CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.—The city of London is in a flutter over the approach of the so-called and misnamed Needle of Cleopatra. The vessel containing the monolith is daily expected. There is no parallel in British history for the receipt of an Egyptian obelisk. The people generally are nonplussed, and feel as if they were getting something of an elephant on their hands. Were it only human, the Lord Mayor could present it with the freedom of the city, Wales could ask it to dinner, and Cambridge get up a sham fight in its honor; but it cannot speak, has neither mouth nor eyes, and can only stand up and think. The greatest difficulty seems to arise from knowing where to place it. Parliament Square, the front of the British Museum, the Thames embankment, have all been suggested, and objected to. Meanwhile the authorities have placed a wooden model in one of the squares, in order to try the effect. The needle, when it does arrive, will be about the oldest and quaintest relic in England. Egyptologists seem to agree that the two obelisks, of which that now approaching the Thames is one, were originally erected at Heliopolis by Thothmes III., who reigned about 1500 B. C. London, with its ancient landmarks, will appear to this venerable block of syenite a mere chick.

LOVED HER PROFESSION.—The "only romance of her life," the late Mlle. Titiens used to say, occurred soon after her first appearance on the operatic stage, at fifteen years of age. A gentleman of position and fortune sought her hand but required her to abandon the stage. Her friends urged her to accept the offer and finally a probation of six months was given, in which, in retirement, her decision should be made. Though strong inducements were made to her to yield, at the end of the time she discarded her lover and chose her art.

The Peruvian Syrup.

Is an iron tonic, prepared expressly to supply the Blood with its iron element. Being free from alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron constitution. It is an excellent substitute for wine or brandy where a stimulant is needed. Sold by all druggists.
