The Two Glasses.

There sat two glasses filled to the brim,
On a rich man's table rim to rim,
One was ruddy and red as blood,
And one was clear as the crystal flood.
Said the glass of wine to his paler brother,
"Let us tell the tales of the past to each other;
I can tell of banquet and revel and mirth,
And the proudest and grandest souls on earth
Fell under my touch as though struck by blight,
Where I was king, for I ruled in might;
From the heads of kings I have torn the crown,
From the height of fame I have hurled men down,
I have blasted many an honoured name,
I have taken virtue and given shame;
I have tempted the youth with a sip, a taste
That has made his future a barren waste.
Far greater than a king am I,
Or than any army beneath the sky.
I have made the arm of the driver fail,
And sent the train from the iron rail;
I have made good ships go down at sea,
And the shrieks of the lost were sweet to me;
For they said, 'Behold how great you be!
Fame, strength, wealth, genius before you fall,
And your might and power are over all,'
Ho! ho! pale brother," laughed the wine,
"Can you boast of deeds as great as mine?"

Said the water glass, "I cannot boast
Of a king dethroned or a murdered host;
I can tell of a heart once sad,
By my crystal drops made light and glad;
Of thirsts I've quenched and brows I've laved;
Of hands I have cooled and souls I have saved;
I have leaped through the valleys, dashed down the mountain,
Flowed in the river and played in the fountain,
Slept in the sunshine, and dropped from the sky,
I have eased the hot forehead of fever and pain;
I have made the parched meadows grow fertile with grain;
I can tell of the powerful wheel of the mill,
That ground out the flour and turned at my will;
I can tell of manhood debased by you,
That I have lifted and crowned afew.
I cheer, I help, I strengthen and aid;
I gladden the heart of man and maid;
I set the chained wine captive free,
And all are better for knowing me
These are the tales they told each other,
The glass of wine and its paler brother,
As they sat together filled to the brim,
On the rich man's table, rim to rim.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 26

The political situation in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Wisconsin, is such as has never been known before. From Massachusetts we have had in the last few days reports favourable to the chances of General Butler. There is no doubt that this man, with nearly all the party leaders opposed to him, will receive nearly if not quite half the votes of the people. In New York of course Senator Conkling is the central figure, and it is evident that other matter are in a degree subservient to his interests in the campaign. In Pennsylvania the same is true of Senator Cameron. In Illinois the struggle between Aglesby and Logan for the Senatorship is of dominant interest. In Wisconsin the fight must soon, I think, take colour and shape from the Senatorial question. If the Democrats get a clear majority of the Legislature Messrs. Howe and Carpenter are of course out of the field, but the indications now are that such will not be the case. Personally no man here objects to Mr Howe, but there is a strong preference among Democrats and among a class of Republicans for Carpenter. He is one of the most genial of men, a very able and successful lawyer, and was a very useful Senator. His legal practice is the largest in the city, and he is a general favourite. In these five great States it will be seen that personal rather than political questions interest the people and will be decided by the elections. Whether or not this is for the better is to be questioned, but it is at least significant of the breaking up of the old parties.

The Administration is showing good sense in making its estimates for the next year much smaller than for any year since the war. They will not make them small enough, however. In the time of the war a thousand positions were created for which there is now no need, but heads of Departments are slow to recommend the cutting down of their own patronage. The House of Representatives should apply the pruning knife to the estimates to be presented to it. What the reduction ought to be cannot be definitely stated, but we know that nearly every reduction so far made has been a proper one, and has also shown where other reductions could be made. It is a popular fallacy that the rich pay the taxes. The poor pay them, and the poor need whatever can be saved from our current expenses.

The President is capturing the hearts of Maryland and Virginia people by the interest he takes in their agricultural fairs, and by his affability wherever he goes. His welcome is always enthusiastic. There is, of course, no political significance to be attached to such things, and I doubt if there would be half the enjoyment for himself and his excellent wife, or for the people he visits, if party questions had a place in their minds. The President sets an excellent example to those who will hold the high office after him, in giving so much attention to the greatest material interest of the country.

The two lawyers set down as having the largest and most lucrative practice here are Hon. Matthew H. Carpenter and General B. F. Butler, both now before the people for office, and both without the nomination of any regular party. Mr. Carpenter has the most extensive law library owned by any individual in the city, and refuses business enough to make many men rich. He is, however, not the kind of man that accumulates property, and I doubt if he is the possessor of even a moderate fortune. He is not unreasonable in his charges, and is extremely popular with clients as with other members of the bar. Butler has few of the amiable qualities of the other, and is much less liked. But the Judges pay great deference to his opinions, and, if he had the time to spare from politics, could double his practice here in a year.

VIRTUE.

Extracts from a Letter from C. H. S. Cronkhite, Esq.

Canterbury Station, York Co., N.B.,
October 10th, 1878.

Mr J. H. ROBINSON.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of enquiry, I would say that your Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime is the best preparation of the kind I have ever seen or taken.

I was ordered by my physician to take it, and commenced about the last of August, and since that time I have felt a different man, and also look differently, and all for the better, as the doctor can testify.

I was unable, in the summer, to walk any distance without much fatigue. I can now take my gun and travel all day, and feel first-rate at night, and eat as much as any lumber man. Have not bled any since I took your preparation, and can now inflate my lungs without feeling any soreness, and I think I can inflate them up to full measurement same as before I was sick; have also gained in flesh, my weight in the summer was 173 lbs., and now it is nearly 190 lbs., which is pretty well up to my former weight.

The foregoing is a correct statement which I am prepared to swear to, and I hereby authorize you to give it publicity in my name.

I am, dear sir, yours truly,
(Signed) C. H. S. CRONKHITE.

We, the undersigned, hereby consent to have our names published as witnesses to the effects of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion on the person of Mr Cronkhite, and do assert that the foregoing statement is correct in every particular.

(Signed) ALEXANDER BENNETT, J.P.,
WILLIAM RAIN,
REV. THOMAS HARTIN.
