The Decline in Value of Property—A New Sheltering Apparatus—Statistics Regarding Poultry—The Great Coal Mines in the North-West.

Begin your week well, and enjoy you with things.

It's a question of a red or green with the English reformers.

A sermon, to be effective, must sink down at the motives that stir the souls.

The man who lives a single life is not to be expected to be single in purpose.

Does the devil make man so bad, or is it the man who makes the devil so bad?

The patient camels have been called "ships of the desert." It is all plain sailing with them.

In one respect the north pole is like a woman's pocket. It is very difficult to find, but it's there just the same.

Madge—"Do you ever really get an answer to your prayers?" Rev. Mr. Wiggins—"Often." Madge—"Negative or positive?"

The late August Belmont's wealth is estimated all the way from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 by the New York papers.

Some people sing in meter long,
"O Lord, thy will be done!"
But when it comes to doing it
They're busy with number one.

"They say I boss my husband," exclaimed an indignant lady. "Then all I can say is that he has a charming boss," replied the diplomat.

Sunday-School Teacher—"And why do you say your prayers before you go to bed, Johnny?" Johnny—"Cuss I'd get licked if I didn't."

Preacher (to 3-year-old scholar)—"Lulu, what do you go to Sunday-school for?" Little Lulu (with finger in her mouth)—"To see Dickie Johnson."

I play with Satan for six days,
The seventh go to church—
And thus I leave the wicked ways
Of Satan in the lurch.

"I'd think that contortionist would be afraid to go through those tricks." "Why should he be afraid?" "He doesn't seem to have any backbone."

Jay Gould has bought the extensive works of the Hutchinson Salt Company at Hutchinson, Ks., whose plant is said to be the largest in the United States.

Brown—"Pendleton is a very entertaining fellow; don't you think so?" Fagg—"Yes, but the deuce of it is you can't begin to laugh until after he has gone."

Gazzam—"How long do you suppose a man can live without eating?" Mahlon—"I don't know. Have no personal experience. I advertise largely, you know."

Julian Hawthorne is only six feet high, is broad shouldered and looks like a short-haired, moderated edition of his father, who wrote "The Scarlet Letter."

"Dress makes the man," we often hear,
And self-made men are deemed excessive;
But women never will appear,
Unless she's poor, in self-made dresses.

"Is the baroness at home?" "Yes, sir. Walk right up." "Hadn't you better announce me?" "No, I think not. If I were to announce you I don't think she'd be at home."

"Yes," said Gus de Jay, "I have had some very trying experiences. I was struck senseless once." "And when," inquired Miss Pepperton, archly, "do you expect to recover?"

While the ex-emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro, was attending the scientific lectures and meetings at Paris the furniture of his former palace of Boa Vista was being sold at auction.

General Jubal A. Early declined to receive in charge a five-dollar bill recently because it bore the vignette of General Grant. The general's lottery company is not so particular.

A movement is on foot in California to raise a fund of $6,000 to provide Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont with a suitable home, and $1,000 of the required amount has already been secured.

The sultan of Turkey has written a new comedy drama in the French language and hopes to have it acted in Paris. It deals with the subject of "The Doll's House" from a Mussulman standpoint.

[illegible] anti-slavery agitator, is very wealthy, having amassed money from the wool business. He is literary in his tastes, takes an active interest in politics and is a democrat.

Count Tolstoi is described as wearing usually only such coarse clothing as is worn by the poor classes. His shirt is worn outside of his trousers, in the fashion of the moujik, and is gathered in to the waist by a leather belt.

"Would not be well if all the world were good,
Because—and this is one of many samples—
If all men were, where would the clergy get
Their sinners for their horrible examples?

"Ah," said the church reformer sadly, "I never see a church fair like this without thinking of the money changers in the temple." "I don't see the resemblance," replied the young man, with equal sadness. "There's no money changing here; whatever you give 'em they keep."

Robert Garrett, since his return to Baltimore, is reported to be "looking like himself again." "Mr. Garrett looks as well," said a gentleman who met him on the street, "that no one who sees him can refrain from expressing pleasure at the visible proofs of his rapid restoration to health."

Senator Evarts remarked to a Washington reporter recently: "I think now that if I were standing where I was fifty-three years ago and journalism was what it now is I should choose as the business of my life that of a journalist. I can see in it greater possibilities than are embraced in other professions."

Frederic Remington, the artist, as much at home in the saddle as any cavalryman, has been out with General Miles to the seat of the Indian troubles, and is now home again. But he enriched his collection of Indian curios and his knowledge of the Indian and the horse, three lines in which he is without a rival.

Mr. Bancroft goes out for a walk almost daily in Washington, but he has a muscular valet with him all the time. His silver-white hair is partly hid beneath a black silk cap, the visor of which shades his eyes from the sun. His overcoat is buttoned closely around his spare form and his broad shoulders his throat from the wind.

Miss Sabra Seamans, of Factoryville, Pa., a thrifty householder seventy-three years of age, does her own domestic work, keeps a large bemery, takes care of her garden, weaves hundreds of yards of rag carpet every year and works out her road tax with shovel, hoe and wheelbarrow and with an honest thoroughness that makes the heart of the pathmaster to rejoice.

Dr. Kerr, a medical missionary of the Presbyterian board at Canton, has in the last thirty-six years treated over 70,000 patients, and has prepared twenty-seven medical and surgical books. He has trained 100 medical assistants, chiefly Chinese. China now possesses 194 hospitals and dispensaries, at which in 1889 more than 348,000 patients received treatment.

Solid Facts For Smokers.

Reasons why S. Davis & Sons maintain the quality of their brands. It has taken the best part of a lifetime to establish them. They have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars to introduce them. Having obtained the confidence of the public they wish to merit a continuance of same. A deterioration of quality in their brands would not alone destroy the structure upon which they have spent their time, money and labor, but would result in a loss of that confidence the public have favored them with that money again spent in advertising to introduce new brands could not purchase. Therefore, is it to be supposed that any sane business man would be so foolish as to destroy in a short time what it has taken so long to establish. Their brands, "Cable," "Mungo," "El Padre" and "Madre e Hijo," are undoubtedly the best value, the safest and most reliable smoke, and cost us more to the consumer than cigars of a much inferior quality. Why smoke other brands or permit dealers (for the sake of additional gain) to sell you these that you are in most cases unfamiliar with.

NO RELAPSE AFTER CURE.

Treatment.—Rub the parts freely with St. Jacobs Oil, rub hard and vigorously, producing warmth, and if the pain is slow in yielding, strap the parts in flannel steeped in hot water and wring out.

The Question Troubling the Sabbath Reformers—The Wealth of the Late August Belmont—Some Very Trying Experiences—His Real Objection

At the census of 1891 the population of British India was found to be 198,735,000, showing a density of 222 persons per square mile.

All birds of great and sustained powers of flight have one well-marked characteristic—they have long wings, with sharply pointed ends.

The great chemical trust in England has been registered as the United Alkali Company, with a capital of $50,000,000 in $50 shares.

A small estate in Lincolnshire which sold for $71,000 in 1870 and has since had $2,000 put into additional buildings brought $10,500 last week.

Up to the end of October the loss from fires in the United States and Canada for the year 1890 was $18,795,805 less than for the corresponding ten months in 1889.

It has been said that one of the strong strokes of nature was when she made the "loon," a bird which represents the wildness and solitariness of the wildest and most solitary spots.

Collections of portraits are a late artistic hobby. Just now in Pennsylvania those of Martha Washington, Grant, Hancock, Webster and others are in great demand with admirers of political bric-a-brac.

The effect of the electric light current on the compasses of some vessels is so great that it becomes necessary to determine how many hours the dynamo has been running before working out the vessel's reckoning.

A new sketching apparatus for cyclists has recently appeared in England. The paper is placed on a small board in front of the cyclist and the work can be roughly contoured in about half the time ordinarily required.

A shoe dealer says that girls between sixteen and eighteen have bigger feet than after twenty and twenty-four. The foot is fleshy at that time and large, but as years come the foot decreases and the muscles grow more firm.

Foot ball clubs are so popular and make so much money in England nowadays that many of them are converted into joint stock companies. The spectators seem to enjoy the fighting which is an inevitable accompaniment of the matches.

A trade journal has just published some statistics concerning poultry in France. It states that there are in the country 45,000,000 of hens, which, at an average price of 3 francs 50 centimes per head, represent a value of 812,050,000 francs.

In the year 1200 chimneys were scarcely known in England. One only was allowed in a religious house, one in a manor house and one in the great hall of a castle or lord's house, but in other houses the smoke found its way out as it could.

The sort of dance which has succeeded the can-can in the Paris dancing halls is known as the chahut. Mlle d'Digout is the leading teacher of its most prominent feature, the flounce-flinging trick, the foundation of skirt dancing.

The king of France had a falcon which escaped from Fontainebleau, and in twenty-four hours after was found in Malta, a space computed to be at not less than 1,350 miles, a velocity equal to fifty-six miles an hour, supposing the hawk to have been on the wing the whole time.

The late report of the secretary of the state board of agriculture in Kansas shows that twelve counties—Johnson, Miami, Franklin, Douglas, Leavenworth, Shawnee, Osage, Coffey, Waubunsee, Lyon, Greenwood and Butler—produced one-third of the entire corn crop of Kansas this year.

The great Lethbridge coal fields are tapped by a branch of the Canadian Pacific and the new Galt Railway from the Great Northern, in Montana. The coal company owns 65,000 acres of land in and around Lethbridge, for which they paid the dominion government $10 an acre.

Herodotus tells of sorcerers who once in every year had the power of assuming the semblance of wolves, and also tells of men who Marcellus Sidetes also tells of men who at the beginning of every year were seized with a form of madness, during which they hallooed themselves to be wolves or dogs, and spent the night prowling about burial grounds.

The Mariposa Gazette says: "While out hunting cattle near Ben Hur last Friday William Coughra's dog bayed a large deer. Will having noticed the deer it with sedative, kill it with a stone. The third stone he threw struck it behind the ear and killed it. This makes the third deer he has killed without a gun. About two years ago he lassoed one and cut its throat."

Strictly speaking, the only precious stones are the diamond, ruby, sapphire and emerald, though the term is often extended to the opal, notwithstanding its lack of hardness, and to the pearl, which is not a mineral, but strictly an animal product. Popularly a gem is a precious or semi-precious stone, when cut or polished for ornamental purposes.

Talking about coffee and nerves, there is a rich New York restaurateur who is said to have made himself a physical wreck through his pride in serving good coffee to his customers. In big restaurants the coffee is put in a sieve or bag inside an urn and then steam is turned on to boil it. The cooks are apt to begin to serve it before the beans are well steamed. The restaurant keeper in question tested every brewing of coffee in his place for years, and allowed none to be served until it was rich and strong. Of course he always added the usual two ounces of chicory to each pound of coffee. He nearly killed himself. He shakes like a leaf in a gale.

The twenty-eighth annual report of the government cinchona plantation and factory in British Sikkim has been issued. At the end of the financial year 1889-90 the plantation consisted of 4,682,404 trees of various ages and of a nursery stock amounting to 264,000 seedlings. The crop collected during the year amounted to 334,705 pounds. The products of the factory were 1,833½ pounds of sulphate of quinine and 6,578 pounds of febrifuge. The whole of the quinine and the greater part of the febrifuge were manufactured by the new fusel-oil process, and as the arrangements for working this process were quite completed during the year the old acid-and-alkali method of manufacture has now been definitively abandoned.

Down in Durham, Me., they are laughing at the coolness of a clergyman who was called to South West Bend Sunday night to marry a couple. He had nearly completed the ceremony, when, hearing a noise outside, he glanced through the window and saw his team running past and nobody in the wagon. He rushed to the door, too late to stop the runaway, but he could hear the rattle of the wheels as it sped over the country road out toward West Durham. The probability of his carriage being wrecked and his horses injured, if not killed, did not appear to distress the divine, for he went back into the house, remarked that he guessed he'd finish the ceremony before starting out in the darkness after the team. The balance of the ceremony was performed, then the runaway team was captured three miles away.
