Rev. Mr. Scott gave a very interesting account on Sabbath afternoon of his work as a pastor. Commencing in the west as the first settlers entered and where he taught school, those were the happy days while many hardships were endured. In looking back over the years and seeing wonderful advancement of God's work and growth of population he has no regret. Mr. Scott sang "Lord Lead Me Gently Home," which was enjoyed by the congregation.

On Tuesday evening of last week, neighbors and friends of this community gathered in the church, that a social hour might be spent with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Gilchrist, who left on Monday of this week to reside on their farm in Osprey. Rev. W. J. Scott acted as chairman in his usual happy manner. All joined in singing, "Smile, Smile", after which the following contributed to a very enjoyable program: Mrs. Don McLeod and Master Goldwyn Kennedy each gave an instrumental on the organ; Mrs. J. McWilliams and Miss Margaret Sinclair, solo each; a dialogue by Laura White and Allan Haw; readings by Irene Mathewson, "Boys are Queer"; Melville Hunt, "When Pa is Sick"; Edna Marshall, "Making a Cake for Mother"; Harvey Archibald, "The Village Blacksmith", after which Rev. Mr. Scott spoke of the removal from our village of neighbors who had resided so many years in our midst, sharing in joys and sorrows and at all times ready to assist in every good cause. They will be missed by all from this place, but their removal is only a few miles and they will be able to return often, where they will always receive a welcome. Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist were then called to the front where Mr. McWilliams read an address and Mr. Haw, on behalf of this community presented them with a beautiful Aladin reading lamp as a small token of love and respect of their friends here. Mr. Gilchrist very feelingly on behalf of himself and Mrs. Gilchrist thanked all for the gift and good will and a hearty invitation was extended to all to visit them. Several choruses were sung and the Mizpath repeated which brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Supply of Quality Cattle Very Limited, Says Duncan

"The first essential in profitable beef production," said Garnet H. Duncan, livestock investigator, Ontario Marketing Board, "is that of supplying the domestic market with the quality desired by consumers.

"Breeders and feeders can reach this domestic market by producing properly finished, early maturing livestock. This type meets with ready sale, and answers the requirements for government graded beef.

"In my opinion, a visit to the market would definitely convince producers that while there is a real demand for this type of livestock, the supply is more than limited.
