CATCHING OF SMALL FISH DEPLETES STREAMS

The advent of the motor is blamed by many for the depletion of speckled trout in the streams of Grey County, as it is possible for outsiders to travel long distances in a few hours to enjoy the advantages of recreation and sport which is afforded here. This migration has had the effect of almost depleting the streams of this magnificent game fish and today we should judge that seventy-five per cent. of the former population of the streams have disappeared, mostly through the taking of small fish which are not allowed to reach any desireable length. Restocking of these streams will help considerably, but the fishing public will have to be educated to the point where they will return all fish to the streams that are under the legal limit, before the fish population of the streams shows much improvement. In fact we are told that members of the Ontario Angling Association will not keep trout under nine inches in length. Many claim that a fish caught in the gills by the hook will not survive, but in an article on another page in this issue this argument is denied by the Dominion Department of Fisheries, which conducted a survey.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of fishermen and women at a meeting to be held in Flesherton on Friday, July 7th, where anglican problems will be discussed by eminent speakers.

On Saturday The Advance man was at the Hydro Pond where a number of people were fishing. The only two fish caught that day from the bridge were two undersize—one only six inches and the other actually not more than five. Both were pocketed with apparent glee! The parties were from a distance and unknown to us. This we call murder of the innocents.

EDITORIAL ITEMS

Comment is made in the great decrease in the number of licenses for automobiles taken out in 1933. It is easy to understand the decline. Very many motorists had to part with their vehicles because they were without employment or had little or no revenue from their vocation. We know of a good many car owners who simply shut up their cars and resolved to wait for better times, in the hope that taxes would be lowered and that the especially greviout tax on gas would at least be cut in half.

Hiking on the highways is increasing at home and abroad. So great is the pedestrian traffic in the Scottish Highlands that it has been found necessary to hold a Trespass Conference, between land proprietors and ramblers, to define rights of access to some of the most beautiful of the romantic spots in the northern mountains. It is always better to amicably settle these matters than to resort to prosecutions; a little give and take and full respect for the rights and property, is all that is required, and this applies to rural scenic resorts in Canada, as well as in the old land.

How would it do to have the school promotion examinations conducted in the cold weather of winter, rather than in the sizzling hot days of midsummer? It should not be difficult to get all the examinations over before the Christmas and New Year recess, and to begin the classes the first of the year. Pupils going into the Universities could easily have their examinations in time to enter at the fall session. They are a very small proportion of the school population, anyway. The big thing is to get the best results for the great mass of the youth of the land, while incidentally encouraging the teachers in their work. Too many critics of our educational system are inclined to overlook the gain to both teachers taught by the avoidance of friction.

The ancient Shire of Angus, in Scotland, has been agitated by questions of propriety in male attire of public officials. First they had the Rector of Dundee High School issuing an ultimatum that in that institution plus fours should be taboo. It was argued by this dominie and his sympathizers that there had in recent years been a tending for the younger generation of men to be too slovenly in dressing, and it was urged that the break-away from correct attire should be nipped in the bud. So the movement for sartorial preference began and has now been extended to the county town at Forfar, where the management of the public library has raised the objection to their librarian appearing in his office sporting the kilt! Surely national patriotism is at a low ebb when the wearing of the national dress of the north land has fallen so low in the estimation of the local conservators of Scottish sentiment!

Dr. James Kerr Love the famous aural specialist, writes that it is a common fallacy to believe that a man or woman deprived of one faculty is recompensed by more acute powers through their other senses. He has made a personal study of Miss Helen Kellar, the talented blind-deaf woman, and he declares that neither Miss Kellar's sense nor sense of smell is above the average and he assures us that she is quite unable as is popularly believed, to distinguish colors by their feel. In her books nevertheless reveal how this remarkable woman contrives to appreciate the beauty of life despite her apparently insuperable handicaps. Some of her descriptions of scenery in the land she has visited are prose poems which could only have been written by a soul in perfect sympathy with nature.

"Memories"

By A. S. THURSTON

RICHARDSON — Matthew Kendall, came about 1865 as general merchant; built a fine home, magnificent store, a good business, a better reputation, and a noble life; was Member of Parliament and assisted in Children's Aid Society.

Married Mary McFarland. He died Nov. 5th, 1917, and his wife August 31st, 1916. The family: Elizabeth E., married to Hon. I. B. Lucas, K.C., ex-M.P.P., June 1893; Annie A., married Dr. A. E. Webster, M.D.C.M., D.D.S., L.L.D., Hon. Dean of Royal College of Dentistry, July 1904; Edwin K., married Norma F. Johnston, gold medalist Metropolitan Coll. of Music; Christine, married Frank Tate, Jan. 1911; Maud, director of Occupational Therapy, Ontario Hospital, Whitby; George Bennett (adopted), Botwood, Nowfoundland; Joseph W., deceased in 1868; and Edith, deceased in 1911. Edwin K. Richardson, physician and Toronto, M.O.H. for West Toronto, before union with Toronto; obstetrician in Grace Hospital for 20 years; motto: "There is joy and safety in performing one's use"; proud of his British citizenship and associations; regrets opportunities not used to the full.

MURRAY — Dr. Fred W., born in England, came to Canada in 1888 and worked on farm of Geo. Wright and Bros. at Wareham for $3 per month and his keep: but he had a good appetite! The first year he saved $25, which would infer that he was born north of the Tweed. Attended Methodist church on Centre Line, Osprey, and sang in choir; attended logging bee on a Centre Line farm of Archie Menzie, following the oxen to handle the logging chain. We cannot credit the rumors of Sunday sugaring-off with other people's syrup, or running Jas. Strachan's peddling wagon into the Saugeen at Wareham, and so on.

Many years afterward (!) he and his brother, Dr. E. C. Murray of Flesherton, commenced studying dentistry. Attended school at Wareham, under Miss Eliza Robinson, matriculated from Trinity College, and graduated in 1900. Married Miss Belle Henderson in 1901, who died in 1919. Married Miss Edna Evanson in 1920. He has two boys, Bill and Jim, aged 9 and 14. Member of Zetland Lodge, A.F.&A.M., and Perfection Lodge, Scottish Rite. Member of Sherbourne St. United Church for 30 years, and treasurer of F.O.B. and G. Association (figure it out) since its inception.

Hobbies: focalism, fishing and roaming countryside with his boys for pals: "He who gives a boy a treat, makes joy bells ring in heaven's streets." Proudest of the God-given privilege of doing good; regrets: "That I can't do more good!"

Always sure of a welcome home.

Presbyterian Church Opening At Priceville

After nearly a year's strenuous work, the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Priceville, built of lumber and brick veneer is to be opened on July 2nd, 1933. The dedication service will be conducted by members of Orangeville Presbytery, with Dr. A. S. Grant, Toronto, as the special preacher. Soloists from Toronto and Claude with the St. Andrew's choir, will provide the special music. Dr. W. J. McIvor, the local minister, will preside. Special offerings will be taken at all services to help the work.

In the afternoon at 2.30 another service will be held with Rev. J. T Strachan of Owen Sound as the preacher and the Owen Sound quartette supplying the special music.

In the evening the service will be held at 7.30, with Dr. A. S. Grant again preaching. Soloists from Durham, and the Owen Sound quartette will supply the special music.

On Monday evening at six o'clock the Willing Helpers are serving supper and the Owen Sound quartette are supplying the special music. Neighboring ministers will bring greetings. At the morning service, programs will be provided which contain history of Presbyterianism in Priceville as prepared by Dr. W. J. McIvor, assisted by Committee of Session.

OSPREY SUNDAY SCHOOLS MET AT FEVERSHAM

With representatives present from practically all the Sunday Schools Osprey Township held its annual convention in the Presbyterian church, Feversham, on the afternoon and evening of June 20th.

Rev. A. M. Shannon, pastor of the church, took charge of the devotional exercises and welcomed all to his church. A strong spirit of hope founded in faith and trust in Jesus Christ, marked the entire convention and augurs well for even greater things in the future. The President, Rev. M. F. Oldham, presided throughout the afternoon and evening in a most happy and able manner.

The convention was especially privileged in its two special speakers-Rev. R. R. Elliott of Arkwright, Provincial representative, who took for his subject "Ye are the salt of the earth," (Matt. 5:13), and Rev. Chamnen of Duntroon who spoke on "Problems of Leadership." The latter emphasized the necessity of a successful leader having four qualities, knowledge, ability to impart knowledge, spirit of self-sacrifice and the consecration of oneself to the task.

The Department group reports and discussions, under the leadership of the individual department leaders were very interesting. The Round Table conference, conducted by Rev. R. R. Elliott, urged the need of teachers' training courses and the necessity of the leaders being prepared for their work, in order to prove the most successful.

The nomination and installation of officers took place at the evening service, with the following being elected: President, Rev. A. M. Shannon; Vice Pres., Rev. A. G. McPherson; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. G. H. McIntyre; Children's Work, Mr. E. Pedlar; Boys' Work, Mr. J. MacDonald; Girls' Work, Mrs. Reg. Bailey; Young People's Mrs. H. Bailey; Adult and Home, Mrs. E. Pedlar; Temperance, Mr. H. Bailey; Missionary, Mr. D. Stephens; Advisory Com., Revs. P. Tiller, M. F. Oldham, A. G. Chamnon, A. McNeill.

Rev. Shannon addressed the meeting for a short time on the great work of the Sunday School. Rev. MacPherson moved a vote of thanks to Rev. M. F. Oldham, who so greatly helped on the enthusiasm of Sunday School work in the past year.

The afternoon session was favored with a duet by Miss M. Mitchell and Mrs. Reg. Bailey of Maple Valley and a solo by Mrs. Geo. Lawlor of Maxwell. In the evening two male quartettes from Feversham pleased the audience with their numbers.

The ladies of the Feversham churches served a very appetizing supper

Next year's meeting will be held in the Anglican church, Maxwell.

AN INTERESTING SIGHT

The Editor and Mrs. McKitrick witnessed an unusual sight when driving home from Bolton Tuesday evening. On the Bolton to Palgrave highway a couple of miles north of the former place we came across a mother skunk convoying her little family of four or five across the roadway. We halted the car and watched the scene with no little interest until the party had crossed the road and disappeared in the long grass to the west. The manner in which the mother guarded and kept her little charges close together, at the same time guiding them in the direction she wished to go, was quite interesting to watch.—Orangeville Banner.

Letter to The Editor

NAME IT FLESHER'S LAKE

Editor of The Advance:

Dear Sir.—I have seen in this newspaper references to the near-drowning of two persons at Flesherton, as recently reported in The Advance, and they spoke of the accident as having occurred "in the Flesherton pond." Why is it not called a lake? Why not call it Flesher's Lake? When I lived in the village a smaller body of water was called Pap's Lake. Hundreds of smaller stretches of water in Ontario are called lakes. If Bond Lake, for instance, were called Bond Pond, who would bother to see it, and Flesher's Lake is about of the size of Bond Lake, and larger than many others which are so called.

—OLD BOY.

[We will certainly see about this thing and try to discover a means whereby the name be switched without too much of a wrench to anybody's sensibilities. But first we will have to consult the present owner, Reeve McAuley, to see if he is agreeable. It is just possible he may want the old cognomen, "Flesher's Pond," changed to McCauley's Pond. And a recent owner, Mr. Henry, may have something to say about it. And there were other owners. For ourselves we rather like the above suggestion. Flesherton lake sounds euphonious, even more so than Munshaw's Lake, which lies in the suburbs. Of course a lake is a natural body of fresh water and a pond is artificial. But one can, we presume, change the definition in this case if the past and present owners can be made to see the matter in a proper light. We thank "Old Boy" for his suggestion. In the meantime we 'uns have the matter under our most serious consideration.—Ed. Advance.]

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The annual convention of Artemesia, Markdale and Flesherton Sunday schools, which was held in Vandeleur church on Tuesday of last week, June 20th, was well attended and exceptionally interesting. The president, Mr. Ed. Bernes, presided at both afternoon and evening sessions. Mr. J. I. Graham gave the address of welcome and splendid addresses were delivered by Miss McAusian of Williamsford, Rev. J. A. Moir of Priceville, Rev. Jos. Wolstencroft of Flesherton and Rev. R. R. Elliott of Tara. Rev. Elliott also conducted the Round Table Conference.

Rev. H. S. Warren led the devotional exercises and song service in the evening session. A quartette from Flesherton composed of Rev. Scott Dr. Murray and Messrs. Robertson and Cairns gave two fine selections

The resolutions committee under the chairmanship of Rev. Scott brought in several resolutions, among them being one commending Premier Henry for his stand on the beer and wine issue. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. Ed Bernes, Markdale; vice-pres., Mr. Wm. Miller, Flesherton; sec.-treas. Howard Graham, Vandeleur; children's supt., Ethel Artley, Markdale; boy's supt., Mr. W. J. Messenger of Markdale; girl's supt., Miss Weir of Priceville; young people, F. Shackleton, Priceville; adult supt., Lundy Johnston, Vandeleur; home dept., Rev. M. Bennett, Flesherton; teacher training, Rev. H. S. Warren, Markdale; Missionary, Mrs. Hare, Markdale; Temperance, Mrs. H. Down, Flesherton.

A splendid supper was provided in the basement of the church by the Vandeleur ladies at the close of the afternoon session.

STRAWBERRF FESTIVAL

A strawberry festival will be held at Maxwell on Thursday, June 29th, under the auspices of W. A. of the United church. A good program of solos, duets, quartettes and short plays, and a horse shoe contest will take place, the prizes will be $3.00 and $2.00. Admission 35 and 20 c.

The furniture business, upon which Hanover is so largely dependent, shows signs of becoming better. Some local factories are not only working better hours but are taking on a number of new hands.—Hanover Post.

Likely To Have Mountain

Prior to the game here two weeks ago between Flesherton and Dundalk a protest was lodged against Dundalk playing Dr. Harold Mountain, the claim being made that he was closer to Flesherton. He had been placed on the Flesheron list of players, and also by Dundalk, but as a representative from Flesherton was not present at the League meeting to substantiate their claim, the player in question was awarded to Dundalk, leaving it to Flesherton to bring in evidence that he was closer to this place. On Monday evening three men from town went over the ground and found that the distance from Flesherton to Dromore, Dr. Mountain's residence, was 15.2 miles by speedometer register, while from there to Dundalk, taking the shortest route, the distance was 15.9 miles. It is therefore seen that he was nearly three-suarters of a mile closer to Flesherton, making him eligible to play for this team. It is to be expected that Flesherton will use the services of Dr. Mountain at Dundalk on Thursday, as he has no preference as to where he plays.

Temperance Lecturer: "Here's an argument drawn from nature. If I lead a donkey up to a pail of water and a pail of beer, which will he drink?"

Unconverted: "The water."

Lecturer: "Right—why?"

Unconverted: "Because he's an ass."

BUTCHART—STUART

A pretty June wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper A. Stuart, Nelson street, Meaford, on Saturday afternoon, June 17, when their daughter, Miss Fern, was united in marriage to Mr. Donald Butchart, B.A., son of Mrs. William Butchart and the late Mr. Butchart of Meaford. The home was attractively decorated with ferns and white peonies. The ceremony took place at 2.30 p.m. with Rev. G. Sidney Smith officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a French gown of white crepe romaine, empire style, trimmed with embroidered silk net. She carried a bouquet of sunset roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hazel Stuart, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and was gowned in graceful flower chiffon, and Miss Ruth Stuart, as bridesmaid was gowned in bouffant pink organdy. They carried nosegays of sweet peas and roses.

Mr. Ray Culbertson attended the groom. The wedding music was played by Miss Violet Brown, and Mrs. E. Newton Cooper, aunt of the groom, sang the lovely solo, "The Crown," during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremonies a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. Stuart, mother of the bride, wore a charming grey flowered chiffon dress, and Mrs. Butchart, mother of the groom, looked smart in a gown of black and white, each carrying corsage bouquets of orchids. The dining room table was covered with a florentine lace cloth. Mrs. Arthur Randle of Whitby, sister of the bride, and Mrs. E. A. Champ of Kitchener presided.

The happy couple left by motor for a honeymoon in Northern Ontario with the best wishes and congratulations of their many friends here. The bride was charming in a smart light wool ensemble in two shades of blue with matching hat, shoes and purse. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Butchart, who are two of Meaford's most popular young people will take up their residence in their lovely home on Trowbridge street.—Meaford Mirror.
