A BREACH OF THE PEACE.

DECIDES THEY CANNOT CALL WORKMEN SCABS.

Judge Stewart Says Strikers May Persuade, Not Intimidate—Man Bound Over to Keep the Peace For a Year.

York, Pa., Sept. 28.—Judge Stewart has held a striker named Schott in $1,000 bail to keep the peace for the year. The striker had threatened one of the employees of Kerbs, Hertheim & Schiffer, cigar manufacturers.

Referring to the right of strikers to prevent men from going to work, judge Stewart said:

"The moment the union crosses the line of persuasion it becomes a transgressor of the law. Anything that looks like threats or intimidation or irritation is going beyond the bounds of order and the law. A man has a right to work at any lawful occupation without interference from anybody. The union may send pickets and use any reasonable argument it chooses to get non-union to stop their labor. But the moment they began foul epithets and menaces are guilty of a breach of the peace, and when the leader of the gang of pickets calls on them to 'line-up' against non-union men, it is good ground for bringing an action for surety of the peace. And when cases of that kind come into this court they will be dealt with severely. I want to say further that I will consider the calling by Schott, of any non-union workman a 'scab' as a breach of the peace within the meaning of the bond."

PREDICTIONS FOR 1901.

Prophesies Made Interesting by Correctness of Forecast for 1900.

In his London almanac for 1900 "Old Moore" predicted more than one great war, the assassination of a monarch, and a terrible famine in India, and, as all these predictions proved true, many persons, not only in Europe, but also in this country, have been for some time curious to know what kind of predictions he would make in his almanac for 1901. Their curiosity can now be satisfied, for his almanac for the coming year has just appeared.

Here are the principal predictions in it:

In January there will be a formidable agitation in France, and a severe attack will be made upon the republic.

In February and March most notable events will take place in the extreme east, and India will threaten to rise up against the British domination.

Though there will be trouble in various quarters during the entire year, April will be a comparatively quiet month.

In May Ireland will follow the example of India and will rebel against England.

In June the anarchists will again come to the front and will give the world much to talk about. During the same month the young king of Spain will be in danger from his political enemies, and he is cautioned to guard against them.

July will be a month of catastrophies the whole world being threatened at this time with misfortunes of various kinds. Those who are planning to take a journey during this month will do well to remain at home.

August will be comparatively quiet.

During September India will again suffer terribly from famine.

During October the Dervishes will start an agitation, which may attain formidable proportions.

In November the kingdom of Holland will attract attention by its dangerous and novel diplomatic policy, and the statesmen in the various foreign office will have to exercise all their skill if they would avoid a conflict.

In December there will be insurrections, revolts and strikes in various quarters of the globe. As a rule they may not be of great importance, yet they will occur at this time, and they will be striking features of the month.

As will be seen "Old Moore's" predictions for 1901, are startling to say the least. His statement in regard to Holland is especially curious, and many persons are puzzling their brains to discover how this little kingdom can ever manage to attract attention by a "dangerous and novel diplomatic policy" which will cause European statesmen to lie awake at night.

The Emperor Of China.

The emperor is now about thirty years of age. He is under the medium height, sallow, and apparently of a weak constitution. He has received a good training in Chinese and in Manchu. He knows some English. He has a wife, a dozen concubines, and no children. He is unable to control his explosive temper. It is doubtful whether he can exert a rule of authority over others. He has a kind of feminine energy to push ahead, but lacks clear vision of surrounding conditions. His reform edicts are unique in the history of the empire. It is impossible to say, however, what part of them is due to him and what part to Kang Yu-Wei, the greatest leader of the reform party.

The emperor, as is customary in China, transacts all state affairs between twelve at midnight and the rise of the sun. Some sharp tongue has said the Chinese love darkness because their deeds are evil. What is good, however, is done at the same time. It is during these hours that Kwang Hsu formulates his edicts, which are all published in the Pekin Gazette. Two officials shadow the emperor without ceasing. These are the imperial recorders. They note and transcribe his every act, his every word. Their memoranda are transferred to the imperial archives and are not opened until the history of the dynasty is written; long after the rotting bones of Kwang Hsu have become sacred besides those of his ancestors.

REAL EMPRESS DOWAGER.

Greatest Tyrant in the World—Extravagant Beyond Measure.

Prof. Headland in Ainslee's.

"Many of the stories circulated about the empress dowager to the effect that she was a slave girl or came of a poor family are untrue. She was the daughter of an official, was taken into the palace and became the concubine of the emperor, Hsien Feng. The empress, his wife, has no children. The son of this woman, on the death of the emperor, became the emperor Tung Chih, during whose minority the reins of government were held by his mother. When he died without issue, she selected Kwang Hsu to become his successor, holding the reins of government from his infancy to his majority. Him she has now dethroned, and she had selected the son of prince Tuan as successor, not to Kwang Hsu, but to her own son. During the whole reign of Kwang Hsu he was compelled to kotow to her at least once every five days. If he was at the summer place twelve miles away, he must go there every five days during the hot summer and knock his head to her. During his whole reign she has compelled every official appointed to viceroyalties to thank her at the same time with the emperor. She is the tyrant in the world and the strongest female character on any throne.

"She has never been seen by a foreign man, but she has been seen by the wives of all the ministers in Pekin. When she has an interview with a Chinese official, according to Chinese custom, she sits behind a screen. Among the presents she gave the wives of the ministers were a lot of ivory combs—fine combs as well as coarse—a present which, it is to be hoped, these good ladies will not have to use outside of China. During the interview with these ladies she introduced them to the emperor. She passed the tea to them herself, taking a sip from each of the cups before she gave it, evidently to show that it was not poisoned. They came away infatuated with the 'Old Lady,' as the Chinese sometimes call her. The empress dowager's chief characteristic is quickness of thought and action. When she comes to a crisis she does not wait to think twice. She acts at once, and awes by her very presence. She does not take time to reckon what the consequences will be, but when she has gotten the reins well in her own hands she plans at leisure how to avoid consequences. She has always been hand and glove with Li Hung Chang, and he would do anything to protect her. It was formerly supposed that she was for reform, and so she might have been had she not been compelled to put herself behind the conservative party when she deposed Kwang Hsu. She is extravagant beyond expression. Her sixtieth birthday fell during the Japanese-Chinese war. To celebrate it she had a stone road built to the summer palace, while the public road to Fungchou was in a dilapidated condition. When 30,000,000 taels were raised for the construction of railways, it is said, she used a large part of the money in the decoration of the imperial gardens.

A Virginia Romance.

Springfield Republican.

Landon Parr has been pardoned out of the Virginia penitentiary by Gov. Tyler, for his attempted and nearly successful murder of one Sandidge, two years ago. The story is that Parr took his sweetheart to an "all-day" religious meeting; but in the recess between services his cousin, Sandidge, with whom he had spent the preceding Saturday night, persuaded the girl to take a drive with him. Parr mounted his horse and rode after them, and overtaking them fired every barrel of his pistol at them. Half the shot took effect, and it was many weeks before Sandidge recovered. Parr was only sentenced to two years in prison. This is what is called "a romance."

Cost Of Philippine War.

Springfield Republican.

Losses among our troops in the Philippines now foot up 2,732 killed and dead from wounds and disease, and 2,374 wounded. The death figures evidently do not include those dying on transports returning to the United States or after reaching home. These would add largely to the number. On the transport Grant, which has just arrived from San Francisco, thirteen soldiers died during the voyage, and nearly as many more are brought home insane.

A Prize Ticket In The Bag.

Merrickville Star.

Some of the exhibitors of grain at the Merrickville fair did not deem it necessary to bring in this year's growth but brought instead some of last year's growing. An amusing thing occurred in this section of the hall. One of the judges was opening the bags preparatory to the judging and on opening one bag he found a prize ticket that had been awarded the grain last year. The bag had evidently never been opened since taking it home from the fair last year.

The Fair Grounds Cleaned Up.

Samuel Conley dog catcher, and his two assistants last night finished cleaning up the fair grounds and putting everything in good shape for the winter. Samuel will now give his serious attention to the untagged doggies wandering so plentifully about the streets. A fine field of labor stretches before him, in which there is a glorious chance to win honor, renown and an undying name.

A Generous Action.

The H. D. Bibby company have sent this letter to the central fair secretaries: Enclosed please find $10 as a starter to make up the loss sustained at our fair. We think the directors who have given so much of their time should not suffer and have no doubt that if a general canvass of merchants and others interested in a fair next year was made, the loss would be fully made up.

Success.

The Almonte fair and the Charm Ceylon Tea demonstration were equal successes.

The demand for a cup of that famous tea was so great that the demonstrators were compelled to send to Ottawa for an experienced lady to assist in taking orders for the various grocers handling it there and vicinity. Try a pound to-morrow. All grocers.

"THE WHITE DEATH."

More Afraid of Frozen Fog Than of Rattlesnakes.

Will Sparks in Ainslee's.

"Of all the natural phenomena peculiar to the Rocky Mountain region none is more strange or terrible than the mysterious storm known to the Indians as 'the white death.' Scientific men have never yet had an opportunity of investigating it, because it comes at the most unexpected times and may keep away from a certain locality for years. Well read men who have been through it say that it is really a frozen fog. But where the fog comes from is more than any one can say. This phenomenon occurs most frequently in the northern part of Colorado, in Wyoming, and occasionally in Montana.

"About two years ago a party of three women and two men were crossing North Park in a waggon in the month of February. The air was bitterly cold, but dry as a bone and motionless. The sun shone with almost startling brilliancy. As the five people drove along over the crisp snow they felt most comfortable, and rather enjoyed the trip. Mountain peaks fifty miles away could be seen as distinctly as the pine trees by the roadside.

"Suddenly one of the women put her hand up to her face and remarked that something had stung her. Then other members of the party did the same thing, although not a sign of an insect could be seen. All marvelled greatly at this. A moment later they noticed that the distant mountains were disappearing behind a cloud of mist. Mist in Colorado in January! Surely there must be some mistake, because within ten minutes a gentle wind began to blow and the air became filled with fine particles of something that scintillated like diamond dust in the sunshine. Still the people drove on until they came to a cabin where a man signalled them to stop. With his head tied up in a bundle of mufflers, he rushed out and handed the driver a piece of paper on which was written: 'Come into the house quick, or this storm will kill all of you. Don't talk outside here.'

"Of course no time was lost in getting under cover and putting the horses in the stables. But they were a little late, for in less than an hour the whole party was sick with violent coughs and fever. Before the next morning one of the women died with all the symptoms of pneumonia. The others were violently ill but managed to pull through after long sickness.

"'I seen you people driving along the road long before you got to my house, and I knowed you didn't know what you were drivin' through,' said the man, as soon as the surviving members of the party were able to talk. 'That stuff ye seen in the air is small pieces of ice, froze so cold it goes clear down into your lungs without melting. If any man stayed out a few hours without his head covered up he would be sure to die. One winter, about eight years ago, it cleaned out a whole Indian tribe across the Wyoming line. They are more afraid of it than they are of rattle-snakes. That's the reason they call it the 'white death.'"

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A Gathering in Napanee—Valuable Papers Read.

Napanee, Sept. 28.—The town is invaded by the lore of the surrounding country. About 150 teachers from the town and surrounding districts are attending the annual meeting of the Lennox and Addington teachers' association. From 9 to 12 a.m. yesterday was devoted to the routine work of the association. The afternoon's session was more of a practical nature. A couple of instrumental solos by Mr. McKim were rendered. Papers were read on "Discipline" by J. Gibson, Amherst Island; "Pedagogic Principles of Education," by C. H. Edwards, B.A., principal Napanee model school, and "Hints on Teaching Good English," by Miss Georgie Jamieson; all were excellent and drew forth many expressions of approval from the teachers present. The evening was devoted to ten minute addresses by the following able speakers: Inspector Burrows, Rev. Mr. McIntyre, principal Edwards, Rev. S. T. Bartlett, D. A. Nesbit and musical selections by Misses Logie, Hall, Bennett and Mr. McKim.

An interesting programme is to be gone through with to-day, when a paper will be read on "Literature For Entrance," by D. A. Nesbitt, B.A. "The Education of Children in the Primary Room" by Miss O'Brien, Napanee; "Model School Work" by J. H. Davidson, B.A., Bath. Public school, and other topics of interest and instruction to teachers will be discussed.

Mrs. D. A. VanLuven left yesterday to visit her parents at Albion, Mich. Mrs. Cleworth and daughter, Pearl, left yesterday for Chicago, where they will spend the winter with relatives. Rev. W. Limbert, Selby, took in the western excursion yesterday to visit relatives in Cleveland.

Miss Hypatia Fox returned last week from Buffalo, N.Y. Miss Harrison took in the western excursion yesterday for a visit with relatives in the west. Mrs. Dr. N. Wagar entertained a large number of her lady friends on Wednesday afternoon last.

A New Style Water Craft.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 28.—O. S. Winequist, expert ship builder, has completed a boat forty feet long which is propelled by foot power. His recent successful trial of a smaller boat of the same pattern caused him to build this large one. The part of the boat which appears above the water is identical with a tandem bicycle. The frame rests on two cigar-shaped tanks cylindrical in form. They are eighteen inches in diameter and filled with compressed air, thus making the boat buoyant and proof against swamping. The boat breats the waves well and can ride in quite a sea. The speed of the first water cycle was about twelve miles an hour.

Chicago Modiste Arraigned.

New York, Sept. 28.—Representatives of the Diamond match company, whose goods were seized by the customs authorities are being tried to-day. The examination of one woman who came over on the same boat with Mrs. Hall was conducted yesterday. The trunk which was seized contained in all 164 pieces of taxable goods. When the authorities went to find her she had left for Chicago. She was induced to return here and put in a claim for the goods. She was put under $2,000 bail.

Poor Quality Of the Blood

A Frequent Cause of Consumption and Other Constitutional Diseases—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Blood Builder.

To say that a person is predisposed to consumption by heredity is only another way of saying that he has inherited thin, watery blood. Anaemia, bloodlessness, or deficiency in the quality of the blood, is a prime cause of consumption, catarrh and other constitutional diseases.

The heart, the lungs, the liver, the kidneys and bowels cannot perform their functions when supplied with blood which is deficient in nutritive qualities, and sooner or later the weakest organs succumb to the attacks of disease.

The indications of thin, watery blood are paleness of the lips, gums and eyelids, shortness of breath, languid, depressed feelings, and general weakness of the body. The anaemic person is easily tired and lacks energy and ambition. These symptoms are usually accompanied by nervousness and sleeplessness.

It is positively useless to doctor the symptoms and injurious to use opiates or stimulants. Any temporary relief obtained by a quickening of the heart's action is dearly paid for by the re-action afterwards. Cure can be brought about gradually and certainly by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form all the elements required for the strengthening and vitalizing of the blood.

Whether inherited or brought about by overwork, disease or bad habits, thin blood can be enriched and restored to its natural consistency by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This treatment is not a miracle worker, but supplies to the blood the very elements of nature which go to form new, red corpuscles in the blood.

A. T. P. Lalame, railway agent at Clarenceville, Que., writes: "For twelve years I have been run down with much nervous debility. I suffered much, and consulted doctors, and used medicines in vain. Some months ago I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, used two boxes, and my health improved so rapidly that I ordered twelve more.

"I can say, frankly, that this treatment has no equal in the medical world. While using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could feel my system being built up until now I am strong and healthy. I cannot recommend it too highly for weak, nervous people."

At this season of the year nearly everybody suffers the evil effects of artificial winter life. It is not a purgative that is needed. That would make the body still weaker. The blood is thin and needs enriching by just such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which is a blood-builder of inestimable value. Fifty cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
