THE CURIOSITY SHOP.

Where the Day Begins—Imaginary Line 180 Degs. West of Greenwich.

Is there any imaginary line on the earth in any particular place where the days change? In traveling around the world from east to west a day is lost, for the same reason that if one could go around the world in twenty-four hours in the same direction, he would retain the same relative position to the sun; he would travel with the sun, as it were, and there would be no succession of day and night. So, in traveling more leisurely westward, a certain amount of time is added to each day, which in making the circuit of the earth, would amount to an entire day. In order, therefore, to adjust his reckoning to the calendar of the place which he left, he must at some point in his journey pass over one day of that calendar, as if he had not lived the whole time, by lengthening every day in his journey. Navigators have agreed to make the change in the 180th degree east or west of Greenwich. When they reach this meridian, sailing westward, they drop a day; when they reach it sailing eastward, they repeat a day. There is no other point or line on the world's surface so favorable for making the change in reckoning, for dropping or adding a day, as that which has been taken by navigators, the prime meridian, 180 degs. This line falls in the Pacific ocean, where there are no inhabitants to be affected by the change, except on the scattered islands.

Three of a Kind.

1. John Jones has a son, John Jones, Jr. John Jones dies. Does John Jones, Jr., become John Jones? In course of time he has a son John Jones. Is the last one Jr. or 3d, or is the second one always Jr.?

At John Jones' death John Jones, Jr., becomes John Jones. His son, the first Jones being dead, becomes John Jones, Jr.

2. John Smith has a son, John Smith, Jr., and a grandson (through another son), John Smith, 3d. John Smith dies. Does John Smith, Jr., become John Smith, and what is the designation of John Smith, 3d?

John Smith, Jr., becomes John Smith, and John Smith, 3d, becomes John Smith, Jr.

3. William Brown has a son, William Brown, Jr., and a grandson, William Brown, 3d. William Brown, Jr., dies. What is the designation of William Brown, 3d?

William Brown, Jr.

"A Chestnut."

The following is offered for the origin of the phrase, "a chestnut:" There is a melodrama entitled the "Broken Sword." Two of the dramatis personæ are Capt. Zavier and Pablo. The captain is wofully given to lying, and in relating one of his lurid exploits he begins:

"I entered the wood of Collaway, when suddenly from the thick boughs of a cork tree"——

Pablo (interrupting)—A chestnut, captain, a chestnut!

Capt. Zavier—Bah! booby, I say a cork tree.

Pablo (reiterating)—A chestnut. I should know as well as you, having heard you tell the tale these twenty-seven times.

The Twelve Labors.

The "Twelve Labors of Hercules" were as follows: 1. The fight with the Nemean lion; 2. The fight with the Lernæn hydra; 3. The capture of the Arcadian stag; 4. The hunt of the Erymanthus into Psophis; 5. The cleaning of the Augean stables; 6. The destruction of the Stymphalian birds; 7. The capture of the Cretan bull; 8. The abduction of the mares of Diomedes; 9. The seizure of the girdle of Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons, which she had received from Mars; 10. The capture of the oxen of Geryones; 11. The getting of the golden apples of the Hesperides; 12. The seizure of Cerebrus, the dog that guarded the entrance to Hades.

An Error in Grammar.

The expressions, "She looks beautifully," and "I feel badly," are held to be incorrect, because "beautifully" and "badly" are adverbial forms. When you say "she looks beautifully" you don't mean that the act performed by her eyes is a beautiful one. You mean that she is beautiful in person; therefore "she looks beautiful" is the correct way of stating your opinion. The same holds good with "I feel badly." It is the state of your physical or mental condition that is meant, not the way in which you would feel an object. "I feel bad" is correct.

A Tradition.

The origin of the tradition that the cackling of geese saved Rome is as follows: When the Gauls invaded the region a detachment in single file clambered up the hill of the capitol so silently that the foremost man reached the top of the hill without being challenged; but while he was striding over the rampart some sacred geese, disturbed by the noise, began to cackle and awoke the garrison. Marcus Manlius rushed to the wall and hurled the fellow over the precipice. To commemorate this event the Romans carried a golden goose in procession to the capitol every year.

Alphabets.

The Sandwich Islands alphabet has 12 letters; the Burmese, 19; Italian, 20; Bengalese, 21; Hebrew, Syrian, Chaldee and Samaritan, 22 each; French, 23; Greek, 24; Latin, 25; German, Dutch and English, 26 each; Spanish and Sclavonic, 27 each; Arabic, 28; Persian and Coptic, 32; Georgian, 35; Armenian, 38; Russian, 41; Muscovite, 43; Sanscrit and Japanese, 50; Ethiopic and Tartarian, 202 each.

Food of Plants.

The food of plants consists of C.O2, absorbed from the air, and H2.O.N., from the soil. Also, certain minerals. The foregoing are chemical symbols, the first representing one part of carbon to two parts of oxygen, and the second two parts of hydrogen, one part of oxygen and one part of nitrogen.

End of the Civil War.

The civil war ended in 1866. Congress, by its act of March 2, 1867, and the supreme court of the United States, in the case of the United States against Anderson, reported in 9 Wallace, 51, decided that the proclamation of the president, dated Aug. 20, 1866, formally closed the war.

Ever Present.

What chemical compound is universally present in living things? Protoplasm. All that is known of it is that it is a highly complicated compound containing oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen and carbon. When it dies it decomposes and is no longer protoplasm.

Sheep and Product.

The number of sheep in the United States was estimated as 44,000,000 in 1886. The wool product of the same year was 285,000,000 pounds. Australia's product was 284,000,000 pounds in 1881. The sheep numbered 61,642,000.

It takes an unusually self-satisfied man to be arrogant and haughty in a pair of frayed trousers.

A reporter at Manchester, Eng., being unable to find any startling news, attempted suicide and wrote a column about it.

Professor Gauthier, of Paris, states that certain vital processes of the body develop putrefying substances in the tissues, which if not speedily eliminated, produce disease. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effects the removal of these substances, and thereby preserves health.

At Syracuse, N. Y., dentist furnished a horse with five false teeth, but had only begun to brag about it when the old sorrel swallowed them down with his oats.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

KINGSTON LONG AGO.

Extracts Taken From the Montreal "Gazette" And a Church Corner Stone.

The Montreal Gazette prints some of the contents of the paper found in the corner stone of the dismantled St. James' street church. It bears date thirty-four years ago. Among the extracts are the following of local interest:

"The corporation and butchers at Kingston had been at loggerheads. The butchers who would not give up their stalls in some old shambles as the by-law enacted, had been fined and sent to prison for thirty days, and were about to sue out a writ of habeas corpus."

"On the 21st May frost had occurred at Kingston to the injury the fruit blossoms, potatoes and vegetables. The cold dip had evidently been a widespread one, as an extract from the Quebec Gazette mentioned damage done in the vicinity of Boston, in New Jersey and Niagara."

"An extract from the Kingston Herald says: 'On Friday was tried an act of ejectment, brought by the Ven. Archdeacon Stuart against John R. Forsyth, to recover a small piece of land adjoining the town of Kingston. The question, however, involved principles that affect the title to above forty acres of land, the archdeacon's lot (24) being deficient to the amount. The case turned on two points, what was the true boundary of the lots, and whether the defendant had been in possession twenty years? The jury found for the defendant, on the ground that Collins' line is the true boundary, and by it the land was defendant's. On being questioned by the judge as to their opinion on the other point they did not consider the defendant had had possession twenty years. The archdeacon intends to move for a new trial.'"

Health Preserved

Is, without doubt, the jewel of great price, and the one least valued. Disregard of symptoms that clearly indicate abnormal action of the liver, stomach or bowels is nothing less than criminal. Health, through neglect, too often vanishes like a "Will o' the Wisp," and the anxious seeker secures but pain and disappointment for his labour. No aid towards the preservation of health can surpass Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. These pills, being composed of vegetable substances, exert their remedial action without the evil effects too often following the use of pills containing mercury. For all bilious disorders they will even prove a positive specific. Hamilton's Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine and by Polson & Co., Kingston.

Betting in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Democratic betting men, who have put up $30,000 in three even $10,000 bets, are not willing to take odds offered by republicans. Ex-Sheriff Albert Daggett, Brooklyn, is looking for some one to put $95,000 against the $100,000 in favor of Gen. Harrison. Mr. Daggett was earnest, energetic and hopeful of finding some ardent believer in Cleveland, who would meet his offer, but has not succeeded. He offers to put up $50,000 against $40,000 upon the same issue.
