CATARRH,

With all its Loathsome Attendants cured by the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

The Constitutional Catarrh Remedy is the first article placed before the public that proposed to cure Catarrh by building up the Constitution. It struck at the root of the whole difficulty, and thousands upon thousands of letters have been received by the proprietors, setting forth the marvelous cures, and what is remarkable, curing not only the Catarrh, but all other ailments at the same time. This is what it always does. Certificates we are constantly receiving, from well known people to whom you can write, and not bogus ones. Catarrh and its attendant evils, cold in head, hacking cough, incipient consumption, headache, pain in the back and loins, dizziness, languidness, loss of appetite and general weakness, all leave together when the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy is taken as recommended.

Home Testimony in favor of Littlefield's Catarrh Remedy

C. J. B. HARDING, Esq.,

Brockville, 12th Feb., 1876.

My Dear Sir,—I can fully endorse, from my own experience, the favorable account of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy. It has afforded me relief from Catarrh and Cold every time I used it, and then when I could not take proper care of my self in bad weather.

Yours respectfully, C. W. VOLNEY.

Brockville, Feb 1876.

I have great pleasure in recommending the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy to any parties who may require a remedy for that disease. I do so from practical experience, having effected a thorough cure on one of my children with this medicine. R. BOWIE.

Brockville, Feb. 1st, 1876.

From personal benefit received, and almost instantaneous cure from Catarrh, Nervous Headache and Neuralgia, as well as from personal knowledge of those whose cures thereby have seemed almost miraculous, I can most heartily and sincerely recommend the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy for those complaints it claims to cure. A. C. J. KAUFMAN.

PRICE $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a treatise on Catarrh and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent free by addressing.

Phosphorus AS A Medicine

ALTHOUGH the Modern Materia Medica includes many valuable remedies for human afflictions, it is a matter of certainty that in all cases where the animal vitality is failing, Phosphorus is decidedly superior to every other remedy at present known, and it possesses the the great advantage of not causing, when its use is relinquished, the slightest reaction or depression.

The Cornhill Magazine of April, 1861, says:—But of all the inorganic elements, none seem to exhibit so striking an adaptation to become a constituent of the organic body as Phosphorus. Here, then, in an element, which can imperceptibly and quickly pass from a condition of great chemical activity to one of great chemical inertness. In virtue of this character Phosphorus may follow the blood in its changes, may exist in one great set of capillaries, and to be indifferent to oxygen in the other; may occur in the brain in the vitreous form, changing as quickly as the intellect or imagination demands and literally flaming that thoughts may breathe and words may burn and may be present in the bones in its amorphous form, content, like an impassive caryatid, to sustain upon its unwearied shoulders the mere dead weight of scapes of flesh—and what is here said of the brain, as contrasted with the bones, will apply with equal or similar force to many other organs of the body. All throughout the living system, we may believe that Phosphorus is found at the centres of vital action in the active condition and at its outlying points in the passive condition.

Dr Rowbotham says it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that Phosphorus in a free, unoxidated state is an essential element of activity in the brain and nervous system of animals; it is equally difficult to resist the conviction of the great importance of Phosphorus as an element of the Materia Medica.

The question naturally presents itself, Why is so valuable an element so little regarded and so seldom prescribed? The only answer which can be given is—that a certain difficulty has been found in so preparing it that its action may be kept under perfect control. Hitherto it has been used in almond and olive oils, in sulphuric Ether, in rectified Alcohol, in chloroform and in several other substances; but however valuable it has been found in all the hitherto known methods of its preparation, certain irregular results have been experienced, which have led physicians to neglect it for general purposes and to employ it only in extreme cases. But a chemical process has now now been discovered, by which its invaluable action on the human system may be realized with any of those drawbacks which previous modes of administration have invariably produced.

The New Curative Agent, and only Reliable Remedy for Nervous and Liver Complaints.

This Phosphatic combination is pronounced by the most eminent members of the Medical profession to be unequalled for its power in replenishing the vitality of the body, by its supplying all the essential constituents of the blood and nerve substance and for developing all the powers and functions of the system to the highest degree. It is agreeable to the palate and innocent in its action, while retaining all its extraordinary properties; and as a specific, surpassing all the therapeutic agents of the present day for the speedy and permanent cure of—Nervous Prostration, Liver Complaints, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness, Noises in the Head and Ears, Loss of Energy and Appetite, Hypochondria, Female Complaints, General Debility, Indigestion, Flatulence, Incapacity for study of Business, Sick Headache, Lassitude, Shortness of Breath, Trembling of the hands and limbs, Impaired Nutrition, Mental and Physical Depression, Consumption (in its first stages only), Timidity, Eruption of the Skin, Impaired Sight and Memory, Nervous Fancies, Impoverished Blood, Nervous Debility in all its stages, Premature Decline, and all morbid conditions of the system arising from whatever cause. The action of the Phosphodyne is twofold—on the one hand increasing the principle which constitutes nervous energy, and on the other the most powerful blood and flesh generating agent known; therefore a marvellous medicine for renovating impaired and broken-down constitutions. It thus improves the functions of assimilation to such a degree, that where for years an emaciated anxious, cadaverous and semi-vital confirmness and the whole system return to a state of robust health. The Phosphodyne acts electrically upon the organization; for instance, it assists nature to generate that human electricity which renews and rebuilds the osseous, muscular, nervous, membranous and organic systems. It operates on the system without exciting care or thought upon the individual as to the process. It moves the lungs, liver, heart, kidneys, stomach and intestines, with a harmony, vigour yet mildness unparalleled in medicine.

The Phosphodyne gives back to the human structure, in a suitable form, the Phosphoric or animating element of life, which has been wasted and exerts an important influence directly on the spinal marrow and nervous system of a nutritive, tonic and invigorating character, maintaining that buoyant energy of the brain and muscular system, which renders the mind cheerful, brilliant and energetic, entirely overcoming that dull, inactive and sluggish disposition which many persons experience in all their actions.

The beneficial effects of the Phosphodyne are frequently shown from the first day of its administration, by a remarkable increase of nervous power with a feeling of vigour and comfort, to which the patient has long been unaccustomed. Digestion is improved; the appetite increases wonderfully, the bowels become regular, the eyes brighter, the skin clear and healthy and the hair acquires strength, showing the importance of the action of the Phosphodyne on the organs of nutrition.

Finally, the Phosphodyne maintains a certain degree of activity in the previously debilitated organs to restore to their sound state and perform their natural functions. Persons suffering from Nervous Debility, or any of the hundred symptoms which this distressing disease assumes, may rest assured of an effectual and even speedy cure by the judicious use of this most invaluable remedy.
