered the rum. Being exceedingly chilled, she drank freely of it, and thought it would do her good; but it only deprived her of reason. By this time the heated brick and stone became burning hot, and the drunken mother applied them to the naked feet of the dying woman. I will only add that in about thirty minutes the kindest messenger from heaven came to her relief; the messenger was death.

"It fell to my lot to deliver the funeral discourse of this unfortunate female. The
