The Canadian Medical Association.

The Association is to hold its meeting in Toronto for the first time on the 8th of September and following days. Preparations are being made by the medical gentlemen of Toronto for the reception and entertainment of the members of the Association expected to make easier Provinces and the United States. In the mother country several small societies, South, English and Irish, have for years had annual gatherings, under the name of a larger body, called the Medical Association of Great Britain. The American Medical Association is composed of properly elected delegates from the several societies of the Counties and States. In both countries a vast deal of valuable information has been furnished to members, through journals which they contribute largely to maintain. Two meetings in October, the Quebec medical society invited their confreres from the other Provinces and Universities in the Dominion to meet them at Quebec, in order to discuss professional topics after the manner of European and American medical organizations. At that meeting Quebec was represented by 133 members, Ontario 20, Nova Scotia 7, and New Brunswick 4. At a second meeting at Montreal in 1868, brought out a representation of 103 from Quebec, 27 from Ontario, 4 from Nova Scotia, and 9 from New Brunswick. Committees were then formed on registration, statistics and hygiene, and the discussions did a great deal towards settling upon the examinations and education of medical students, consonant with British regulations and the provisions of the late Dr. Parker's bill. The ground work was somewhat similar, but not so thoroughly prepared as that of the new Medical Act for Ontario. The profession in Ontario have recently been roused to special activity by the announcement that the Medical Society of Quebec has shown hostility to the new Ontario bill, and have delegated Dr. Russell, of Quebec, to assist in overthrowing the law passed by our Legislature. It is hardly to be supposed, after the recent exhaustive discussions of the Act, that the profession in Ontario will be likely to yield much to a few illiberal individuals. —Globe.

The Strike at Quebec.

The ship carpenters strike at Quebec has assumed somewhat rather startling proportions. Telegrams from Quebec of Sept. 1st say:—"The rioters yesterday attacked an inoffensive young man named Early on Peter street, knocked him down, kicked him violently about the head, and jumped on him. Rescue just arrived in time to prevent him from being killed. No violence occurred to day. Not a vessel in port is working, and the Lower Town wears the aspect of Sabbath. The strike continues. Warrants were issued against some twenty men of the Society for assault on Clarke and his men. City and Water Police and seventeen police from Montreal, armed with carbines, paraded Lower Town from ten to three o'clock, but failed to make arrests. Towards two a.m. labourers commenced to pass at the foot of Mountain Hill, and things looked threatening; the troops were called out, three companies remaining under arms for over an hour, when there being no necessity for them, they were marched back again.

Millais, the English painter, on being asked to paint the portrait of a Manchester millionaire, declined, but was finally induced to set the, as he supposed prohibitive price of $10,000. The offer was accepted, however, and is the largest price ever paid to a painter for one picture.

The Mastodon.

On the same day that we received the news of the discovery of Mastodon remains near Burlington New Jersey, a California paper brought intelligence of the exhumation of the huge tusks and bones of the exhumation of the huge tusks and bones of the same animal near Oakland, California. The California editor is a good deal puzzled over the singular find and invites the Academy of Natural Sciences of his state to look into and explain it. Here in the East, and also in the South and many western States, the disinterment of mastodon skeletons in whole or in fragments, is so common as to have ceased to excite astonishment. The opening up of almost every new marl pit, peat bed and salt lick brings them to light. It is evident at one time—at a very late geological period—masses of one were the most abundant of quadrupeds, ranging over the American continent in droves probably as large as those of the buffalo at the present time on the far western prairies. The habitat of the animal was the whole temperate zone, though the climate and products of what are now the middle, western and southern States seem to have been most suited to its tastes. Thus far the remains of the mastodon have been chiefly found in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas, though specimens have been occasionally dug up in British North America and even as far north as the sixty-fifth parallel. The first nearly complete skeleton ever taken out was discovered in Orange county New York, early in the present century, and was taken to London for exhibition and afterwards placed in Peale's Museum, Philadelphia. The swamps about Newburgh, New York, are rich in the fossil treasures, and it is from these sources that the museums of the country have been supplied with such curiosities. One perfect skeleton was found in Newburg last year, and digging for them in the old swampy ground of that region would probably reveal hundreds of others. The same remark is true of swamps everywhere on this continent. The mastodon probably resorted to them to drink or feed on the roots of water plants, and becoming mired, was unable to extricate itself, and sank lower and lower into the treacherous mud or quicksands, and was there drowned or suffocated. Since then decaying vegetation has gradually filled up the swamps, and the mastodon is now buried at a depth of from ten to fifty feet below the surface. This explains the frequent occurrence of its bones in marl and peat formations, and also in the salt licks of the West, to which the mastodons flocked at different seasons of the year. Of the genus mastodon giganteus there are estimated to be about thirty varieties, differing from each other in trifling respects. In general appearance and size they resembled the Asiatic elephant. The skeletons are from ten to twelve feet high, and from sixteen to twenty feet long, with tusks projecting from seven to nine feet beyond the sockets, and twenty-four teeth, the largest of which are about eight inches long on top and seven inches deep, thigh bone nearly a foot through at the thickest part, and fore feet nearly two feet diameter. At some stage in the history of the earth, prior, it is supposed, to the appearance of the mastodon on this continent, the creature flourished in Siberia; and the finding of its tusk, known as 'fossil ivory,' constitutes an important trade in that part of the world even to this day.

BOILS.

Like the volcano, Boils give issue to the foul and fiery contents of the deep interior. To remove the cause of such suffering it is only necessary to vitalize the Blood by supplying it with its Life Element, Iron.

THE PERUVIAN SYRUP,

(a protected solution of the Protoxide of Iron) will do this effectually, and give strength, vigor and new life to the whole system.

Extract of a Letter from Rev. Richard S. Eden, of Bolton, Mass.

"For years I was a sufferer from Boils, so that my life became wearisome through their frequent and persistent recurrence; finally a carbuncle formed in the small of my back. During its progress large pieces of decomposed flesh were every day or two cut, and the prostration and general disturbance of the system were great. Before I had recovered from this attack two smaller carbuncles broke out higher up, and I was again threatened with a recurrence of the sufferings to which I had so long been subjected. It was at this time that I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP. I continued taking it until I had used five bottles; since then I have had nothing of the kind. For years I was one of the greatest sufferers. Other medicines gave me partial and temporary relief, but this a remarkable remedy, with a kind and intuitive sense, went directly to the root of the evil, and did its work with a thoroughness worthy of its established character."

A 32 page Pamphlet sent free. The genuine has "PERUVIAN SYRUP" blown in the glass.

The Colossal Golden Chariot,

Which for gorgeous grandeur and magnificence is utterly unparalleled in any country on the face of the globe, and it may be as well here to state the correctness of which is beyond dispute, that

The Vans, Dens & Cages

Belonging to the Great Golden Menagerie are constructed and ornamented with a style and finish entirely new and original with the great Menagerie Company, and undoubtedly surpassing in point of dazzling brilliancy and artistic execution anything the world ever dreamed of. Distinct Vision.

THE CELEBRATED
Pantescopic Spectacles

ARE constructed in accordance with the philosophy of Nature, in the form of a
CONCAVE-CONVEX ELLIPSIS.

They are admirably adapted to the Organs of Sight, and afford the best artificial help to the human vision ever invented. A peculiar and important feature in these Spectacles is witnessed where people have been obliged to resort to Glasses from physical debility having temporarily affected their vision. In such cases the eye regains its healthy powers, and the Glasses can be laid aside without injury; while other kinds of Spectacles, when once worn, cannot be dispensed with.
