Grey County Judicial Expenses Reduced

Administration of justice in the county of Grey last year cost $25,390.90, which shows a reduction of over $4,000 from similar items in the previous year, due to the fact that the province ordered a reduction of 20 per cent. in all fees.

The items making up the costs were as follows:

|---|---|
| Criminal justice | $ 9,662.47 |
| Judicial expenses | 11,707.44 |
| Jury expenses | 2,188.45 |
| Crown witnesses | 1,226.00 |
| Inquests and jurors | 606.54 |

The last three items are not much different than in the previous year, there have been substantial reductions in the other two items. The criminal justice accounts dropped from $14,019 to $11,707.

The criminal justice accounts are made up of numerous payments to coroners and constables, as well as supplies of milk, bread, meat, clothing, etc., for the Grey county gaol, and also includes salaries for the clerk of the peace, crown attorney, sheriff, gaoler, turnkey, matron, caretaker and guards. The gaoler got a salary of $1,200 and his wife an additional $300 as matron. The turnkey was paid $900, the caretaker $600 and a guard $1,017. Over $2,000 went to W. D. Henry as clerk of the peace and crown attorney, and $1,100 to Sheriff Breese.

The judicial expenses also show a wide range of items, for constables, court stenographers, for provincial police account, stationery and supplies, and some of the bigger items were as follows: court reporter, $600; juvenile judge, $500; crown attorney and clerk of the peace, $5,549; and sheriff, $1,126.53; Sheriff's constables for the spring assizes cost $140.10; for the supreme court $205.45; for the fall assizes $179.10.

Wilkie Trial Cost $978.

The jury expenses of nearly $2,200 were made up largely of $640.30 for 45 petit jurors for the spring assizes and $211.60 for twelve grand jurors; $450 for 45 jurors for the Wilkie murder trial which was held at Walkerton although Grey had to pay the shot, and $624.65 for 47 petit jurors for the fall assizes.

Crown winesses cost over $1,200, and the big items were in connection with the Wilkie trial, being $117.40 for the preliminary hearing at Owen Sound and $376.65 for the hearing at Walkerton. Grey also had to pay $20 for constables and $14 for taxis for the judge at the latter trial, and, adding up all these items, the murder hearing cost Grey nearly a thousand dollars, the actual figures being $978.55.

Inquest expenses and coroners' jurors cost the county $606.54. There was one local inquest, that into the death of John Love of Listowel, who met his death when a truck overturned south of Hanover.

The cost to the county was reduced by $7,183.31 received from the province as a share of judicial expenses, jury fees and crown witnesses. Subtracting this from the total cost of $25,390.90 leaves a net amount of $18,207.59 to be borne by the county.

ONTARIO

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
MOTOR VEHICLES BRANCH

AN OPEN LETTER TO PEDESTRIANS:

Are motorists right when they say you are more than half to blame?

While figures cannot be depended upon to tell the whole truth, last year's accident records leave no room for doubt that there are reckless walkers as well as reckless drivers.

Last year 2,821 pedestrians were killed or injured in Ontario in automotive accidents. Many of these persons came to grief while violating a simple rule of safety . . . crossing a street between intersections . . . crossing diagonally at intersections . . . crossing against traffic signals . . . "hitching" . . . or coming from behind parked vehicles. Of the total number, 1,107 were children playing in the street.

Records show that in many of these cases the driver never had a chance. Accidents happened while he was doing his best to drive safely!

This department is more deeply interested in making the streets and highways of Ontario safe, especially for children, than in any other public duty. The conscientious motorist has been appealed to in many ways; several of his privileges have been restricted in an effort to make life safe in traffic for all. I know that this appeal to the pedestrian will find ready response among those who walk more often than they drive, and especially in the hearts of fathers and mothers of little children.

Will you co-operate? Will you help to stem the tide of needless bereavement and suffering by observing the simple rules of safe walking that make all the difference between safety and the jeopardy of life and limb? And you parents — will you not give your children a chance by teaching them the need of care for their own safety?
