HOW SOME FARMERS MANAGE SWINE.

A farmer bought of me some pigs of a choice breed, paid a high price, and after keeping them a year or two, and breeding them, he came to me exclaiming: "You remember that I bought some of the—— breed of pigs of you?"

"Yes," I replied, "and how do you like 'em?"

"Like 'em! Why, I'm disgusted with 'em—can't get 'em up to 300 lbs. at 18 months; and you said they would scale 600."

"Come and and look at mine," said I, and he accompanied me to my pen.

"Now," said he, excitedly, "do you pretend to say that the pigs you sold me are of this breed?"

"I do, the same stock and breed."

"Why, you must take me to be an ignoramus. Come over and see them, and you'll find 'em as mean, rawboned, scrawny a lot of hogs as you ever laid eyes on; and I shall expect you to refund my money."

I went with him and found his hogs in December in a pen where the mud was 18 inches deep, into which their feed (corn in the ear) was thrown; and the only shelter they had, as a sleeping apartment, was a few poles laid across one end of the enclosure, over which a few old boards were laid horizontally, so that the rains kept the swine drenched in wet weather. Not a particle of straw was given them as a bed; and I turned away wondering which had the most common sense, the hogs or their owner!

"Neighbor, said I, "you ought to be indicted for cruelty to animals! Can it be possible that you don't know any better than to treat your pigs in this way? In the first place, they are half starved as one half the corn fed to them is lost in the mud, and the other half is eaten with so much filth that it barely keeps life within them. You should lay a plank floor over the entire enclosure; then you should build a warm sleeping apartment, with a single roof, and then feed your hogs on cooked food mostly, but never on corn in the ear. Corn meal may do, but it pays well to cook it. Get a furnace kettle that holds from 40 to 60 gallons, set it in bricks and mortar in an out-house where there is a chimney, or build one if you have none and then mix Indian meal with potatoes, carrots, parsnips or beats, and cook all together, giving the feed warm as often as you can conveniently—all they will eat to those you are fattening (the others keep separate), and after following my advice a season, come to me and report the result.

I did not happen to see this man till the next fall, at the State Fair, where I found him with a group of farmers admiring some fine hogs that they said had taken "the first premium;" and they were fine, weighing over 600 pounds each! "Whose are they," I asked. "They are mine, from stock I bought of you," replied my neighbor, adding, "I did as you directed, and I am satisfied now that the pigs you sold me were the pure breed, just as you represented."

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

To all suffering from the following diseases a ray of hope is offered through the kindness of a missionary friend who has sent me the formula of a purely vegetable medicine which has long been used by the native medicine men of Hindostan—for the positive and radical cure of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, dyspepsia, throat and lung difficulty, general debility, loss of manhood and all nervous affections, its power has been tested in hundreds of cases without a failure. I now feel it my sacred duty as far as possible to relieve human misery, and will send the recipe—free of charge—to any person who may desire it with directions for using. Sent by return mail by addressing with two stamps naming this paper Dr. G. R. Brigham, Drawer 28, Utica, N.Y.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

Bill heads and envelopes printed neatly and quickly at this office. Prices for these are low.
