Cultivation of Apples.

The following valuable suggestions are from an essay by Prof. Beal, of the Michigan Agricultural College: A young tree should be treated very much as you would treat a hill of corn. Hoed crops will answer in a young orchard. Sowed crops will do more harm to young trees. It is a good plan to keep young trees mulched. It prevents the rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil, keeps the surface mellow, prevents the soil from freezing and thawing in winter and becoming over-heated in summer. Whether to cultivate or not can be told by the looks of the trees. If the color of the leaves is good and the growth all right and the trees bear well of fine fruit, they are doing well enough even in grass. To judge of the condition of an apple tree is much like judging of the condition of sheep in pasture.

Preserving Eggs.

An agricultural writer says: "I preserved eggs so perfectly that after a lapse of six months they were mistaken, when brought to the table, for fresh-laid eggs, and I believe they would have kept equally good for twelve months. My mode of preparation was to varnish the eggs as soon after they were laid as possible, with a thin copal varnish, taking care that the shell was covered with varnish. I subsequently found that by painting the eggs with fresh albumen, beaten up with a little salt, they were preserved equally as well and for as long a period. After varnishing or painting with albumen, I lay the eggs upon rough blotting paper, as I found that when allowed to rest till dry upon a plate or on the table, the albumen stuck so fast to the table or plate as to take away a chip out of the shell. This is entirely obviated by the use of blotting paper. I pack these eggs in boxes of dry bran."

Swedish Butter.

The method known as the Swedish system of making butter consisting simply of setting milk in deep cans, about 7½ inches in diameter by 20 inches long, and placing them in a pool of water filled with broken ice, so as to maintain a temperature as near 40 degrees as possible, and in taking off the first twelve hours' cream for their export butter. This is churned immediately at a temperature of from 50 to 60 degrees, freed from buttermilk, and packed in sealed tin cans, holding 4 and 8 pounds. Thus made and prepared, it will remain sweet indefinitely. The milk, after the first skimming, is made into cheese, or remains until all the cream has risen and made into butter, known as "Seconds," used for home and domestic use. The Swedes claim that by taking off the cream containing the larger globules, which first rise, a more solid and firmer butter can be made. At the same time it is freed from the influences of the atmosphere and the germs of decay floating therein. Certain it is that, whereas the country was famous for producing the poorest butter of any country in Europe, it now, under this system, produces the finest butter in the world.

Differences in Dairy Salts.

The leading brands seem to be, none of them, wanting in the main constituent—chloride of sodium—for the chemical analysis of ten brands show that a variation of only 1.05 per cent. in the quality of salt presents the difference between a maximum of 98.52 per cent. and minimum of 97.47 per cent. Surely there is enough clear salt in any of these samples to make one as good as another if there were no other ingredients, and if there was nothing in the granular formation of one brand to give it superiority over another. Some of the other substances, even in small quantities, in which they exist, vary five per cent. The most objectionable matter in salt is chloride calcium, which he found only in the Onondaga, and to the presence of which may be attributed the milky appearence of solutions of that salt. Sulphate of lime, which is found more largely in foreign than in domestic brands, is objectionable, if found in large quantities, but there is not enough found in any leading brand to have any effect. To the other ingredients separately; no serious objection is made in view of a very small percentage in which they exist. We must believe, however, that in combination they all help to produce certain chemical results, which more or less affect the flavor of butter. From all these facts, I am forced to conclude that there are essential differences in dairy salts, and that the actual superiority between the best makes depends more upon the character of the foreign substances present, and upon the texture and grain of the salt and the process by which that grain is formed, than does upon it the mere percentage of chloride of sodium in any given quantity.—J. M. Peters in Rural New Yorker.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION.

To all suffering from the following diseases a ray of hope is offered through the kindness of a missionary friend who has sent me the formula of a purely vegetable medicine which has long been used by the native medicine men of Hindostan—for the positive and radical cure of consumption, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, dyspepsia, throat and lung difficulty, general debility, loss of manhood and all nervous affections, its power has been tested in hundreds of cases without a failure. I now feel it my sacred duty as far as possible to relieve human misery, and will send the recipe—free of charge—to any person who may desire it with directions for using. Sent by return mail by addressing with two stamps naming this paper Dr. O. R. Brigham, Drawer 28, Utica, N.Y.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.
