EDITORIAL NOTES

Remembrance Day is not observed for the special privilege of hunters.

* * *

The Canadian dollar is at par with United States funds. This shows that Canada's future prospects are of the brightest.

* * *

So far "Old Man Depression" has outwitted its pursuers who have wished it strangled, and appearances are that it will soon be caught.

* * *

The lid is being pried off the hockey pot for this season and Thursday night the professional league commences. "King" Clancy, Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and others will again be the heroes of the small boy as supermen in hockey circles.

* * *

These are anxious times for the farmers residing near the main highways with so many transients travelling from town and staying for the night at any convenient point. Several fires near Flesherton recently have been laid to these men carelessly throwing used matches away, or in other ways causing losses to buildings. There is no way to prevent this hazard except by padlocking each door and this might not be very effective either. A constant watch should be kept by the farmer at all times and any suspicious characters kept moving.

* * *

Mortgages for Hydro systems in seveny-seven Ontario municipalities have been cleared up, but Flesherton does not belong to this preferred class. There are eleven years yet for the mortgage to run, as it was for thirty years. How some of these places, which gave a mortgage at the same time Flesherton did, can have enough funds on hand at present to retire them and still provide service at cost is beyond us. To do so they are charging higher rates than is required. If so it is not fair to their present customers, who are paying more than their share in buying the system.

The Advance is indebted to Mr. A. W. Wright, editor of the Mount Forest Confederate for a copy of pioneer journalism in the County of Wellington, relating to the history of every paper that has been published in that county. This book should be more valuable in future years. A few years ago Mr. Wright published a book "Pioneer Days in Nichol" and since then a second edition has received a warm response from citizens interested in the history of Nichol and district. We know that Mr. Wright's work will be appreciated, as every community should have a history available of its past life, the associations of which would become more valuable with the years.

Takes Optimistic Attitude Towards Ontaria Fairs

"For very definite reasons," stated J. A. Carroll, superintendent of Horticultural Societies, "I am convinced that the near future will, once again see the Fall Fair as an institution of real importance in the farming life of Ontario."

Mr. Carroll, in his official capacity has visited some 28 fairs commencing with the Canadian National Exhibition. He points out that gate receipts are increasing generally and in some cases, this increase is as much as thirty or forty per cent. over last year.

"Crops in general being earlier this year," he said, "has resulted in giving more farmers time to attend the fairs Then again, economic conditions have had much to do with increased attendance. Where in the past farmers would turn to the city for relaxation, a less expensive entertainment is now the order of the day. Fall fairs answer this need."

More attractive prizes and the program of Junior Work has been carried on for over twenty years now, and this program is beginning to bear fruit, inasmuch as an entirely new generation is added to the attendance of these annual functions.

"For these reasons," he concluded "I cannot take anything but an optimistic attitude towards the future of the fall fair in Ontario."

To discover there is no reason for worrying is a pleasant sensation.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

During a recent thunderstorm a bull was killed by lightning in W. E Baker's stable, Centre Road, Mono. Next day some of the school children reported that the current had passed right through the animal. In proof, they stated that the ring in the bull's nose was blackened and the hair on the tail scorched. Now what better evidence could the court ask?

LONG-HEADED BILLY

Billy had sprained his wrist and didn't want to go to school. "But your wrist is nicely bandaged," urged his mother, "it won't prevent you from going." Still the boy held back "Now tell me," commanded his mother, "what is the real reason why you do not want to go to school with a bandaged wrist?" "Too many of the boys owe me a licking," replied Billy.

THINK THIS OVER

Pierre Van Paassen declares there is freedom in Russia for only one class, the workers and the poorest peasants. All the others are mercilessly ground to pieces. That is something for those who admire the Soviet system to think over.—Peterborough Examiner.

One word won't tell you very much,
You've got to keep on talking.
One step won't take you very far,
You've got to keep on walking.
And just one ad' won't do it all,
You've got to keep 'em going.
